East Prairie Grads Realize Responsibilities of Life

By SHIRLEY PRITCHETT
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

EAST PRAIRIE — Some 104 graduating East Prairie High School seniors took their last walk together here Tuesday night as parents, grandparents and friends, many with damp eyes, watched them make their entry from the calm of high school accomplishments into the turbulent and chaotic world of today, as they received diplomas depicting their completion of high school endeavours.

The graduates had decided to forego the usual invitation of a guest speaker and instead designated four members of their class to give their ideas of "Educational Opportunities and Responsibilities."

And the quartet did a magnificient job of their undertaking as Odie Lingle, Darlene Staples, the class valedictorian; Betty Krauss and Lloyd Smith outlined what they thought the class owed to their parents, their teachers, their community and themselves. And, as Smith said in his closing remarks "We have all been very proud of America and being Americans. Now it is time for us to make America proud of us."

Lingle had told how the students had, individually and collectively, recognized that the class of 104 had proven to be 104 problems for parents, relatives and teachers. Now we have finished and we feel that "we will be able to show you that we are worthy of the trials, the anguish and the worry we have caused as we go forth and fashion lifes that make us worthy of that work and trust."

Miss Staples, daughter of Mr. Sidney Staples and Mrs. Ruth Pingleton, pointed out that "education involves a lot more than just facts and formulas. It is a means to visualize and to obtain the American dream, an America that will become even greater because we have striven to make it better. This now our opportunity and we must make the most of it." she added.

Miss Krauss, stressing the need for "aiding our homes, our community and ourselves and thereby, in so doing, benefit mankind generally, pointed out that the America of today, despite its dissension and apparent immorality is still a great America. We must go forward, using the education we have received to make the future not one of riots, of burnings, of terror and death in the streets but a fruitful, ever advancing land, where the will of the majority for a tranquail and prosperous land will be realized.

She had finished close behind Miss Staples for class honors, registering a 10.5000 grade average of a possible 11 point perfect achievement. Miss Staples, finishing with a remarkable 10.914 average, for her four high school years. She is a member of the Student Council, the Photography Club, president of the National Honor Society and has receiveda Degree of Honor in the National Forensic Society. Brenda is secretary of the Library and the Photography Club.

The speakers were introduced by Supt. William Ray Melton, with Principal Robert E. Grassle presenting the class and Clayton Allstun, president of the board of education, presenting the diplomas.

The graduation was one of best attended in the school's history with license plates from more than a dozen states attesting to the interest of friends and relatives of the graduating seniors.

The Class motto was "Ever Forward, Never Backward." The flower was the White Carnation and the colors red and white.

Noranda Halted

NEW MADRID — Bruce R. Allen, Noranda Aluminum, Inc., confirmed Tuesday that all work on the Noranda project in the St. Jude Industrial Park, was being temporarily discontinued.

Kaiser Engineers, contractors, had reluctantly made the decision because insufficient employees belonging to pipe fitters, operating engineers and laborers unions were reporting for work.

The continued absence of these employees has made it impossible for work to be made available for the other union members who have honored their agreements and reported for work.

Mr. Allen stated that Noranda was sorry to have to agree to the shutdown of construction activities and the resultant loss of the income to the employees.

He also repeated his earlier statement to the effect that the only apparent disagreement between the unions and the contractors involved, was regarding the proposed installation of a gas pipeline to the plat site from Marston.

This pipeline is to be installed and owned by Associated Natural Gas Company, who plan on installing it, using their own employees.

$2.6 Billion Foreign Aid Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today for $2.6 billion in foreign aid —some $900 million more than was voted last year—saying the sum is "necessary to meet essential requirements now."

"Foreign aid must be viewed as an integral part of our overall effort to achieve a world order of peace and justice," Nixon said in sending up his first foreign aid program.

The $2.6 billion includes $2.2 billion for U.S. economic assistance to developing countries around the world, $375 million for arms aid abroad and $75 million to help start a public corporation to promote private investment in developing lands.

The Nixon program for the new fiscal year, starting July 1, is about $63 million below what former President Lyndon B. Johnson had proposed.

"This request for foreign economic and military assistance is the lowest proposed since the program began" after World War II, Nixon said, "but it is about $900 million more than was appropriated last year" when Congress lopped nearly $1.2 billion off Johnson's program.

"I consider it necessary to meet essential requirements now, and to maintain a base for future action," Nixon said.

Nixon's new foreign aid chief Dr. John A. Hannah, said the $2.6 billion request was "just right" but acknowledged that Congress has historically tended to chop into the aid packages presented by successive Democratic and Republican administrations.

The initial Nixon program was portrayed as an interim affair—installing some modest changes in the aid effort pending a stem-to-stern review by a private citizen task force to be appointed by the President.

The task force is to report back in time for Nixon's aid presentation to Congress a year hence. Administration officials indicated a more sweeping overhaul might be undertaken then.

In what he termed his "fresh approach" for the time being, Nixon proposed:

—Creation of an "overseas private investment corporation.' This public corporation would carry on aid to U.S. private investment abroad now being conducted within the aid-administering Agency for International Development. But it would apply more businesslike management under a board of directors drawn from both business and government, Nixon said.

The corporation would be self-supporting from loan repayments and investment guarantee fees, with the initial $75 million intended to buttress its reserves.

—"A strong new emphasis on technical assistance."

Nixon proposed raising to $463 million U.S. technical assistance in the coming year, compared with the $337 million appropriated by Congress last year.

He said that use of U.S. technical knowledge ranging from agriculture to family planning "can make our dollars for all forms of aid go further."

A new technical assistance bureau will be set up within AID to focus on getting specially needed varieties for U.S. knowhow to developing countries, he said.

—Sharing foreign aid more with other advanced nations.

Nixon praised international banks and other multination groups such as the United Nations as channels for dispensing foreign aid. He said this system cushions political frictions between aid givers and receivers and requires sharing in the aid burden by economically advanced countries.

—Food and family planning.

Nixon said foreign aid has helped achieve a dramatic breakthrough in food production.

And on the population control side, he said an increasing number of countries are tackling the problem.

The largest single amount of economic assistance by a country is going to South Vietnam under the Nixon program. South Vietnam would receive $440 million for food, budgetary support and other items—about the same as last year.

India would receive a $385 million loan and $14.5 million in technical assistance, officials said.

Runnels 'Scrap' Entry Takes Top Art Entry Prize

Tom Runnels, the former Sikeston resident who interprets life in an enthralling manner by welding pieces of scrap iron into attention creating figures and statuettes, took top honors recently at the Telles Park Art Exhibition at St. Louis with an entry entitled "The Studs," which showed two beautiful stallions engaged in mortal combat. He had held a local showing at the First National Bank of Sikeston, that had gained many plaudits.

Runnels who now resides in Marble Hill, took the "Best of Show" honors in competition with some 300 leading exhibitors, representing a wide area of the East and Mid- West.

Mickey Rooney Wed For Seventh Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) – Actor Mickey Rooney, 48, has become a bridegroom for the seventh time.

Rooney and Caroline Hockett, 25, of Beverly Hills, Calif., were married Tuesday. It was the second marriage for the bride, who met Rooney while he was appearing on a Jackie Gleason television show in Miami.

Youth Killed In Fall From Tractor

DEXTER — Jeffrey Dean Silliman, aged five, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Silliman of Rt. 1, Dexter, was killed instantly late Tuesday when he was run over by a tractor at 7 p.m. Tuesday on the family farm near Bell City, Mo.

Reports show that the youngster, who would have entered kindergarten this fall, had been riding the tractor with his brother Johnny Lee, 18, while the brother was plowing a field. He wanted to get off and the brother stopped the tractor. Then, as Jeffrey slipped getting off, his brother reached to catch him but the effort caused Johnny's foot to slip off the clutch and the tractor moved forward, catching and crushing young Jeffrey beneath its wheels.

Funeral services will be held at the Rainey Funeral Home Chapel at Dexter at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon, with burial in the Stoddard County Memorial Gardens at Dexter.

Survivors include his parents, his brother, Johnnie Lee, two sisters, Yvonne and Terri; his maternal grandfather, Leslie Mead, of Rt. 1, Dexter and his paternal step grandmother, Mrs. Johnnie Silliman of Bell City.

Vandalism at Junior High School

Papers and records were strewn all over the first floor. There was also a window broken in the office. Some cheese, wieners and ham were taken out of a refrigerator in the cafeteria. A metal cabinet in the industrial arts building was pried open. The only articles reported missing were three inexpensive watches. The watches belonged to students.

Some money in containers were poured out in the main office. None was reported taken, however.

There also was two windows broken on the north side of the building and one was broken in the industrial arts section.

Mrs. Harold Clark 250 William, reported to police that someone stole 14 Kennedy half-dollars and five $1 bills during the past week out of her daughter's bedroom. The money was being kept in a jar.

Memorial Day Services

Memorial Day Services will be held 10 a.m. Friday at the Garden of Memories Cemetery.

There will be a guest speaker. The services are being held in cooperation with churches and ministers in Sikeston and the area.

Two Highway Accidents In District

A 1964 Chevrolet, driven by James Oakley, 50, Deering, came out second best, when it struck a southbound Frisco freight train, at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday on route J, four miles south of Hayti.

The Oakley car was traveling west when it ran into the side of the fast traveling train, engineered by R.I. Harris, 54, Chaffee, and was carried 40 to 50 feet.

Oakley received cuts on his scalp, a concussion, and a compound fracture of the right leg, as well as possible internal injuries. He was alone in the car.

He was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Four persons were taken to Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff, as result of a two vehicle crash Tuesday at 10:50 p.m., at the intersection of route T and highway 60, east of Poplar Bluff.

A 1960 Rambler stationwagon, driven by Linda Jany Ward, 18, Poplar Bluff, was traveling east when it attempted to make a left turn, when a 1966 International tractor-trailer, driven by Paul Benson, 26, East Prairie, attempted a pass, the Ward car and the two vehicles sideswiped.

Injured in the Ward car was the driver, who received cuts and scratches on the head, and three passengers, all of Poplar Bluff. Carol Faughn, 23, injured left eye; Larry Sells, 17, cuts and scratches; Gloria Ward, 14, with head injuries, and cuts and scratches of the body.

Benson was given a summons for passing at a marked intersection.

State Tax Revision Advances

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A bill to simplify things for Missouri state income taxpayers won first round approval in the Senate today. It was advanced on a voice vote with no opposition.

The bill makes no changes in rates. They would remain at whatever level finally set by the Legislature later this session. Its technical changes would increase revenue an estimated $700,000 to $1 million a year.

The bill was drafted by a special State Tax Study Commission to conform with federal returns in many respects and carry out a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall.

Among other things, those with taxable incomes of less than $9,000 would have to use a standard tax table in computing their taxes. This would eliminate many errors according to the measure's sponsor, Sen. Maurice Schechter, D Creve Couer.

The present withholding system would continue and federal taxes would continue to be deductible on state returns. Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits would not be deductible and the present divided credit would be eliminated.

Hand Stresses Need For Helping Hand

PORTAGEVILLE--"Your Chamber of Commerce has no wealth and no power except what you give it by your support," Leonard Hand, immediate past president of the local Chamber of Commerce told the second quarterly dinner meeting of the organization here.

"If it is weak it is because your support is weak," he said.

Referring to remarks made by a Noranda official at a Rotary Club meeting, Hand said "There was little new in what he had to recommend. –We have been saying, for the past two years, almost exactly the same things he pointed out as necessary steps to make our community attractive to incoming workers."

Hand went on to say he had personally initiated 18 projects, during his tenure as president, for positive steps toward promoting the city as the bet place for Noranda workers to settle, but the projects weren't fulfilled.

He credited the Missouri Community Betterment Program projects with the attainment of the Plastene Company factory, stating "Without accomplishments through this program, it is very doubtful owners of this factory would have known we existed."

Five steps listed by Hand to maintain the Chamber of Commerce as a positive force in Portageville, included, "Stop referring to the Chamber as 'they' - instead of saying 'they' are doing nothing, make that 'we'; stop criticizing men who give time and talents with no compensation; volunteer annual $12 dues, which are one-half of the lowest dues in most cities of the Bootheel; stop bad-mouthing every effort put forth by the Chamber, and give men in leadership support, encouragement and help."

Hand announced that Miss Suzie Richardson, current Miss National Soybean queen, will compete in August at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, as a representative from Missouri, in the National Soybean Association convention. In the future, he said, the soybean queen, elected at Portageville during the National Soybean Association Convention in competition for the annual title of Princess Soya. The Princess named in August will make a trip abroad, either to Japan or common market countries of Western Europe.

Films of past festivals were shown to the group, which prompted Hand to comment "Films were presented of past festivals, not to dwell on the past, but to use as a spur to greater effort toward building the future. These films depicted the city and residents who are responsible for bringing us to the present stage.'

Yorty Rides Turnout to Upset Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty, an underdog in the polls, rode a record voter turnout to a third term election victory today over Thomas Bradley, Negro councilman who had thumped him in the primary.

Yorty apparently won strong support in the closing days of what was called the bitterest local campaign of modern times.

How do the pollsters explain it? One, Don Muchmore, whose poll for the Los Angeles Times Monday placed Bradley ahead 53 per cent to 36, said: 'I feel like George Gallup did in 1948." That was the year Harry Truman upset Thomas Dewey, Gallup's pick.

Muchmore said in a statement there might have been an error in the poll, adding: "We were dealing with the race issue in this campaign and this is traditionally a difficult area to survey."

"It would appear in this instance the sample of respondants was inadvertently not a representative cross section of the population," said Muchmore, who had conducted 675 interviews. "Even though this is our first major error, a complete analysis will be made to determine the exact cause of the discrepancy."

Supporters of Bradley said they had lodged a complaint with the state attorney general's office over a "candidates card" widely distributed in areas where the city's 15 to 20 per cent Negro population lives.

They claimed the card said Bradley votes should be made on hole No. 3 of the punchcardcomputer ballot. If voters did so, they would have voted for Yorty.

Bradley, 51, a former police lieutenant who hoped to become the third Negro mayor of a major U.S. city, refused to concede.

He won 42 per cent of the vote to Yorty's 26 per cent in the April primary, but was forced into a runoff when he failed to gain a majority. Pollsters right up to election day had him maintaining a margin.

Semiofficial returns from all but six of 2,890 precincts in Tuesday's runoff gave Yorty 447,000, or 53 per cent, to Bradley's 392,379, or 47 per cent.

For the 59-year-old Yorty, running on his eight-year performance as mayor, the heavy vote turnout appeared the key to victory.

Bradley's 100,000-vote edge in the primary came as 66 per cent of the 1,127,900 registered voters went to the polls. This time the figure was about 80 per cent, much of it from predominately white areas.

Jubilant over his comeback, Yorty told cheering supporters they had brought him "back from what appeared to be certain defeat." He promised to make Los Angeles "a greater city in the coming four years."

"I was just a symbol of what we are trying to do," he added.

At almost the same time, Bradley was telling his supporters that "it appears we'll still have to wait some time before we learn how this thing turns out." Then he made a quiet apd peal, asking his supporters to remain calm after a campaign in which he was accused by Yorty of surrounding himself with black militants.

"Keep the faith in what we've been trying to do," Bradley said.

No Negro ever has been elected mayor of a city of this size. The largest cities now with elected Negro mayors are Cleveland, Ohio, and Gary, Ind. Yorty had banked on a conservative trend and this carried over in contests for school board and junior college trustees, where candidates regarded as conservatives generally won.

City Employes Not Fishing on Jobs

Medford Livingston and Tom Ayers are operators in charge of the sewage treatment plant and lift stations in Sikeston, but they admit they would not be surprised is someday someone accused them of fishing on the Sikeston Light and Water time.

From all appearance, they could very well be guilty-because they make daily trips to the St. John ditch with pole in hand. But their mission is of a much greater import importance. At the end of the "pole" is a container into which water samples are "caught" and test made to make sure the sewage treatment plant of Sikeston is functioning properly and that the St. John ditch is not being polluted, if the work of these men were below standards set by the State Pollution Board, not only would the stream be polluted but an investment of nearly two million dollars in sewage treatment equipment could be endangered.

Livingston and Ayers look at themselves first as Public Relations men. He must like and understand people. He must be cooperative. And always working with a positive attitude following with enthusiasm and cheerfulness. Why? because his job effects everyone.

What kind of training do these men have to warrant the confidence of their fellow townspeople? Is pollution of a stream a possibility? Is our sewage treatment facility adequate and doing the jobs intended of them?

Livingston and Ayers have more confidence in their ability then ever before because they have just recently completed a ten months course in Wastewater Operator training sponsored by the State of Missouri Department Water Pollution Board. They have also been officially licensed by the Missouri Water and Sewerage Conference as Wastewater Treatment Operators.

To insure that the St. John ditch is not being polluted samples are taking daily and test run to determine the amount of Hydrogen Ion Concetration, Dissolved Oxygen, Biochemical Oxygen Demand, and Alkalinity. The same test are run on both the plant influent and effluent plus Suspended Solids, Settleable Solids, Volatile Solids, Suldge Volume Index, Sludge Age, and Volatile Acid.

How does the treatment plant work to prevent pollution?

Waste flows through the sewer lines to a central point which is called "lift stations" Lift stations are located at the end of Murray Lane, Frisco and Maude, Kentucky and Crowe, and soon one will be located at Ingram and Linn and on the county road east of the sewage plant. From these lift stations sewerage is lifted to a higher elevation with pumps so it can flow by gravity to the sewage treatment plant.

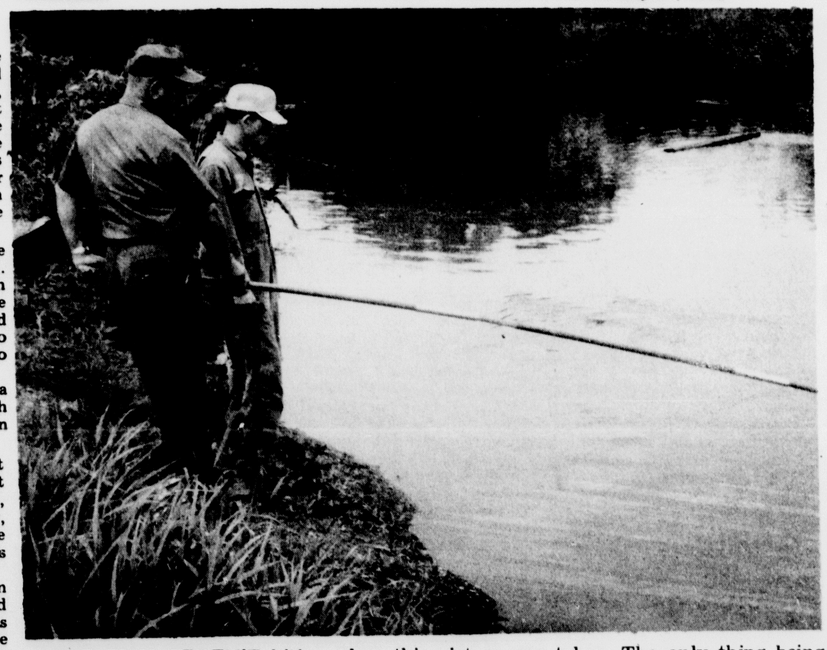

These lift stations are the heart of the sewer system. Sophisticated equipment which works automatically measure the depth of the "wet well" and either one or two pumps go to work to move the waste on to the sewage plant.

Daily records are keep and a report is filed each month with the Water Pollution Board in Jefferson City.

One of the things that amazes some people is that nothing is added to the waste, mother nature does everything, she provide oxygen for the bacteria which develops as nature intended.

For the first time Sikeston has two trained and licensed personnel overseeing this important community service which most people tend to take for granted.

Will Ballot For Scott County Water Board

BENTON — Ballots and letters of instructions were mailed Tuesday, to elect two members to the Scott County Soil and Water Conservation district, according to K. M. Streeter, chairman.

Areas I and III, comprising Commerce and Kelso townships, and Morley and Richland townships, respectively, are to elect one member for each area.

Candidates for Area I are, Paul Hitt, Commerce; and Franklin Schlosser, route one, Illmo. Area III nominees are, Louis Watkins, Vanduser, incumbent, and Lloyd Boley, route one, Bell City.

Only landowners living or owning land in the four townships named are eligible to vote. All votes must be cast by June 5, to be counted. Those who do not receive a ballot, may obtain one from present board members, K. M. Streeter, route one, Painton; Lee Pattengill, route two, Charleston; Roby Hitt, Illmo, or Louis Watkins, Vanduser. Tom Stroup is the secretary.

The two elected will meet with the Board of Supervisors June 9, at 8 p.m., when board officers will be elected.

All landowners in these two areas are encouraged to vote, and learn how the district soil and water program can be of help to them by contacting their area elected supervisor.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People who look gift horses in the mouth generally wind up paying carrying charges on the nag.

From an expansive heart, and out of many years of experience, Howard Carpenter of the Northwest Mississippi Junior College (Senatobia) faculty, has addressed a message to members of the 1969 graduating class of NWMJC, and directed as well to millions of graduates over the land.

This is his message:

TO THE SENIORS OF OUR STATE AND NATION; 1969 GRADUATING CLASSES

Dear Seniors:

For several years I have received requests to write you and make some suggestions about life.

God's greatest gift is life itself - and it does make a difference how you use it. All that you are now - you owe to God, home, church, school and friends who love you. They are expecting great things from you and you have the talent and ability to meet the challenge.

You will need goals, purposes and plans to succeed in life and these alone will not be enough. To succeed in life you will need a good sense of values, honesty, faith, courage, and more hard work than you now realize. You need God as a very real partner because whatever you can do without Him, you can do it infinitely better with Him.

A good sense of humor and lots of fun will help you to succeed in life also. The type work you do in life is of great importance because "Work Is Life- and Good Work Is Good Life." You will need every friend that you can possibly cultivate and make - remember this.

You will need to care about people because "You give your best because you care." If you care for people it will not go unnoticed; if you do not care that, too, will be noticed.

To be a real success in your professional or vocation, choose carefullywhat you want to do, train and prepare for it, then work hard at the job all the time.

For the past 20 years I have taught young people at the junior college level, and I can tell you many wonderful success stories. These students were just about as talented and gifted as each of you - the seniors of 1968.

During these years I have delivered graduating addresses to several thousand young people in schools covering a wide area. This is to say that I know that success and a good and useful life is within reach of each of you.

Finally you will need love and understanding, and remember "Love does not come into your heart to stay, because it's not real love until you give it away."

The retailer who loses faith in his advertising effort is often placing the blame in the wrong place.

As one marketing specialist put it: "The most frequent cause of advertising failure is insufficient advertising."

Effective advertising cannot be judged on the basis of short range results. Nor can spasmodic splurges be expected to bring significant results.

Advertising may be compared to the maintenance of a store. The merchant realizes that maintenance costs are continuous. And in the face of modern competition, maintenance costs are likely to increase from year to year.

The cost of a building does not end with original construction. Repairs begin the day a building is occupied.

The same evaluation should be made of advertising. National companies introducing a new product do not attempt to assess the results of advertising until from six months to two years after a campaign is started. They realize that any quick conclusions could be misleading.

They also know that the public will not be deeply affected by a few days, or a few weeks, of advertising -- no matter how good the product of how appealing the short run advertising.

The local merchant faces the same problem. He is sure to be disappointed if he expects occasional advertising splurges to sustain his business throughout the year.

Only after a year of consistent advertising is the retailer likely to judge fairly the effects of the overall growth of his business.

Roadway lane-striping is no job for the faint at heart. Actually, it may not seem like much of a job at all - until you consider nearly four million miles of paved roadway in the United States contains at least a single centerline stripe.

Striping must be done at least once a year in most cases. Heavily-traveled roadways are normally re-painted twice a year. Other, lighter-traveled ones are done once every two years. It's an extremely dangerous job, particularly on high-speed highways.

Consider that striping is usually done without closing a roadway. True, it's done by machine, but the machine is operated by human beings. The machine travels 10 mph or slower while adjacent traffic may be whizzing along at 70 mph or even faster. Would YOU dare drive your car 10 mph on a high-speed expressway?

Most striping machines are manned by three men. One drives, another operates the painting machinery and a third drops traffic cones to protect newly-painted lines. ALL THREE must serve as lookouts for oncoming traffic.

Indicative of the dangers these crews face are these comments from an employee of the Kansas City highway department, who had just finished a day's work painting strips on one of the city's expressways:

"They (other drivers always attack from the rear. They come so close they sometimes break the mirrors on the side of the trucks.

"We had six Kansas City police officers out there with us on day. By noon, they said we were crazy to work under such conditions. They looked about done in, so we told them to go home -- we'd manage."

And then there are drivers who seem intent on ruining the paint job. Ignoring cones laid by the crews, they cut from one lane to another, smearing fresh paint as they go.

Their dirty work may soon be over, however. One manufacturer reports development of a new instant-dry (10 seconds) reflective striping material for roadways, which makes traffic cones and barriers unnecessary. This 10-second drying time compares with a drying time of from three to 30 minutes for most conventional pavement-marketing paints. And the new material is reported to show extremely bright in a car's headlights -- an obvious safety aid for night driving.

But the danger to the highway workers is still there. You can help by approaching and passing their machinery at a careful pace. And if they've laid out cones to protect their work while it dries, don't change lanes.

Drinking Americans are spending money for their favorite beverages at a record pace. They consumed 121,814,939 cases of liquor last year, almost five per cent than the year before. They also consumed another 68,841,035 cases of wine. That's up about three million cases from 1966.

Drinking Americans also speed millions of dollars a year on repair bills for about a million - and - a - half cars that are banged up in at least 800,000 crashes. Worse than that -- for about 25,000 drinking Americans each year the cost is much higher. Their lives.

These are some of the findings contained in a report "Alcohol and Highway Safety," transmitted to Congress, recently, by Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd.

The 180-page report was called for by the Highway Safety Act of 1966. It details findings of research into the matter of drinking and driving. Alcohol, it says, is a contributing factor in about half of all highway deaths. In fact, during the last 35 years "alcohol has been found to be the largest single factor leading to fatal crashes."

In a way, the report throws a crumb to the light drinker who occasionally drives with one or two under his belt. It says the problem is primarily one of men – repeat, men – who have been drinking heavily, to an extent very probably rare among drivers not involved in crashes.

Although crashes in which alcohol is a factor occur all times of the day, they're relatively uncommon during morning rush-hour periods, says the report. Most occur between late afternoon and the wee morning hours.

Reasons are fairly obvious: More people drink during these hours, and they are generally hours of darkness. Alcohol imparis judgment, reflexes, coordination and vision when the driver behind the wheel of a car needs them most.

The report goes on to say the odds are more than eight to one a driver who is fatally injured in a crash involving a single vehicle between 9 p.m. and midnight has been drinking heavily.

Next time, stop and think what that "one more for the road" might really cost you.

NEW YORK (AP) — The wonderful thing about life is that it always leaves you something to look forward to.

Whether you have achieved much or little, whether you are young, middle-aged or elderly, there always remain sights you haven't seen and things you haven't done. There is no such person as a man or woman who has everything.

Here's one man's list of things he may still get around to doing one of these days:

Set an income tax form to music, and ask Congress to make it the national anthem.

Sail the Atlantic in a paper yacht made from varnished copies of the Sunday New York Times.

Solve the poverty problem by giving everyone in America his own private key to Ft. Knox.

Meet a teen-ager who was allergic to pizza pies, French fried potatoes, and the telephone.

Build a 1,000-room cave on Miami Beach for hermits who prefer to live underground.

Carve the head of Benedict Arnold on the Mt. Rushmore memorial, so tourists could have something to criticize as well as praise.

Help a fainting robin into its nest again.

Get Greta Garbo to put a welcome mat before her front door.

Create a sex-free movie that children could take their parents to without having to worry about the old folks' blushing.

Give athlete's foot back to the athletes.

Pass a law requiring that all ashtrays be at least eight inches square and six inches deep.

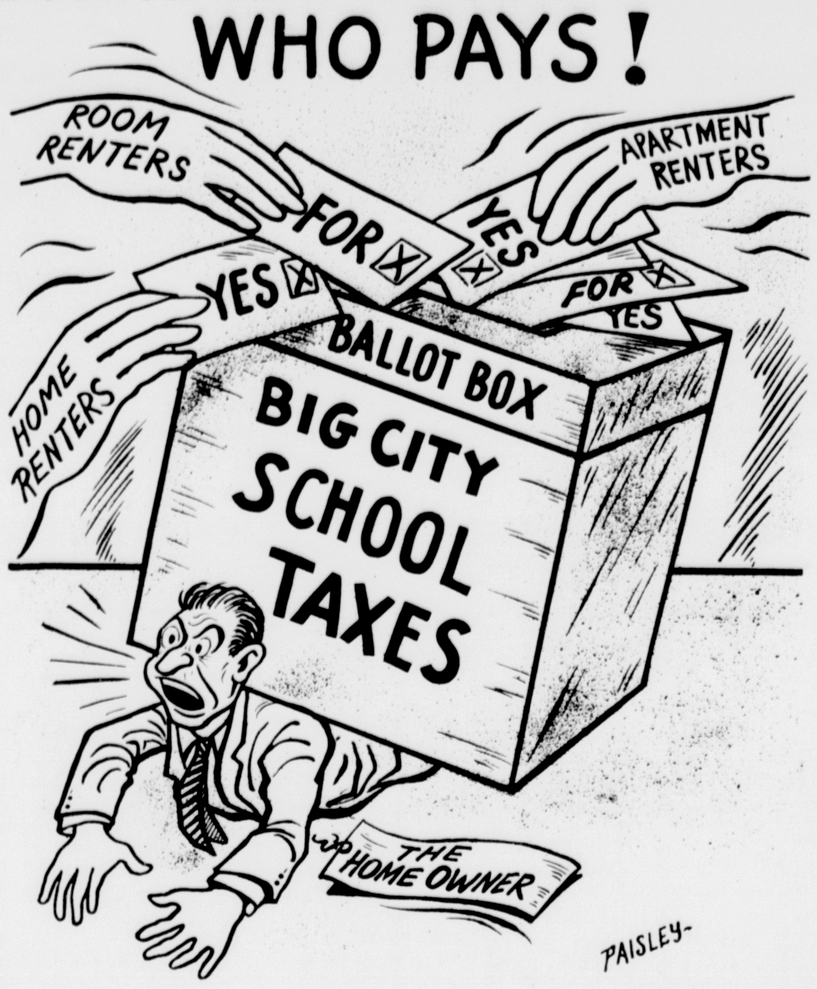

Invent windows made of layers of plastic. Then a man wouldn't have to wash them—he could just peel them clean.

Discover something more to hope about today in modern youth, the "hope of tomorrow."

Find a constructive use for brussels sprouts, parsnips and spinach, so that it will no longer be necessary to eat the stuff.

Do something about the weather, not just talk about it.

Indian's Eggs

A STRANGER COME to town and was impressed with the sight of a gaily clad Indian standing alone at the railroad station. He was informed by a friend that this Indian was famous throughout the countryside for his infalliable memory.

Deciding to put the Indian to the test, he approached him and inquired as to what he had for breakfast two years ago. The Indian looked down at the stranger and said, "Eggs." Not knowing quite what else to ask at that particular point, the stranger decided to drop the subject and went on his way.

Three years later, he stranger once again had occasion to come to that town and noticed the Indian still standing in the same place at the railroad station. He decided to talk to the Indian and see if he would be remembered.

Walking up to the poker-faced Indian, the stranger said, "How!" and the reply came quickly:

"Sunny side up.'

"So you wanna know why I'm a failure. Okay, I'll tell yuh:"

"The only time opportunity knocked on my door, I didn't answer. I thought it was the house detective.

Either White or Black

In at least one area of American life, the Negro's battle for a place in the sun has been notably successful.

Advertising agencies claim "dramatic progress" in integrating magazine and television commercials, reports the Wall Street Journal. One Chicago agency now uses Negroes in over 20 per cent of its television commercials that require models. A year ago, none at all were used.

Progress giveth and progress taketh away, however,

Evidently, the current Mad Ave. motto is: White is right and black is beautiful, but if you're brown -- don't call us, we'll call you.

A New England farmer got a letter. It stated that the boundary lines of all the farms in the area had been surveyed. And it added that his farm was not in Vermont, as he had believed -- but actually in New Hampshire.

The farmer didn't seem very upset. "Thank goodness," he sighed. "Another one of those Vermont winters, and it would have been all over for me."

Doc. Duncan Says

Speaking of auto tampering we heard of a guy who was Supt. of a large industrial plant back in the days of the Model A Ford. There break adjustments stuck out like a sore thumb, he had one employee that wanted his job so bad he could taste it so to speak, this Supt. applied this brokers one and on the way to work and went in the ditch, he wondered why? until he saw this employee meandering among the parked cars at the plant with a wrench in his hand, when he should have been at work. Needless to say he did not have anymore brake trouble.

H.L. Hunt Says

ABM AND TRUTH

The voices of fear who opposed the Safeguard anti-ballistics missile (ABM) allege that the system is "not needed," that it would "provoke" the Soviet Union, that it would "escalate" the arms race with in the Soviets, etc. These arguments are punctured by a study recently released by a subcommittee of the American Security Council.

The subcommittee included Dr. Edward Teller and other top physicists; General Bernard Schriever, who developed the Air Force's ICBMs; Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; General Nathan F. Twining, former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and General Albert C. Wedemeyer, who commanded Allied forces in China during World War II.

The subcommittee emphasized the trend in stragetic military capabilities of the USSR vs. the U.S. The Soviets' increasing capability to wage nuclear warfare, the with increasing immunity, are evident in the facts presented by the subcommittee.

With half the gross national product of the U.S., the Soviets are investing 2 to 3 times more in strategic military forces annually. They have overtaken us in new concepts and new weapons systems, so that now they have several systems we do not have, such as space orbital weapons and very large 50-100 megaton nuclear weapons.

The Soviets also have developed and deployed a sophisticated ABM defense system, hich may soon give them the capability of attacking the U.S. and at least blunting our counter-attack so as to make their losses acceptable. As the study observes: "If one finds an increasing capability for warfare on the part of a self-declared enemy, it is only common sense and prudence to prepare an adequate defense." HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

--Supreme Court Ethics--

On May 20, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that Chief Justice Earl Warren for six years has been quietly supporting a proposed law to set up a code of ethical conduct for the federal judiciary.

On May 22 the Chief Justice called a meeting of top federal judges for May 24, to begin drafting a code of ethics for all federal judges.

If completed, as Warren Hopes, before he retires next month, this will become the first formal standard of conduct to be adopted by the federal judicary.

Drew Pearson says: Congressman from South Carolina protects Navy from investigation; Navy's long list of errors are protected; Rivers becomes most powerful man in Congress

WASHINGTON--One important illustration of why the military continues to ride roughshod over the civilian branches of government occurred on the floor of the House of Representatives last week.

It was a frenzied scene in which the white-haired, usually courtly Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina rushed to the well of the house, grabbed the microphone and admonished senior Rep. George Mahon of Texas: "You are playing into the hands of the enemies of the military."

Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is a powerful man. Hitherto, he had backed up Rivers in voting almost unlimited funds to the military, but he was fed up with military mistakes. However, Rivers is more powerful, in fact is one of the most powerful men in Congress. So later, Rivers and Mahon patched up their altercation and neatly deleted their heated words from the Congressional record.

Nevertheless, the incident is extremely important and gets to the root of why the military get every cent they want while the cities and civilian branches of government are starved.

Rivers had not been drinking. He was cold sober, but full of cold anger in his defense of the Generals and Admirals. This was understandable, for they have cluttered his district with so many land, sea and air bases that it's impossible for any opponent ever to defeat him. In return for these favors, Rivers, as chairman of the house armed services committee, to a large degree is responsible for giving the Generals and Admirals the position of power and immunity they enjoy today.

It seems incredible that one man could have such power. Nevertheless, thanks to seniority and a largely docile, military-minded committee, Rivers wields this power. As a result, he has been able to prevent any penetrating investigations of various military mistakes.

--Preventing Probes--

Ordinarily the sinking of the submarine guittaro alongside its dock would be the subject of an immediate, forthright, congressional probe. However, Rivers is the chairman of the Committee entrusted with investigation. And he cajoled and bulldozed Mahon of Texas, a man of no means congressional might, into changing his speech so that he called merely for "adequate discipline," not a court martial of those responsible for the sub's sinking.

Rivers went even further with Rep. William Moorhead of Pennsylvania, another respected Democrat, who had the temerity to investigate and reveal the $2.5 billion overcharge by Lockheed for the building of the C-5A. Peremptorily, Rivers, "summoned" Moorhead to appear before the armed services committee for a dressing-down.

When other Congressmen rallied to Moorhead's defense, Rivers withdrew his "summons." It was the first time in the memory of any Congressman that a colleague had been so arbitrary with another Congressman.

Nevertheless, the fact remains, despite these minor retreats, that Mendel Rivers is the single, most effective roadblock to scaling the military down to size from its privileged position.

The roll call of Naval mistakes alone has been unprecedented. In addition to he mysterious sinking of the guittaro, the Navy has lost two polaris submarines, permitted the USS Pueblo to be seized for still unexplained reasons, lost the EC-121 off the North Korean coast when it should have been protected, experienced two disastrous fires on airplane carriers, left the USS Liberty get riddled with bullets and 34 men killed, off the coast of Egypt.

In addition, clearcut evidence has come from Raymond Perelman, a Philadelphia steel manufacturer, that defective steel plate has been supplied to the Navy for submarine manufacturer without inspection. The Navy has not bothered to investigate, but has taken the highly unusual position of permitting the steel companies which manufacture the plate to make their own inspection.

--Opponent of Investigations--

None of the above errors has been properly investigated.

Rivers when blocked an investivation of the Cheyenne helicopter contract when Rep. Otis Pike of New York demanded it. Subsequently, the contract was canceled by the Army because of Lockheed's poor performance.

Rivers also badgered the top pentagon officials into requiring jet planes for all military cargo. This almost went through, until Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada pointed out that it would benefit one airline only, overseas national airways, at the expense of another, Saturn airways. It turned out that George Tompkins, chairman of overseas national, was a close friend of Rivers.

Rivers proclaimed that no one had done more for the U.S. Navy than Grumman aircraft, whose work on the F--111B was so bad that production had to be stopped.

He railroaded the last draft act through the house after only two hours of debate just before midnight because he wanted to leave for the Paris air show the next morning.

Rivers has bulldozed multi-billion-dollar decisions through his committee without giving other members a chance to study or debate them. He has used the Air Force as his personal airline to commute to Charleston. He has summoned top brass to South Carolina to celebrate such memorable events as Mendel Rivers day or the unveiling of a Mendel Rivers monument.

He has been briefed by the joint chiefs of staff and the CIA director on the nation's most guarded secrets, even though he indulges from time to time in alcoholic binges which send him to Bethesda Naval Hospital to be dried out. Any state or defense department official who is an alcoholic is automatically fired as a security risk.

But two years ago, when this column gave details on Rivers's alcoholic bouts, a succession of Congressmen rose on the floor to pay him tribute.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

cosa Nostra Invited:

Top Mafia 'Bosses' Offered Public Legislative Forum to Deny Crime

Washington, D.C.: -- If $300 million still is of consequence to anyone in these high-tension days -- then this story is of consequence.

President Nixon and Attorney General General John Mitchell are asking Congress to appropriate this cash so the new Law Enforcement Assistance Administration can be funded to help state and local anticrime programs. And, says Mr. Mitchell, he hopes "that a substantial proportion of these funds will be used by state and local law enforcement agencies to attack organized crime."

There's no doubt much of the money will be appropriated -- and that all of it will be used. Then what? Will there be any fewer hoods, any fewer racketeers, any fewer killers, any fewere extortioners and any fewer Mafia families terrorizing legitimate business and labor at the end of the fiscal (and one is tempted to say physical) year?

All of which leads to some letters which 108 alleged Mafia bosses, underbosses, consiglieres, caporegimes and lieutenants will shortly find in their mail.

The letters will be written to this select, manicured jet set crowd of gourmets and travelers by a New York state senator, John J. Hughes. And the communications will be on the stationery of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Crime. Its Causes, Control and Effect on Society. It has an advisory council on which, in the full sense of the word, I'm proud to serve.

The committee, headed by Sen. Hughes, has been looking into general crime, the mob's mulcting of the ghettos, and violence on the campus. Not the least of Senator Hughes' accomplishments is his retaining of a rugged young red-haired Irish chap, Ed McLaughlin, who relaxes by fishing in the Canadian wilds above the Arctic Circle.

They've done a fantastic job. They've traced, for example, fully 500,000 felony arrests made in New York State between 1960 and 1965. They discovered that only eight per cent were convicted, despite considerable evidence against those taken in.

They've traced tens of thousands of gambling convictions, and in one huge batch discovered only one -- count it, one -- conviction.

They've taken nothing for granted. They've not counted on any other committee's reports or analysis. They've dug for themselves. They've developed research and investigative techniques which should be the model for local and state agencies everywhere.

And so they found themselves looking into organized crime -- the infiltration of labor and management. They checked every one of the men who have been accused, in public or in private, in official reports or in secret drafts, of being a lieutenant or higher in the Cosa Nostra.

Senator Hughes discovered there were 108 such men in New York State's seven Mafia families.

Despite the public accusations, these 108 men never have spoken out.

So the senator decided to write to them, to offer them a public platform, to give them a chance to refute charges made when they were not confronting their accuser. This is the era. Everywhere the public is saying the courts are crooked, the gendarmerie is crooked, the probers generally only chase headlines. Why not, says Senator Hughes, do the civil libertarian thing and give these men their turn to retort?

"My thought is we know there are such people," says the senator, "involve d in syndicated crime, and my feeling is they should be publicly identified and given an opportunity to deny the charges. They are identified in stories and they, the accused, say nothing. Well, we'll give them a forum. This will give them a chance to make a complete and public disavowal."

Soon Mr. Hughes' letters will go to the 108 so-called Cosa Nostra bosses, underbosses and their top aides. The letter will invite the accused to come in voluntarily without subpoena, take an oath, make their statements, and leave the committee without being cross-examined. Whether or not they refuse the senator's invitation, they no longer can say their rights were disdained.

Nor will state or local law agencies ever be able to say there has been no full public identification of the mob's high command.

What troubles Senator Hughes and counselor Ed McLaughlin is that these 108 men and their 700 button men (troops) still are free despite the records now in the committee's dossiers.

For more than 40 years now, we or our predecessors in the press and on special investigative committees have known the names of these people. For almost half a century, the Mafia has operated, terrorized and taken in well over two trillion dollars (if Attorney General John Mitchell's figure of a $50 billion annual take is accurate).

During all these decades there have been scores of special investigators, prosecutors, commissions, state crime commissions, and here we have had the New York State Identification Intelligence Service, a huge computer which memorizes all information ever gathered anywhere about the nation's 24 crime syndicates. We know what the mob does. We know who the leaders are. We know their source of income. And still they prosper.

We have special racket squads. All large local police departments have special racket intelligence units. There are police officers who do nothing but probe the mob. We have tremendous commitment of manpower and money.

What is the result of this vast commitment? That's what Senator Hughes wants to know. That's what "young" McLaughlin wants to know. That's what this committee of ours want to know. What's wrong with the courts?

Perhaps a few pennies of that $300 million can be spent getting some answers.

And we'll let you know if any Cosa Nostra dons answer the letters.

New Members Welcomed Into Girl Scout Troop

A fly-up ceremony was held Wednesday at Murray Lane Baptist church, for Junior Girl Scout Troop 273, when members of the Brownie Troop Number 48, were welcomed into the troop.

In charge of Troop 273 are Mrs. Jerry Dyer and Mrs. Bill Branum. Leaders for the Brownie Troop are Mrs. Norman Edgin and Mrs. Ed Patterson.

A book was presented to the church to the Rev. Ward Paris, in appreciation for use of the church for their meetings.

Undersea Coal Mines

The coal beds in Nova Scotia's Sydney field dip beneath the Atlantic Ocean and have been mined under the sea more than 3½ miles from shore.

People Should Get Involved

Dear Ann Landers: Do you know how many little lives you might save if you informed your millions of readers that they need not stand by helpless while neighbors and relatives beat and neglect and abuse their children? Many cities and states have ordinances and laws to protect children against cruelty which is, of course, the result of sick minds. For God's sake, help those kids.

Here are the proper steps:

(1) Take the child immediately to an impartial doctor or to a hospital for examination. Do not select your family doctor or a doctor who is a relative or a personal friend.

(2) If, after examination, the doctor says the child has been abused or criminally neglected, call police officer and have the courage to sign a complaint if you are asked to do so.

(3) If the child is of school age, take Ann Landers' advice. A teacher can be an excellent witness.

These days so many people are afraid to become involved. They say it is dangerous to poke your nose into other people's business. Please tell them a helpless child is everybody's business. --- L.A.

Dear L.A.: Bless you for your letter. Often people need encouragement to follow their better instincts. You have given it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 19-year-old high school graduate. My fiance will be joining the Air Force soon. Ron is 20 and in excellent health.

I was telling a friend that I become depressed thinking about Ron's being away from me. She said she had read somewhere that a couple can sign up for the Air Force under the Buddy System and do a full hitch without being separated. Is this true? If it is I'd like to do it. Please let me know immediately. ---- Love Him

Dear Love: I've checked around and learned that the Air Force will "try" but they give no guarantee that lovebirds who take their training together will be assigned to the same area for service. It might work out that way, but the Air Force promises nothing.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for not saying anything against the young man who wore a kilt. His girl was shocked and her mother almost fainted, but they were ignorant people who didn't know anything about the kilt's great tradition of manhood and courage. Those of us who live in Racine, Wisconsin are proud of our Drum and Bugle Corps. They won the National V.F.W. Championship in 1964 and again in 1968.

It's a glorious sight to see those handsome lads marching along with their bagpipes, wearing kilts. Those of us who know, consider kilts not only snappy-looking but a darned sight more respectable than trousers that are so tight a kid can't sit down in them. Sign me --- Highland Fling

Dear High: I've seen the Racine Drum and Bugle Corps and they are as inspiring a group as ever tootled its way to the top. Cheers!

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CHARLESTON — Mrs. Frances Harper, wife and mother of three, is active in church, Scouts, and community affairs. She is the wife of Norman Harper, owner and operator of Norman Harper's Electronics.

Sewing and Reading Are Main Hobbies

CHARLESTON-Mrs. Frances Harper, born and reared in Chicago, has spent her adult life here. She is married to Norman Harper, owner of Norman Harper's Electronics, and they have three children.

Mrs. Harper has done public steno work in her home for the past five or six years. She will work as an art aide at Charleston elementary school next year. She has attended the Chicago Art Institute and taken some art courses at the local high school.

A charter member and past president of the Junior Study Club, she is also active in scouting. She belongs to a sewing club, which meets for luncheons and sewing. She makes most of her clothes and those of her daughter. She was also general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce garden club tour recently.

She finds time to read, mostly biographies, historical novels, and suspense. She also visits friends and belongs to a card club.

The family likes to travel. They have been to the west coast and Canada, and taken many weekend trips to Lawrence, Kansas where they visit their son, Bob, who is a junior at the University there.

Harper belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and the church board.

He announces football at the football field. Because he is constantly busy with his business, he doesn't have time for anymore activities. He has been in the electronic business for 30 years, and has owned his own business for five years. When asked if he fixed her electrical appliances, he replied, "well, our doorbell has been out for a year". But she said he keeps the television in good repair, and the stereo is always working, since stereo sound is his hobby.

The two children at home are Bill and Kay. Bill is a senior at Charleston high school, and will attend University at Kansas under a navy scholarship. Kay is a junior at Charleston high school. She will attend Girl State this summer at Columbia. She will finish Girl Scouts next year, having gone 12 years.

Mrs. Harper likes to cook, but enjoys eating out whenever possible. Following is a recipe for cheese pie:

SMITHLAND CHESS PIE
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
2 tbsp. melted butter
1 small can milk
1 ½ tsp. cornmeal
1 ½ tsp. flour
dash salt
unbaked pie shell
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat sugar and egg yolks. Add butter, cream until light colored. Add milk, meal, flour and vanilla. Beat Well. Place in shell. Bake in oven 350 degree for 20-25 minutes. Test to see if done by shaking pan. If pie is firm, it is done. Three egg whites may be used for meringue.

27 Officers Present For Special Meeting

CAPE GIRARDEAU--A special meeting of Cape Court 14 Order of the Amaranth was held Saturday night at the Masonic Temple with Mrs. Loy V. Barks, royal matron, and Everette Linebarger, royal patron, presiding. The occasion was the official visit from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Edison, grand royal patron and matron. There were 27 elective and appointive grand officers present as well as other visiting members. There were 57 visitors from St. Louis who were entertained with a picnic supper served by the grand officers who are members of Cape Court: Mrs. Carrie H. Findley, Mrs. Lloyd Sparks, Lloyd Revelle, Mrs. Lorenzo Harris, and Mrs. James Baker. Due to weather conditions the meal was served in the dining room of the Christ Episcopal Church.

Following the opening and introductions, a memorial service was given for members of the order who have died during the past year. Miss Allene Owen served as eulogist.

In the business meeting it was voted to pay half the cost of the exhaust fan for the kitchen in the Masonic Temple. Plans for the chicken dinner, served Sunday, were explained to all.

A social hour was held in the dining room when the birthday of the grand royal matron, Mrs. Edison, was celebrated.

The committee in charge of the reception was composed of Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Harris and Miss Loretha Harris of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hale and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holladay of Fredericktown, Mrs. Sara Hirschowitz and Mrs. Audrey Hirschowitz of Oran, and Mrs. Shirley Ainsworth of Sikeston.

The next regular meeting of the court will be held on June 23.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Bridal Shower

BLOOMFIELD--A bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Janice Asbell, Friday evening at the United Methodist Church.

The color scheme was blue and white. There was a double wedding ring suspended from the ceiling above the gift table with the minature bride and groom on the table in the background of the rings.

Those present were Beulah Spangler, Charlotte Hinkle, Esther Asbell, Mary Williams, Sylvia French, Mrs. Earnest Aslin, Mrs. Ray Bacon, Peggy Harris, Vera Wellman, Flossie Wellman, Irene Aslin, Winnie Cooper, Frances Bess, Pat Shipman, Carol Shipman, Edna Aslin, Betty Aslin, Lynn Aslin, Georgia Smith, Geraldine Robinson, Janice Bacon, Melba Hester, Eleanor Aubuchon, Mrs. W.S. Babe Ruth Managers Needed

Bob Ralph, commissioner of Babe Ruth league baseball in Sikeston is in urgent need of four managers to work with the new 16 to 18 year old division.

Those desiring to work in this program can contact Mr. Ralph at 471-5810.

Weekend Golf Tourney Set At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF — The 16th annual Poplar Bluff Country Club Memorial Day invitational golf tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday with five classes being played for 27 holes.

Trophies and gift certificates will also be presented the winners.

The Newberry traveling trophy is up for permanent possession with defending tournament champion, Buddy Godwin, expected to be defending his title and moving closer to the three wins that would give him the Newberry prize.

Entry fee is $10 and the ticket entitles the holder to a chance on the set of eight matched Wilson staff aluminum shaft irons, plus a pitching wedge to be drawn for on Sunday.

Entries will be held to 130 and may be sent to Denny Lanning, 1102 Spring St., Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Royals Take Red Sox; Cardinals Loss

A late-inning rally whisked the Kansas City Royals past the Boston Red Sox 5-4 Tuesday night but the St. Louis Cardinals couldn't overcome an early lead bowing to the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

A two-run bloop single by Jackie Hernandez topped the Royals' three-run rally in the seventh. Hernandez' scratch safety came after singles by Lou Piniella and Jerry Adair and a throwing error by Boston's Dalton Jones.

All three runs were unearned.

Mike Fiore gave Kansas City a 1-0 lead with a solo homer in the first but Reggie Smith drove in three Boston runs with a circuit clout in the third.

The Royals cut the margin to 3-2 in the third on two hits and a wild pitch. The Red Sox final run came on Carl Yastrzemski's double in the fifth inning.

Dick Drago went the distance scattering eight hits in notching his third victory against two defeats. Bosox starter Sonny Siebert, 4-4, was charged with the loss.

In Atlanta, Felipe Alou batted in one run and scored another in the third inning, then started a two-run rally in the fifth as the Braves upended the Redbirds for the second straight night.

Mike Lum hit a ground rule double in the third and scored on Alou's hit. When outfielder Joe Hague threw wild to the plate, Alou went to third and scored on Felix Millan's infield hit.

The Braves added another tally in the fourth when Clete Boyer doubled and Bob Didier singled off loser Ray Washburn, 2-5.

Alou opened the fifth with a single but was forced at second by Millan. Hank Aaron singled and Orlando Cepeda doubled in one run. Aaron scored on a sacrifice fly by Sonny Jackson.

St. Louis scored on winner Pat Jarvis, 5-2, in the fifth on a double by Julian Javier and a single by Lou Brock. Homers by Joe Torre in the eighth and Bob Johnson in the ninth accounted for St. Louis' other runs.

Tonight in Kansas City, Mike Hedlund, 2-2, faces Boston's Ray Culp, 7-2. St. Louis will try to get back on the victory trail by pitching Steve Carlton, 4-4, against Milt Pappas, 3-3.

Dick Drago with help from Dave Wickersham over the last two innings, scattered eight hits in notching his third victory against two defeats. Bosox starter Sonny Siebert, 4-4, was charged with the loss.

Action Opens In New Madrid County League

New Madrid county little league and Babe Ruth league action opened last night at Marston and Risco with Parma sweeping both games at Marston and Risco dividing with New Madrid.

Parma's little leaguers opened the evenings action at Marston by posting a 5-4 win over the host behind the combined pitching efforts of Don and Danny Crews, while at Risco, the host were pounding New Madrid 11-1.

Wendall Wagner pitched a no-hitter for Parma in its Babe Ruth league opener that ended 14-1. Wagner collected 13 strikeouts. Reggie Gregory poked a solo home run in the second inning for the winners.

Unitas Getting Back on Beam

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the Baltimore Colt quarterback who missed most of last season with an inflamed right elbow, is getting back on the beam.

"He is throwing as well now as he ever did," says Bill Neill, director of physical therapy at Kernan hospital here. "But when he has to improvise and throw off balance, that will be the final test."

Neill is supervising the rehabilitation program designed to restore strength and accuracy to the sore right elbow which forced Unitas to sit out most of the Super Bowl game in which the New York Jets won 16-7.

Unitas began his six-days-a-week conditioning program in February. It includes stretching, weight lifting, strength testing, muscular stimulation, whirlpool treatment and passing.

"Our initial tests revealed that John's right arm tricep muscles were only 50 per cent of the left triceps and the girth of the right upper arm was one inch less than the left," Neill said. "Now he has comparable strength in both arms and the right is again its normal size."

Unitas began throwing a football on March 17.

BERRYFIELD REST TIME--These youthful strawberry pickers take time out for a brief rest after laboring under a hot sun picking on the Howell farm. Some of them pick as many as 80-90 quarts during an eight hour day.

ADMIRING FRUIT OF THEIR LABOR--Mrs. Reuben Howell and her husband stand amid dozens of picking containers -- holding six quarts of berries each, at their Strawberry Farm packing shed, located some five miles South of Dexter.

AWAITING THE CHECKIN--These berry pickers, who receive seven cents a quart for berries picked, await their checkin time for the picking boxes that contain six quarts of berries each.

READY FOR BOXING--W.F. Webb, of Dexter, who has helped the Howells with their berry picking and other farm crop gatherings, for more than 14 years, looks on as Mrs. Loedith Shipley of Essex prepares to begin boxing the fine berries into quart containers.

MEXICAN BERRY EXPERTS--These seven members of the Philip Hircheta family show prowess in the picking of strawberries, despite their sizes and ages. Even little three-year-old Michael (Mike) can pick up to 30 quarts a day. Also shown are David, 5, Roy, 6, Aurora, 8, Johnie, 9, and Jessie 13. Lupe, 15, the eighth member of the popular is not shown. The Hiracheta children, who are resident of Catron, attend the Dexter school.

Howells Are Stoddard 'Berry Champs'

20 Acres Tops For Berry Farming

BY E. J. MAYS
STATE EDITOR

DEXTER — The fruit from some 10 acres of fine, luscious, red ripe strawberries are furnishing plenty of good eating, imployment for more than 100 berry pickers and providing a portion of a good livelihood for the Stoddard County "Strawberry Growing Champs," Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Howell.

The Howell's operate a 275 acre diversified farm, located some five miles South of Dexter, with Howell handling the farm supervision while his attractive and pleasant speaking wife "Miss Dell" takes care of the teaching of the sixth grade class at an Elementary School at Dexter, where she has rounded out 40-faithful years of teaching.

Ask her pupils, past and present, and you'll find that they have returned the love and affection she has lavished on them, through the years. For, as her husband says, "oftimes I think those kids come first, before myself, the farm, everything."

Mrs. Howell has taught them well for dozens are now holding prominent jobs in industry, the sciences and in the teaching profession, with a couple now engaged in playing professional baseball.

And, while her heart "is in her classroom" -- for nine months each year-- she is also vitally interested in the Howell's taking a leading role in bringing Dexter and Stoddard County into its potential as a strawberry producing area.

"We are ready to double our acreage next year and then go as high as several hundred acres over a period of years, as long as we are assumed of plenty of labor but we will never sacrifice quality production for the sake of quantity and lesser grade berries," he insists. To which Mrs. Howell adds a hearty "Amen!"

The returns from Howell's strawberry growing activities are "better than average," provided no hail comes to tear the crop asunder and assure huge losses as it pelts the fruit into the ground. Continuous rain also causes rot.

His average of some 2,000 crates, of 16 quarts each picked at a cost of some seven cents per quart, averages in at around $6.00 per crate gross. Fertilizer, new plants and the various necessary pesticides, take another bite from the net profit of around $12,000 for the 10 acre yield.

As many as 100 pickers assemble daily for a period of four to six weeks for picking purposes and the berries are sold throughout the area, as far South as Blytheville and as far East as Paducah. Annually old customers come back for the berries that have proven so tasteful over the years that the Howell's have been offering them for sale.

The plants, of the Surecrop and Albritton Sweet varieties are purchased from an Arkansas grower the Connor Co. of Augusta and set out early in March, with maturity of these plants, as producers, occuring a little more than a year later, around the middle, or last of May.

This makes the seventh year that the Howell's have been in the big berry production business.

Most of the pickers are local residents who come back year after year to help with the harvest and Howell's right hand man Webb, having worked with Howell for the past 14 years, aiding in keeping the two packing sheds going smoothly.

The Howell's, in their diversified farming, also raise cotton, corn and wheat. Hogs were tied for a few years but discarded as a rather payless venture.

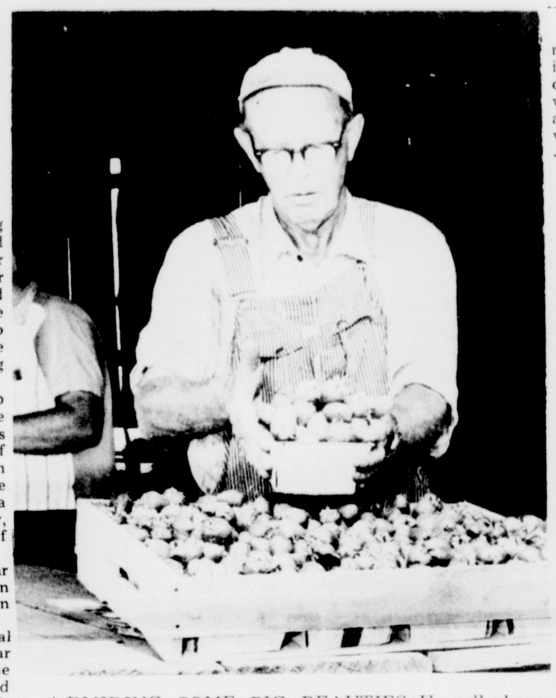

He farms 25 acres of cotton, 37 acres of wheat and 50 acres of corn. The corn yield returned some 80 bushels per acre in 1968, despite a wet season. His cotton land averaged around a bale and a half per acre and his wheat came through with a 40 bushel per acre average.

A herd of 24 Angus cows and some 18 calves furnish both meat and money.

Like the other berry farmers in the area Howell contributes berries, free of charge, to the various activities that go to help underwrite the cost of the annual Dexter Strawberry Festival, as they are auctioned off by various civic clubs that comprise the Festival.

He thinks that "the proper supply of labor, a little to aid in the growing of the berries and a lot more for the gathering of the fruit, must be assured before local growers can 'risk' larger acreage plantings. It is almost impossible to stagger the ripening period and we must be certain that the berries will be picked as they ripen," Howell explains.

Meanwhile Stoddard County residents are proud of the fine berry growing record that Howell, and other strawberry farmers like him are doing and hope for a steady acreage increase in the years to come.

To the Editor:

Students at Lincoln University have very largely wrecked a $2 million student union erected by the taxpayers of Missouri for their comfort, pleasure, and convenience. They have shown how little they appreciate this act of consideration for their benefit.

It would be my suggestion that this ruined building be left exactly as it is for many years to come.

By their senseless act of destruction students at Lincoln University have injured themselves. If the student union is immediately restored, the inconvenience and loss to he students will be very slight.

If it is not restored or replaced the loss and inconvenience will be a continuing one, and this may well serve as a sobering influence against any future depredations which they may contemplate or may be encouraged to commit by agitators from off campus.

Brown's Now Own Two Tony's

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown are now sole owners of Two Tony's Smorgasbord at 205 W. Malone, effective early this month.

They purchased the half interest of their partner, Tony Fodet, West Frankfort, Ill., who was a partner since the popular eating place was opened Oct. 14, 1967.

Jim and Elma Brown came here from St. Louis, where he was in he distributing business and she taught in the Alton, Ill. school system. She is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, and has her master's degree from University of Illinois.

Both are natives of this area, having graduated from the old Gray Ridge high school.

The couple reside at 202 William street.

200 Enrollees Are Expected In Special Class

EAST PRAIRIE — A remedial program for students in grades three through six will open June 9 and terminate on August 1, East Prairie school officials announced Wednesday.

Some 200 children, about the same number as enrolled last year, are expected to register before the June 6 deadline. Some seven teachers will be employed in the program and school buses will pick up the children along their regular routes, officials said.

Had No Majority Vote

Abraham Lincoln did not obtain a majority of the popular vote when he first ran and was elected to the office of president, although he received a majority in the electoral college because of the split in the Democratic party according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica

To The Editor:

Why did many of these people come to St. Louis to begin with? Wasn't it at the invitation of relatives or friends and for the sole purpose of getting on relief? The only way you are going to solve the problem is for the leaders of the colored people to go in business and train and hire their own race. They know more about them than others.

Gen. Taylor Says Troop Cut Would Hurt Bargain Power

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, says that withdrawing American troops from Vietnam now would weaken the U.S. bargaining position in the Paris peace talks.

Although negotiating from strength "has almost become a dirty word . . that's the way the other side is trying to organize its negotiations," he told a news conference Tuesday befory an address to the California Bankers Association.

"I don't understand the desire to reduce one's strength at a time when it should be the strongest," Taylor said. "I think we are on the way to winning unless we defeat ourselves."

The platypus of Australia is classed as a mammal even though it lays eggs.

Another Heart Expert Comes Out for Jogging

WASHINGTON (AP) Another heart disease expert, who suffered a heart attack himself, has come out for jogging with scrappy advice for more Americans to get with it.

"It is all very well to talk a good game of exercise, but to do it regularly is something else," says Dr. Irvine H. Page, a senior research consultant to the Cleveland clinic, and former member of the National Advisory Heart Council.

"I suggest the answer can be optained in 'get off your saturated fatty acids and move!" Page Tuesday was amplifying in a telephone interview upon his article in the journal, Modern in Medicine.

Page is 68. He suffered a heart attack two years ago, and took up jogging afterwards. "I'm probably in better physical shape now than I was before the attack."

The doctor also finds time for tennis doubles twice a week. "We can beat hell out some of these younger kids," he said. On fatty acids, Page said, "the public has decided that cholesterol is a bad thing, but they don't plan to do anything about it, except possibly try to dissolve it in gin."

If there is to be a general reduction in the intake of cholesterol, Page said, "It will come about chiefly because manufacturers and processors of food have so decreed it." This is more likely, he said, than persons altering their diets to reduce the fatty substance.

ABJECT SURRENDER

Cairo Mayor Names New Police Chief

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) – Mayor Lee P. Stenzel appointed a police chief Tuesday after more incidents of violence and a demand by 200 citizens for better law enforcement in the strife-ridden river community.

William Peterson, former police chief at Alton, Ill., will take over Cairo's force June 15. Lt. Gov. Paul Simon who conducted an investigation of Cairo racial troubles recommended Chief Carl Clutts be fired.

Two hundred Cairo residents crowded into a City Council meeting Monday to demand better police work.

Two firebombings Monday night and a pre-dawn rifle attack on the police station Monday were the most recent violent outbreaks in the Southern Illinois city of more than 8,000.

Police resumed normal patrol Tuesday and reported there were no arrests as a result of Monday's incidents. Firemen who were called to one firebombing were fired at as they tried to extinguish flames. There were no injuries.

East Prairie's Grads Urged To 'Remain At Home'

By E. J. MAYS
STATE EDITOR

EAST PRAIRIE — The 104 member 1969 senior graduating class of East Prairie High School was challenged yesterday morning, at their award ceremonies, to "stay at home and help us build a better town and community," by Mayor Lloyd Hogan.

"I beg you to accept the responsibilities of the community, now that you have finished your high school careers," the affable mayor said, stressing the need for help from the seniors" as we prepare to make a 30-day effort to show voters we need to change our government to a city manager - council style instead of a mayor - board of alderman type as at present."

He prophesied that "only about 20 of you will remain in our midst, in the years to come unless we get more industry, add badly needed water and sewerage facilities," he said. "East Prairie is about the ONLY town I know of where you can take a bath and still get dirtier," he said, in an attempt to impress the students and parents with the need for more water mains and a better purification system.

"We need you seniors to distribute hand bills, talk about water and sewerage needs and stay with us so we can show prospective industrial locators that we DO have an ample, available supply of both male and female labor to satisfy their demands," he added.

He told them there was need for an exchange of ideas – and you have some very good ones – between the graduates and the older residents of East Prairie. "You can help us with our health hazards, with our promotion of the territory and thus aid us in raising our standard of living as we promote more efficient government, more healthful living conditions and a better understanding among our people," he said in closing.

Senate Hikes Corporate Tax But Rejects Individual Increase

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Senate voted Tuesday to increase state corporate income taxes about 30 million a year, but ruled out any individual income tax increase.

The corporate increase was approved on a voice vote. The $34 million in individual income tax rates approved by the House was eliminated by the Senate on a 19-15 roll call.

If the bill gets through the Legislature and is approved by the governor, who asked an income tax increase as a key part of his program, the increase would become effective Jan. 1, 1970.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, President Pro Tem of the Senate, insisted the state would have plenty of money without increasing individual income taxes.

Under his plan he said the state would still have a surplus of almost $60 million at the end of the next two fiscal years.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, the Ways and Means chairman, disputed Blackwell's conclusions. He said welfare, schools and new programs such as the public defender system would suffer unless individual taxes are raised too.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said increased state aid to schools might be jeopardized and he urged that action be taken now because it would be impossible to raise taxes in 1970, an election year.

During much of the long debate, the galleries were packed with visiting parents and teachers from the St. Louis area, in the Capitol to lobby for increased state aid to education.

At one point Blackwell asked the picketers didn't know what they were doing because the Legislature already has committed itself to boost state aid by $30 million a year for the next four years to cover the cost of 50-50 state sharing in school costs.

The top corporate tax rate now is 2 per cent and has been for the past 30 years. The House bill would have set it at 4 per cent but Blackwell's amendment boosted that to 5 per cent.

Also eliminated from the bill was a provision that would have required married couples to file joint state returns if they filed joint federal returns.

Once the amendments were disposed of, the bill was passed and sent back to the House on a 28-6 vote.

Approval of a corporate hike was regarded as the death knell for a bill killed last week to eliminate federal income tax payments as a deduction on corporate state returns.

If the income tax bill gets through the legislature, Blackwell foresaw no trouble in passing the tax collection speedup bills recommended by the governor to produce almost $93 million in a one – shot "windfall."

The Senate passed and sent to the House Monday a bill to increase both individual and corporate income taxes about $33 million a year and allocate the money to cities and counties for local police costs.

Portageville Park Board Holds Meeting

PORTAGEVILLE-The Portageville Park Board has announced the purchase of a new riding lawnmower, at a cost of over $1,000 and a donation of $500 to the Little League ball program to be used for a new building which will include a concession stand, press box and rest rooms.

Labor in constructing the building is being donated by interested persons.

A shed for the lawnmower has already been built and painted.

Other improvements announced include painting of the exterior and interior of the community building, and roof repairs; repairs and painting of the merry-go-round and teeter-totter; all park benches and picnic tables have been painted; and the pool vacuum cleaner has been repaired.

Repairs are being made to the concrete lip of the swimming pool and a special paint is being used on the filter tanks.

Six new benches set in cement pads will be placed around the outside of the pool. Benches in the dressing rooms have been repaired and curtains are to be purchased for the girls dressing rooms and showers.

Officers and members of the Park Board are Preston Shaw, president, Henry DiCarlo, vice president, Evelyn Atwill, treasurer, Bob Duggins, secretary, Ampara Hand, reporter, Virginia Grable, Bettve Fields, Bill Phillips and Bill Boon.

The next regular meeting of the board is at 7 p.m. June 19 at the community building.

Divorce, Custody Cases Are Heard

NEW MADRID — Two divorces were granted and a motion to dismiss heard in Circuit Court here Tuesday. Judge William L. Ragland presided.

A divorce and custody of two children were granted Ardin Simmons against Rosemary Simmons.

Custody of two children, $50 per month per child for support, and a divorce were awarded Brenda Faye Owens in her suit against James Monroe Owens Jr.

Judge Ragland took under advisement the case of City of Howardville against J. R. Hutchsion Jr., Joe Reeves, Alton Allen and Dave Hicks, after he overruled a motion to dismiss at close of plaintiff's case.

Mishap Fatal to 2 Desoto Teenagers

FESTUS, Mo. (AP) — Two Desoto teenagers were killed and three others injured early today when the car in which they were riding left Big River Heights Road near Festus, side-swiped one tree and struck another broadside.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol identified the victims as Lawrence J. Long, 17, and Charles L. Mulvaney, 17.

The driver of the car, John Harness Jr., 17, and two other passengers were taken to Jefferson County Hospital in Festus with injuries.

Grain Bins Should Be Remedied Now For Use In Wheat Harvest

By Thomas A. Brown, Jr.
County AGent

BLOOMFIELD — As I have traveled around over Stoddard County recently, I have noticed that wheat is turning, so small grain harvest is almost here. Grain bins in which small grain is to be stored should be prepared for the storage of this grain. Certain practices used prior to and at harvest time will do much to help keep the grain clean and free of insect damage.

The first step, and a very important one, in the preparation of the grain bin is to thoroughly clean the bin. Old grain should be removed from the bin as new grain should never be stored on top of old grain. If new grain is stored with old grain, the old grain will serve as a source of insect infestation for the new grain. After old grain has been removed from the bin, all dirt and trash including all grain in cracks and corners should be cleaned out. All grain that might have sifted out around and under the bin should also be cleaned up. In addition to cleaning the bin, any repairs should be made to make the bin rat, mouse, and bird proof.

SPRAY INTERIORS

After the bin has been cleaned, all interior surfaces should be sprayed with either methoxychlor or malathion until wet, but not to the point of run-off. Methoxychlor is recommended at the rate of three-fourths pint of 25 percent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water, and premium grade malathion should be applied at the rate of one- third pint of 57% emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water.

Small grain should be stored on the farm only when the moisture content of the grain is 13 percent or less unless drying facilities are to be used. Storing grain with a higher moisture content will encourage insect troubles.

The use of malathion as a grain protectant offers one of the cheapest and most effective methods of insect control in stored grain available to date. Grain that is dry and free of insects at the time of storage can be protected for as long as one year by the proper use of malathion. For this treatment, mix one pint of 57 percent premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in from two to five gallons of water and treat 1000 bushels of grain with this amount. Or, you can use a one percent premium grade malathion dust at the rate of 50 pounds per 1000 bushels of grain, but be certain that the dust is labelled specifically as a grain protectant. The protectant should be applied either to the grain stream as it comes out of the combine or to the grain as it is elevated into the bin.

After the grain has been put into the bin, the surface of the grain should be levelled and sprayed with the malathion protectant. For this purpose, use one-half pint of 57 percent premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in one to two gallons of water and treat 1000 square feet of surface area with this amount. After this is done, the grain surface should not be disturbed, and forced air should not be used as both will destroy the effectiveness of the protectant.

Following these steps in making preparation to store grain will do much to insure that the quality of the grain is maintained while the grain is in storage.

Commencement Awards Made At Charleston

CHARLESTON — The 1969 Charleston High School commencement exercise were held Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium. The graduating seniors were in charge of the program.

Warren Moss, the assistant principal, presented three perfect attendance certificates and awards to the seniors who attended school for four years without missing a day. These awards went to Nelda Housman, Rosie Rogers, and Allen Rapert.

Coach Herbert Marshall present a trophy to the boy who has participated in sports all four years of high school. The award went to Mike Robbins the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Robbins. Mike had a total of eight varsity letters and participated in three different sports.

The Marshall Award, for the best-all- around boy and girl, was presented by the principal Louis Chaney to Lee Anne Chaney and Jesse Jackson.

The Valedictorian was presented to Lee Anne Chaney who is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Chaney.

The Salutatorian went two senior, who both had the same total of points needed to be named to the honor. This award went to Kathy Palmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Palmer and James Houser, the son of Mr. nd Mrs. James R. Houser. Each also received an award from the Rebekah Lodge and the Odd Fellow Lodge.

Castro Admits Sugar Harvest Far Below Goal

HAVANA (AP) – Prime Minister Fidel Castro admitted Monday night that Cuba 's 1969 sugar harvest would fall far short of its goal and described it as "the agony of the country."

In a brbroadcast speech lasting nearly two hours, Castro blamed the disappointing harvest on equipment and personnel problems. But he said the harvest would start earlier next year and the crop should be bigger. The Communist leader is aiming for a 10-million-ton-harvest in 1970.

He said with 85 per cent of the cutting completed, 4,277,482 tons of sugar have been harvested this year. At that rate, total production will fall below 5 million tons, and Castro had set a goal of 9 million tons.

"The people have been making a great effort but could do more," Castro said. "We have the example of a greater effort, that of the people of Vietnam confronting hundreds of thousands of imperialist soldiers."

Cuba harvested 5.1 million tons of sugar in 1968.

Man on Welfare Repaid for Golf Permits, Fees

NEW YORK (AP) – A welcome recipients has received money for golf permits and greens fees from the city because physicians say he needs "special therapeutic experience." His bid to buy a race horse with city funds was turned down.

The city Social Service Department admitted the unusual grant Tuesday, but denied a charge by the Bronx district attorney that it had given the client grants to make up gambling losses at the race track.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Burton D. Roberts said David Davis, 31, also had applied for special grants to buy a trotting horse, buy appliances and send his wife to a psychiatrist three times a week.

Davis was in court Tuesday for a hearing on four counts of grand larceny and three of petit larceny.

JFK Birthplace To Become Historical Site

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) – The birthplace of the late President John F. Kennedy will be dedicated a National Historical Site Thursday, the day he would have been 52 years old.

An announcement Monday said Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel will make the dedication and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the late president's mother, will present the deed to the two-story frame house to the federal government.

The Kennedy family lived in the house from 1914 to 1920. The family purchased it in 1966, and has restored it to its appearance as of 1917, the year John Kennedy's birth.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
Whereas, default has been made in the payment of interest and principal now due as provided by the note secured by the Deed of Trust, executed by Warren S. Topp, Jr. and June A. Topp, his wife, dated July 1, 1965, recorded in Book 147, at Page 165, in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds of Scott County, Missouri, at Benton, conveying to W. Sylvester Topp, trustee for Arthur Bader and Eleonora Bader, his wife, 0.78 of an acre off the west side of Lot Three (3), Outblock Twenty-three (23) of the City of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, described by metes and bounds as follows: beginning at the Southwest corner of said Lot 3 at an iron pin set for same in the North line of Tanner Street, thence N. 7 degrees 24' West along the line between Lots 3 and 4, a distance of 251 feet to an iron pin set for the northwest corner of said tract; this point is also the common corner of Lots 2, 3 and 4; thence North 82 degrees 36' East along the line between Lots 2 and 3 a distance of 136 feet to an iron pin set for the northeast corner of said tract; thence 57 degrees 24' East paralleling the West line a distance of 251 feet to an iron pin set for the North boundary right - of - way line of Tanner Street and for the Southeast corner of this tract; thence South 82 degrees 36' West along the North boundary line of Tanner Street a distance of 136 feet to the Southwest corner of said tract and point of beginning, the entire unpaid debt secured by said Deed of Trust having been declared due by the holder thereof, and whereas, said Deed of Trust provides that in case of the death of the trustee therein, the then acting Sheriff of Scott County, Missouri, at the request of the legal holder of said note, may proceed to sell the property hereinbefore described, and whereas, W. Sylvester Topp is dead, the undersigned successor trustee will at the request of the legal holder of said note, on Tuesday, June 24, 1969, between the hours of 9:00 o'clock A.M. and 5:00 o'clock P.M. at the east front door of the Scott County Courthouse in Benton, Missouri, sell said real estate at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to satisfy said debt and costs.

HANDOUTS DESTROY CHARACTER

The City Planning Commission of New York has approved a 300,000-word, $19-billion plan that is expected to change the city's skyline and alter its economic and social structure.

The $5 billion a year that this plan is expected to cost must come, so the planners say, from the Federal government.

The main purpose of the plan is to create a new middle class by giving three million poor people "direct payments, new public service jobs, subsidy of expanded jobs in the private sector and stipends during advanced training."

Giving money to poor people has never yet produced middle class people. It is more likely to reduce the present middle class to the poor class.

People achieve middle class standing by character, integrity, initiative and hard work. To greatly increase the burden on them in this attempt to buy a new middle class will reduce them to the poverty level

What we need is more earned money and less free welfare. If able- bodied citizens were required to do useful work in return for relief payments, we would be on the road to a solution of the problem. Giving people more money without obligating them to do useful work for it, is destructive of character and will cause a rapid increase in he number of people needing and demanding relief. It is the road to bankruptcy and loss of freedom.

Many poor people are not able to earn standard wages, but they could earn something. If employers were not required to pay minimum wages to people incapable of earning them, many unemployed people would find jobs. There ought also to be an apprentice wage for younger persons until they acquire the skill and experience that would enable them to earn standard wages.

The destruction of freedom in the marketplace is reponsible for the insoluble problem of welfare and the demand for more and more relief.

When government takes money from some and give it to others, it is violating the Commandments against coveting and stealing. No nation will long retain its freedom if it continually expands that process.

SUN SERVICES LAKE OF THE OZARKS

C. L. Denison, Vice President of Sales for Sun Airlines, announced today that Sun began daily service to Lake of the Ozarks last Thursday, May 15th.

Denison said Sun is flying 18 passenger DeHavilland pro-jet planes into the resort area from St. Louis, Kansas City, Cape Girardeau, Sikeston and Springfield, Missouri.

"Out of state passengers," Denison said, "come into Missouri on the trunk carriers and are ticketed through to the Lake of the Ozarks through Sun's interline agreements with the nation's leading carriers. One ticket will do it from almost any place in the United States."

Sun's flights originate and land at Grand Glaize Airport and the addition of service to Lake of the Ozarks brings the number of cities currently served by the Memphis based commuter line to 17. Sun service area includes Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

FLOWER POWER

NEW YORK (AP) Proud but protective of his springtime blossoms, Parks Commissioner August Heckscher has published the following decree:

"See the parks where blooms are thick.

"Take a sniff but do not pick."

"Let no one say, and say it to your shame.

"That all was beauty here until you came."

PAUL FLOWER'S

It's about that time again, when hundreds of thousands of young hopefuls, having outwitted deans, professors and computerized record systems, will cross the stage and become bachelors, masters, or doctors of one thing or another.

They will be appareled in raiment some of which dates back to the 13th Century; gowns, hoods and caps or hats whose symbolism has long been lost except in archives. Education, like medicine, religion and the law, is pretty much an institution of habit and tradition; vestiges of ancient lore linger long after meanings have been forgotten.

It is of record that students six centuries ago enjoyed their own protest movements; to demonstrate disapproval of an instructor or lecturer young hopefuls would hiss or shout at their mentor, and even throw stones, if he went too fast for them to take notes (this was before students carried portable electronic tape recorders).

The gown was basic everyday wear by students; the professors sported varicolored hoods and odd headpieces, such as today's familiar mortarboard; others used ermine hats ranging from what we now consider Russian or Pakistan fashion, to birettas and even skull-caps similar to the Jews' yarmulkas. Eventually the hood was stretched overhead to make a cap or cowl, but often it was left to dangel, for trimness never was big with scholars, any more than keeping in line or step during the academic procession.

From time to time the hood indicated the rank of the wearer; folk etymology says that our word "falsehood," euphemism for "lie," came into being when some pretender wore a hood to which he was not entitled, hence "Falsehood."

Professors and lecturers were hungry folks before longsuffering taxpayers began picking up the tab for fat professors' salaries; masters' gowns had long, flowing sleeves slitted at convenient places so that the master, once he had finished his tutorial duties, could secrete in his sleeves a ham, a covered dish, or loaf of bread. Sleeves served much the same purpose as a Scotsman's sporran.

In our time, doctors of philosophy (or medicine, dentistry, law, literature or other mysteries) wear chevrons of appropriate color on the black sleeves.

Since 1911, caps and gowns have become standard raiment for high school graduations; the color is usually gray, although bright blue appears now and then.

There is a traditon, apparently without much authority, that a candidate moves the tassel from left to right upon receiving the diploma; the practice is fairly common today, and is a pleasant gesture even if it lacks official sanction. If your young genius forgets to shift the tassel, be not dismayed, for the tradition may be honored without the gesture.

Probably the greatest advance in academic vestments since the Middle Ages has been the invention of air conditioning.

Before that happy era even faculty men left their shirts in the robing room, and ladies made sure their gowns gave no hint that dresses were abandoned in favor of filmy slips.

My own ambition has been to march in academic procession, clad in kilts, or a Shriner's costume. I do not expect to live long enough to see the girls in academic bikinis.

To help you identify graduates in different subjects (we used to call them "disciplines") here is a list which you can carry to graduation exercises and use to keep your own box score. The tassel tells the tale:

MALDEN — Richard Wiethan, vice president of the Malden Chamber of Commerce, has asked for proposals by Malden residents for the purpose of assuring additional industry that a sufficiency of housing would be made available to any new industrial locators.

A Representative of the industry who will sponsor the Prospective new plant has informed the Chamber Office that because of the willingness of the people of Malden to co-operate in this matter, made evident by the proposals that were received, Negotiations with the prospect can continue and naturally hopes are high that these negotiations will prove successful.

Food Facts & Fancies

By TRIENAH MEYERS

I wonder how many of you have ever stopped to consider how much food we eat in a year. It is equal to 2-1/2 tons of food a year for an average family of four. And this food has to be moved from farms to a supermarket so a family shopper can have the food she wants, where she wants it, when she wants it, in the form she wants it, and, hopefully, at a price she considers "reasonable."

Think how this task is compounded for a supermarket manager. This family shopper is only one of his customers. Others may differ in their wants because of the amount they can or want to spend for food, the kind and qualities of food they like, the amount of built- in maid service they want to buy, the size of their family, and the ages of their children...

Think of all the people who are involved in one way or another in getting the food to the family shopper and to away - from - home eating places. Farmers, assemblers, truckers, processors, wholesalers and retailers -- all working together, with each group making its own special contribution. Then add to this others who supply these people with tractors, trucks, processing and packaging equipment, cartons and bottles, and the 11 million shopping carts, which, if placed end- to - end, would reach from Chicago to Paris.

All of these workers together have provided us with a variety of "seasonal" foods the year around along with foods that reach our kitchens in new and appealing forms - foods of high quality, packaged for more economical distribution, easier storage, and protection from spoilage and contamination.

Yet, today, most of us seem to take for granted all of these things that are done for us. Even some of us who have reached - or passed - the age where "life begins" have forgotten about the day when a fresh orange in the Christmas stocking was a real treat.

We have forgotten about all the hours that were spent in "putting up" the vegetables and fruit needed during the winter, about the treks to the bakery, the corner grocery where baskets of lettuce and other fresh produce were often left sitting in the sun, the butcher shop with sawdust on the floor and beef hanging uncovered, unrefrigerated, at the side of the store.

Many of us who can remember these days tend to recall only those things that look good to us from this distance - like the prices we paid. Many wonder - and sometimes very vocally - why we have to pay more now for steak than we did in 1935. We do pay more for most foods today than we used to do. But, since our incomes have gone up faster than prices, we are spending a smaller share of our take-home pay for food than ever before in our history.

Statements in newspapers last fall indicated that many consumers see little, if any, relationship between incomes and prices. Their incomes should go up, but the prices of things they want or have to buy should stay the same. For example, a homemaker may not understand that when her husband gets a raise in salary this becomes part of the product or service he supplies. This may increase the cost to the buyer unless efficiencies offset some or all of this added cost. If consumers stop buying the product or service because they think the price is too high, their husbands may be out of jobs.

Gains in "purchasing power" or what we can buy with our take-home pay have not always proceeded at a uniform pace. At times, wages have gone up faster than prices. Most of us like this, for then we can buy more of the things we want. But this creates, additional demands, and if there are not enough products to satisfy these demands, prices go up. We, then, may be in a period when prices tend to go up faster than income. We don't like this situation as well and call it inflation.

In both of these types of situations, an individual or a family may be affected differently from the so-called "average." A family whose income doesn't go up notices increases in prices more than the one getting a raise or promotion. Extra pressure is put on our pocketbooks too if wages stay the same and the family grows larger and older. If one is retired, any price rise, whether in rent, medical bills or foods, is noticed.

As with other things, prices of food change. In part, this is because the amount paid for labor and materials becomes part of the cost of the item produced. Prices of the tractors farmers use have gone up in price over the years. The cost of equipment used by processors, wholesalers and grocers has gone up too. Added to this are the wages of workers all along the line, though theirs have not increased as much as wages of employees in many other kinds of jobs.

Overall, prices of most foods have been "reasonable" and, at times a "bargain" in terms of our take-home pay. Often we don't think so or we tend to want the prices of "necessities" to stay the same so we can buy other things to satisfy our yearnings. Why is it that we seem particularly sensitive to changes in the prices of food? Why do we protest so vehemently when some foods go up a penny or two while other things we buy may have increased dollars? How much do we really know about food prices -- about what our food bills actually are?

One observation is that family shoppers seem to be more aware of increases than decreases in food prices. You may say that this is fine - she should be - this is her job. But what seems to happen is that she remembers the high prices and doesn't balance them out over time when prices go down. It is normal for prices of many foods to fluctuate - season to season - from week to week.

But, you may say, prices did go up last year, and the women were quite vocal about it! Yes, food prices did go up last year. Until August, they increased at a faster rate than has been usual in recent years. And, during these months, each time the Bureau of Labor Statistics Food index went up, it made the headlines. This served to accent price rises and, for some individuals, it accented them to the point that when newspapers now say that the cost of living has gone up, they subconsciously blame food.

Even last fall when some housewives were protesting the prices of foods, some very important foods in family purchases were already going down in price. In October 36 of the 87 foods priced by BLS were lower than they were in March (1966) 30 were cheaper than in September; and 14 were lower in price than the same month the year before...

Let's see how some of these indexes have changed since 1957-59. As of May this year, the most recent data we have, the Food Index had risen 13.9 percent since 1957-59. Food away from home had increased 28.7 percent, while food at the grocery had risen by only 10.9 percent. By comparison, during this same period, medical care was up 35.7 percent; prices of footwear had increased 25.2 percent; and public transportation was up 30.9 percent. The index for "all items" together - or the overall increase in the cost of living - had risen 15.6 percent. Only fuel and utilities, household furnishings and operations, and women's and girls' apparel and upkeep had risen less than food at home.

...I'm inclined to think too that homemakers have a price range in mind when they shop. If the price goes above this mental price ceiling - because of short supplies - then the homemaker is reluctant to buy. If the price falls to an unusual low because of abundant supplies, she will buy more but may not stop to think what a bargain it is.

Food prices are "high" or getting there when they push this mental price ceiling and "normal" only when they go down. For items like fryers, she may consider the "special" price the regular price. Yet, the store may be using them as loss leaders, selling them at or even below cost on that particular day. I wonder how many of us would be willing to buy eggs, incubate them to raise little chicks - then feed these chickens for months, kill them, remove the feathers, head, feet, and entrails, wrap giblets in absorbent paper, insert these into the inner cavity, put the cleaned chicken in a plastic bag and get it to the retail meat counter for from 24 to 29 cents a pound - for less than $1 for a 3-pound ready- to - cook chicken?

While I'm talking about chicken, I'd like to digress a bit and discuss some of the comments we get about the packaging of meat. Some homemakers would like it cut-to - order, others think packaging adds to the cost. I believe that, today, most supermarkets do cut meat to order if a family shopper asks for it. But, let's just assume there is no precut, prepackaged meat available. Can you imagine what it would be like on a Saturday if every shopper had to wait to have meat cut to order? Imagine a hundred customers waiting in line while one shopper tells the butcher the cut of meat she wants, the grade of meat she wants, and the quantity she wants. Then the butcher would have to go to the refrigerator and bring out part of a side of beef, try to slice a piece of meat so it will weigh the amount specified, get the customer's approval of what he has done, and then he still would have to wrap it. Such a line would only inch along - be much slower than at any check-out counter - unless more meat cutters were hired.

Going back to food costs, there's another thing that tends to make it difficult for us to know precisely what we spend for food. This is because, on any one shopping trip, there can be quite a difference between the supermarket bill and the food bill. In today's supermarkets everything is displayed side by side. And, everything includes all the things that get added to the grocery bill that aren't foods at all - laundry soap, floor wax, children's socks, even hi-fi records and encyclopedias. About 20 percent of the average grocery bill - the bill we tend to think of as the family food bill - is made up of items to wear, or read, or listen to, or clean house with. We certainly don't eat them. I know I was surprised to find that we buy through the supermarket about 90 percent of all the cat and dog food sold, more than half of the toothpaste, half of the aspirin and now nearly half of the hair spray. We spend about the same amount in grocery stores for dog food as we do for three products - canned and bottled beer for off-premise consumption, cigarettes, and pet foods - than we do for fresh beef...

It's difficult for some of us to realize that over half of our population is under 28 - that three out of every four Americans living today are too young to remember World War I.

That NEarly two-thrids of us were not yet born when the stock market crashed in 1020! And, most amazing to me, is that to nearly a half of our population the Korean War is ancient history! This means they've been growing up during the period of greatest prosperity - and technological innovation - in our history.

The "under 30's" have a different attitude towards needs and wants than their parents and grandparents who grew up in the prewar and "flapper" eras. In general, those "under 30" homemakers have more formal education than their elders, are more sophisticated, marry younger, move around more, and tend to have better incomes earlier in life than former generations. They demand more conveniences- in fact, many of these are necessities, not luxuries.

Today's young homemakers have always shopped in supermarkets with from 6,000 to 8,000 or even more items from which to choose. They can and do select from a variety of precooked, prepackaged foods - processed potatoes, TV dinners, oven- ready pizzas, prepared cake mixes, brown- and - serve rolls. Studies have shown that these homemakers are among the heaviest users of such items. And, they especially like to try "new" ones.

Our young shoppers take for granted the fringe benefits provided by supermarkets - parking, check- cashing service, air -conditioned comfort in summer, loudspeakers to report lost children, sample demonstrators of new foods. The only supermarkets they have known specialize in selling a market basket of services along with their products.

What is being forecast for the next generation of young homamakers is largely more of everything. Unless unforeseen events take place, they are expected to have higher incomes; and there will be still more things to tempt them to spend this money. They will be even more used to extraordinary technological developments than our young people are today. I believe that work should be started today to build a wiser generation to cope with tomorrow's challenges...

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday May 29, the 149th day of 1969. There are 216 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1453, the capital of the Byzantine empire Constantinople, was captured by the Turks.

On this date:

In 1790, Rhode Island became the 13th state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1848, Wisconsin became the 30th state.

In 1917, the 35th president of the United States, John F. Kennedy, was born in Brookline, Massachusetts.

In 1943, during the Pacific war, Americans defeated the Japanese in the battle of Attu in the Aleutians.

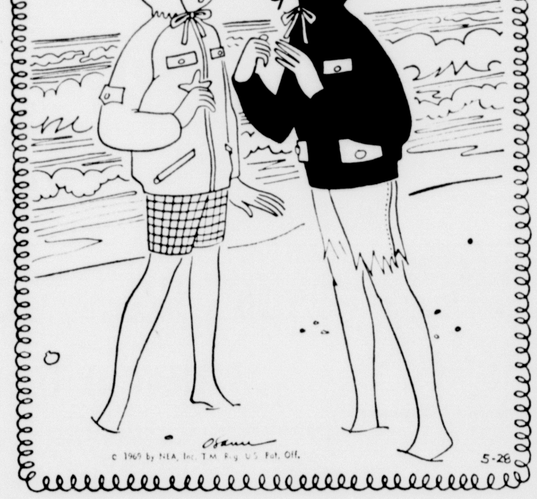

In 1953, Edmond Hillary of New Zealand and Tensing Nor Kay of Nepal became the first climbers to reach the top of Mt. Everest, the world's highest mountain.

Ten years ago — The International Olympics Committee, meeting in Munich, Germany, voted to withdraw recognition from Nationalist China.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union disclosed it had photographed military bases and installations from space.

Judge Fines Eight Persons in Court

Eight defendants were issued fines totaling $250 by Magistrate Court Judge M. E. Montgomery today. James E. Moore III, assisting Scott County prosecuting attorney, representing the state.

Three cases were dismissed, three certified to Circuit Court and four cases were continued.

Harold Ray Smith, 838 E. Gladys, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50 and costs. He was paroled after being charged with assisting in a jail break, and his parole revoked. A brother from Michigan and a sister from Arizona, were present in an effort to take their younger brother to Michigan to place him in a job and look after him. Judge Montgomery asked liquor officer Ballwin Young to investigate the matter. The defendant was fined $50 and costs on his plea of guilty.

Jerry Ritchie Morgan, East Prairie, pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50.

Amos LeRoy Brazeal, Scott City, charged with feloniously stealing from Semo Motor Company, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to Circuit Court. His bond was set at $1,000.

Herb Yaney, 535 N. Ranney pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50.

Lynn Fred Petty, 847 E. Gladys, pleaded guilty on two counts. On count one for improper motor vehicle registration, he was fined $50. On count two, with not having a valid operator's license, he was fined $10.

Robert Sylvester Rogers, 801 Delmar, pleaded guilty on two counts and was fined $10 on each, for improper license plates and improper exhaust on motor vehicle.

Jerry Loyd Pritchett, Franklin Park, Ill., pled guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $5.

Earl Eugene Cook, 822 Linn, pled guilty to operating a motorcycle without an operator's license, and fined $10.

Two cases were dismissed on payment of costs, Lawrence Pfifer 1620 E. Matthews, charged with contributing to delinquency of a minor and Ted Coleman, 809 Ruth, charged with assault.

Joyce Litchford, Sikeston, charged with issuing a worthless check, was sentenced to six months jail. The sentence was stayed on good behavior for one year.

James Leon Ford, 315 Ruth, charged with operating motor vehicle without a license, asked for a change of venue. The case was certified to Circuit Court and bond set at $100.

Carl Hamilton, Highway 61 north, charged with issuing worthless check, had his case certified to Circuit Court after Judge Montgomery disqualified himself.

Armon Marvin Dunn, 835 E. Kathleen, pleaded not guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor. His trial was set for June 10.

The bond of Carroll Gene Drake, Canalou, who was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was forfeited, and his arrest ordered.

GRAVEYARD ON THE HILL

I see the old graveyard there on the hill
Peacefull, lonely so quit and still
Whippoorwill singing in the old cedar tree
Breaking the silence with his sweet melody.

Green grows the grass on each new mound
Covering the ones in the deep dark ground
Flowers blooming gayly as gently they way
In the cool of the evening of a warm summer day.

Bells in the steeple of the old church does ring
Bringing new hope to the graveyard again
Reminding the ones that lie there asleep.
That someday the Lord will his promises keep.

That those who sleep in the graveyard today
Will someday arise and fly far away.
To a land he's provided for those who have been Faithful and loyal always to him.

Exposure to Antismoking Ads Cuts Teen Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of teen-agers exposed to antismoking messages—including the blunt "smoke, choke, croak"—shows a sharp decline of youngsters taking up cigarettes in the last 10 years.

The drop means the total number of smokers in the United States remains about 40 million despite increases in the population, according to Roy L. Davis, a spokesman for the survey group.

Among 17-year-olds questioned during 1967-68, 25.6 per cent of the boys said they smoked cigarettes and 15.7 per cent of the girls said they are smokers.

A 1965 survey of the same age group reported 34.7 per cent of the boys and 25.5 per cent of the girls said they smoked.

The new survey by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health was prepared for the U.S. Public Health Service.

Ninety-one per cent of those querried answered yes when asked: "Would you say smoking is harmful to health?"

The survey offered no reasons for the drop in youth smoking but, in an interview, Davis cited education programs about health factors in cigarettes.

Davis said the survey also showed young people who have slipped behind their age-mates in school and those who do not expect to go to college are more likely to smoke.

A board foot is a standard unit of measure that equals a square board one foot on each side and one-inch thick.

"Kids probably have the greatest impact on kids," said Davis, citing for example the program at a Bakersfield, Calif., high school where students campaigned against cigarette smoking with the help of billboards, radio, television and newspapers.

Davis said youngsters there distributed the "smoke, choke, croak" bumper stickers. He said he saw one on a car in San Francisco, about 20 miles north of Bakersfield.

"There probably are hundreds and hundreds of school districts and groups of kids doing things like this," Davis said. "You should hear the kids in these projects—they're death on smoking."

Davis said education programs on the dangers of smoking must also be directed toward parents.

One study found the smoking rate highest among students in households where father and mother smoke, he said. However, if neither parent is a current smoker, the rate of student smoking is almost as low as it is when neither parent has ever been a smoker, the survey found.

Mark Schumacher

Schumacher Graduates

SUBIACO, ARK. — Mark Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. F.X. Schumacher, 530 Vernon Ave., Sikeston, was among the 58 seniors receiving their high school diplomas at the Commencement exercises of Subiaco Academy, held Saturday, May 24.

Mark's diploma was presented to him by the Rev. Michael Lensing, O.S.B., President of the Arkansas boarding Academy where he has been a student the past four years.

During his years at the Academy, Mark was active in many of the extracurricular activities of the school and has distinguished himself as a leader in school life. He has earned the title of President of the Student Council the past year, as the vice president of his class last year, as a cheerleader for the Academy's Trojans the past two years, and as a member of the school's Lector Society.

In addition, Mark has been an avid participant in the intermural programs of the school and is a National Merit Finalist.

ARMED FORCES

BINH THUY, S. Vietnam — The poem below was written by Ynsm. Donald Jones, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Jones, 403 Prosperity, and sent to his lady friend, Miss Sharon Holden, Sikeston.

Seaman Jones trained at Great Lakes, Ill., last summer, was sent to Bainbridge, Md., to San Diego, Calif., to complete naval training, and then to Yuma, Ariz., for weapons training.

He has been in Vietnam since early March, where he will remain for 13 months, and has enlisted for four years. Jones was one of two navy men of his squadron to be picked by St. Louis Cardinals baseball nd the two men went through the entire training course together.

The poem is as follows:

Take a man; Then put him alone.
Put him 12,000 miles from home.
Empty his heart of all but blood,
Make him live in sweat and mud.
This is the life I have to live,
This is why my soul to the devil I give.

You "Peace Boys" rant from your easy chairs,
But you don't know what it's like "over there."
You have a ball without near trying,
While over here your boys are dying.
You burn your Draft Cards,
march at dawn.
Plant your signs on the White House lawn.
You all want to ban the bomb;
"There's no real war in Viet Nam."
Use your drugs and have your fun,
And then refuse to use the gun.
There's nothing else for you to do.
And I'm supposed to die for you.

I'll hate you till the day I die,
You made me hear my buddy cry.
I saw his arm a bloody shred.
I heard them say "This one is dead."
It's a large price he had to pay.
Not to live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die.
He paid the price, but what did he buy?
He bought your life by losing his.
But who gives a damn what a soldier gives?
His wife does and maybe his sons,

By Donald R. Jones

REDDITCH, England (AP) — Housewife Maureen Leonard, 21, thought it was a stunt when Anthony Reynolds, 26, a fire extinguisher salesman, grabbed one of his samples, knocked on the door and told her the roof was on fire. Reynolds finally convinced her to let him in to put out the blaze he had spotted from his car.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

You, beloved, build yourselves up on your most holy faith; pray in the Holy Spirit. (Jude 20, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to think and live each day so that the Holy Spirit may work His influence through every decision and action of our lives. Help us to be witnesses of Thy power in the affairs of men and nations. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Judge is Questioned About Law

By ack Strauss, LL.B.

Judge Homer was a great guy and a great judge. However, there was some question as to how much law he knew. Appointed a judge, he acted as such for seven years. And during that time he took the state's bar examination three times, and failed it each and every aggravating time.

Perhaps a little embarrassed by the situation, Judge Homer finally decided to take the wasy way out. Instead of taking the bar examination a fourth time, he filed a petition with an appropriate court to be admitted to practice law in the state upon application.

"After all," he pointed out, "I've been a judge for seven years and my qualifications are unimpeachable."

"While he's had lots of legal experience," conceded members of the Bar Association, "and does have substantial qualifications, the bar Examination isn't a test of how much liquor a man can hold. It's a test of how much law he knows. Having flunked it three times, Judge Homer is not entitled to special privileges."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Judge Homer to be allowed to practice law in the state without taking the bar examination again?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that considering the fact that Judge Homer had had a great deal of legal experience as a judge for seven years, in addition to otherwise being highly qualified to practice law, it is in the best interests of those served by the legal profession to grant Judge Homer's petition.

Miss Weber to Wed

50 years ago
May 28, 1919

Miss Paicide Weber, one of Cape Girardeau's most popular young ladies, will be married in the near future, to Girard Dover, of Sikeston. The secret was revealed by Miss Weber some few days ago in a conference with her friends.

A basket dinner was given at the Baptist Church Sunday after the morning service, in honor of the Rev. S.P. Brite and his family who expect to leave this city in the near future.

"We have been in business 40 years, and have been pleasing and displeasing the people ever since. We have been cussed and discussed, talked about, lied about, lied to, writ up, ripped up, hung up and run down. The only reason we are staying in business is to see what in the hell is going to happen next."

Master David Blanton has been very anxious to secure a position of some sort during the summer months and The Standard has secured his services to collect subscription on the paper. He may not be as diplomatic as some collectors, but is just as sincere as he is working on commission and says he needs the money.

Twenty passengers were taken for short rides over Sikeston and vicinity in planes of the Boyer Aircraft Corporation of this place Sunday afternoon. Gene Potashnick is the latest student of the air field, according to Hubert Boyer, who adds, that two more students are expected to begin taking lessons June 1.

Manager Hudgens of the Sterling Store, Front street, is proud of his recent installation of all glass display trays, which tend to give this modern variety store an "uptown" appearance. The store was sold to the Sterling chain by C.A. Peek, who moved to California, and has prospered under the management of Mr. Hudgens.

Matthews--Commencement exercises were held Friday night. Attorney Spradling of Cape Girardeau delivered the address to a crowded house. It was said that the largest crowd was in attendance at the graduating exercises that had ever attended.

A four-way business center is operating at the C.L. Malone building at Malone and New Madrid streets. Besides the drug store on the corner, there is a pet shop immediately south, a barber shop and beauty shop. Operating the drug store and pet shop is Billy Malone. Mrs. Imogene Anderson manages the beauty shop and Joe Newton has the barber shop.

A motor mishap 10 miles this side of Memphis caused one group of high school students on the Southern tour more than 12 hours delay in returning home.

A car Sunday night was forced into a ditch filled with water by a truck causing a head injury to Harold Swannagon, the driver, according to reports received here. The automobile belonged to W.H. Sikes, who went to the scene of the accident. Information phoned here said other occupants were not hurt. They are believed to be Mary Jane Sikes, Mary Louise Montgomery, Martha Haw, and Catherine Ann Cook.

Albert Lloyd Tetley, son of R.S. Tetley of Sikeston, was awarded a degree in ceramic engineering at the annual commencement exercises at Missouri School of Mines at Rolla the past week.

Joe Dover has received word from the War Department at Washington, D.C., that he has been appointed to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. Joe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dover, is completing his third year at Central College, Fayette.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bennett accompanied their son, George, to St. Louis last week where the former underwent surgery Friday. The Sikeston Junior Legion team whipped Cape 9 to 4 Sunday for its fourth straight league victory.

Construction began today on the first drive-in theater to be built in the Sikeston area. The project which is being erected near Miner Switch on Highway 60 East is being built by O.D. Clayton, Sam Potashnick and Marvin Ralph.

Mrs. Ruby Brewer, 25, Route 2, Morehouse, was wounded in the back of the neck when struck by a .22 caliber rifle bullet while fishing on the drainage ditch near the Rail Haven Auto Court Sunday afternoon. Three youths, two of whom admitted to the state patrol that they were firing a rifle in the vicinity at the time Mrs. Brewer was hit, will face unspecified charges in juvenile court.

E.F. Mouser, Sikeston, received word this afternoon that two of his relatives had been killed in an automobile accident near Lutesville. Killed were Mrs. D.P. Whitener of Fredericktown, a sister, and Mrs. R.C. Mouser, a sister-in-law of Clovis, N.M. Avery Mouser of Fredericktown, a brother, is in serious condition in an Irontown hospital. R.C. Mouser, husband of one of the crash victims and driver of the car, escaped injury

Reasons Charles gave me the other day as to why I had married him:

1. to open pickle jars
2. to paint the house (as slow as his moving on this job, I really feel I could have made myself a better choice)
3. to get my cold feet cozy on his warm back
4. to unscrew my fingernail polish bottle tops
5. to pay the bills (here again I have doubts as to the wisdom of what I picked)
6. to fuss at
7. to carry out the trash
8. to pry open jelly jars
9. to put the stand on the Christmas tree (always with my help I might add)
10. to prune the roses
11. to drive the car when going on trips
12. to pop the cork in a wine bottle
13. to love, honor, cherish (and occasionally obey), but it seems he forgot that one poor, pitiful, mistreated baby - he should complain, just wait until I make my list up of reasons why he married me!!! - course they really could be condensed into just one - cheap labor!!

MOM

It's hard to say the things we feel
When heart's are full, and love's revealed,
You've meant so much through all the years
And caused the sun to shine through tears.

When times were hard, and we were small,
You found the strength to love us all
The years passed on, but still we knew
Our faith and trust belonged to you.

You gave your best to each of us,
And never once complained or fussed,
You seemed to know the things we need
A word, a smile or some kind deed.

Dear Mom, we never can repay
The things you do for us each day
This world would have a brighter view
If all the Mom's were just like you.

Cernan's Slovak Relatives Follow Astronauts Closely

VYSOKA NAD KYSUCOU, Czechoslovakia (AP) — "They have returned to our planet. Let's drink to our cosmonauts . . our cosmonauts," the husky Slovak said, raising a glass of brandy.

Imrich Cernan, cousin of American astronaut Eugene Cernan, proposed the toast in a darkened room full of Slovaks.

They were crowded around a television screen so small it needed a magnifying glass to enlarge the flickering image of Apollo 10 brought from the Pacific by satellite, Eurovision and Czechoslovak TV.

By "our cosmonauts" Imrich meant Eugene A. Cernan, Thomas P. Stafford and John W. Young.

Especially Cernan. The Navy commander is a hero to this town of his forebears and its citizens are hoping he will visit them.

Waiting for the astronauts to be fished out of the ocean, Imrich said: "They're sure to be drinking to each other's health right now. They've got a tape recorder and recordings and spaghetti in there, surely they must have a bottle of something to drink."

The three astronauts appeared clearly on the screen aboard the recovery ship Princeton a few minutes later. Children in the crowded room said, "There's Cernan on the left. There's Stafford. There's Young."

Imrich, 38, is of the same generation as his 35-year-old second cousin. They are great-grandsons of the late Andrew Cernan of Vysoka.

Two of Andrew's four sons emigrated to America about 1900. One of them was the astronaut's grandfather, Stegan.

"Now more and more people here claim to be related to our Gene," said Imrich.

Three families of Cernan cousins can be found in this town of stucco and log houses lining the meandering Kysucou River on the eastern slope of the mountain range that divides Slovakia and Moravia, 250 miles east of Prague.

The population of Vysoka is 4,800, predominantly Catholic with a sprinkling of nonbelievers and Communists.

"We lit candles and prayed for the cosmonauts in the church last Sunday. It was our duty," said Imrich's mother, Katarina Cernanova, a sturdy woman of 54.

Imrich once served in the Czechoslovak Air Force and worked for the city government until the Stalinists ousted him in the early 1960s, he said. The father of a daughter 11 and a son 18 months old, he now helps his parents at the family sawmill, working from dawn to dusk.

The sawmill was closed in 1948, when the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, but family members said they were allowed to open it last year during the period of liberalization, provided that 30 per cent of the profits were turned over to the local government.

Another cousin, Mrs. Maria Kubackova, made contact with the American side of the family. Hearing about the astronaut named Cernan, she wrote to the space center 2½ years ago. Since then, she has received letters and Christmas cards from Eugene, his wife, and his father, who died a year ago.

Mrs Kubackova sat silently before the television screen during the splashdown of Apollo 10. Then she sighed and said, "Now Eugene, his wife and daughter will be able to sleep well tonight."

Guard Leaves Lincoln U.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — National Guardsmen pulled out of Lincoln University Monday but were ordered to remain available for quick recall.

Maj. Gen. L. B. Adams, Missouri Adjutant General, said he and Col. E. I. Hockaday, superintendent of the highway patrol, agreed to relieve the 224 Guardsmen of their duties at the university where they had been stationed for the past week following an outburst of fires and shooting last Monday.

That left about 150 state troopers to police the tense campus as final examinations began for undergraduates.

The reward for conviction of those involved in the fires, meanwhile, climbed to $1,900 with the News — Tribune Publishing Co. of Jefferson City offering $500 over the weekend.

A faculty group is reported trying to add to the fund also. It was started by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes last Tuesday when he offered $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for setting fires that caused nearly $500,000 damage.

Minority Republican members of the House followed suit and matched the chief executive's offer. That was increased by two St. Louis men who offered $200 each.

Less than a dozen students have been arrested since the outbreak a week ago, most of them for curfew violations.

ARMED FORCES

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, ARK -- Colonel Eugene D. Minietta, 97th Bomb Wing commander, has been reassigned to Second Air Force Headquarters, Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana, where he will serve as Second Air Force assistant Deputy Chief of Staff / Materiel. He will be departing in June for the new assignment.

Colonel Minietta will assume full responsibility in January 1970 when the present Deputy Chief of Staff/Materiel. He will be departing in June for the new assignment.

Colonel Minietta will assume full responsibility in January 1970 when the present Deputy Chief of Staff/Materiel, Colonel Charles D. Lewis, retires. The Deputy Chif of Staff/Materiel exercises supervision of all matters pertaining to aircraft and missile maintenance, procurement, materiel analysis, logistics, transportation, supply and services activities for all Second Air Force bases.

Colonel Minietta entered the service in January of 1942 as an aviation cadet at Bennettsville Army Air Field, South Carolina. He graduated from Spence Army Air Field, Moultrie, Georgia, in November of 1942 and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

The colonel served in Korea as a squadron commander and operations officer. He flew on 26 aerial combat missions and logged over 119 flying hours in B-26 aircraft during a nine month period.

For his performance, he received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

Entering the Strategic Air Command in October 1958, Colonel Minietta first served the Strategic Air Command at McCoy Air Force Base, Florida, as a B-47 bomb squadron commander. He entered the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island, in August 1963. While there the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island, in August 1963. While there he also received his masters degree in international relations from George Washington University.

Returning to Strategic Air Command duty in October 1963, Colonel Minietta served as deputy commander for maintenance, 450th Bomb Wing, Minot Air Force Base, North Dakota, until May 1965. He was reassigned as deputy commander for operations, Grand Forks Air Force Base, North Dakota, where he served until May 1966.

Colonel Minietta and his wife, the former Dorothea C. Arata, have three children. Colonel Kenneth E. Wehrman, presently assigned to Tan Son Nhut Air Base, REPUBLIC OF Vietnam, has been named to succeed Colonel Minietta as 97th Bomb Wing Commander.

LEW LARKIN
In the Kansas City Times

John Cummins Edwards, the ninth governor of Missouri and one of the youngest (38) to be elected, joined the gold rush to California at the end of his term. He settled in Stockton and became its mayor.

Although Edwards did not become an outstanding governor, much history was written during his term. For example:

1. When the President called for Missouri volunteers in the War with Mexico, Edwards was quick to deliver.

2. He called out Missouri troops to back up Missourians in the "Honey war" with Iowa.

3. He pardoned James E. Burr, Alanson Work and George Thompson, the Illinois abolitionists, although it was not popular to do so.

When the War with Mexico started, President Polk, plus the War department and military strategists, deemed it a good idea to backstop any infiltration of Mexican armies from the Southwest into the United States. So, in May, 1846, the President issued a call for Missouri volunteers.

They would not be a part of the regular army but have battle status. The men would furnish their own horses and be reimbursed for service. The Missourians were frontiersmen, expansionists, fighters and visionaries.

The President wanted about 1,000 men. Within a month, 1,358 Missourians had volunteered, and Alexander W. Doniphan of Liberty was elected colonel. The record this group achieved, in defeating two much larger and more experienced Mexican armies was outstanding.

Gov. Lilburn Boggs, Edwards's predecessor, started the "Honey war" but Edwards wasn't about to run from another governor's challenge. In those days the harvesting of honey from trees was lucrative. The "finder," or owner, banded, or marked, the tree. And he paid a tax. Iowa insisted that some of the trees banded by Missourians were really in Iowa. The argument grew. Both governors called out armies. There was no shooting war but the controversy was not settled until years later when a congressional committee decided the precise boundary lines.

The three abolitionists had been charged with kidnaping, or stealing, Missouri slaves and freeing them. They were captured, tried, convicted and sentenced to the Missouri prison. The jury in Palmyra was out one hour and sentenced the three to 12 years each. Burr had been a ministerial student. One of the jurors in his trial was John M. Clemens, father of Samuel Clemens. Burr was sick while in prison, and suffered a broken arm in an accident. Alanson Work, whose father, Henry Clay Work, later wrote "Marching Through Georgia," also was pardoned by Edwards. The governor let Thompson, the more aggressive and fanatical of the three, stay in a little longer and then pardoned him.

A "Woman's bill," passed by the Legislature during Edward's term had some protective clauses for women, but there was a lot of double talk in it. It was meant to exempt the wife's property and possessions that she owned before marriage from any debts and liabilities after marriage.

Edwards didn't think it offered any protection for the wife, and really very little for the husband, and stated, "A separate property would change the character of the wife. In the (separate) management of her estate, she would lose the woman and become in character a man. All that was soft and tender and endearing would vanish, and she would grow sturdy, obstinate and masculine, as in the case where effeminate husbands surrender the reins of government to their wives."

MU to Award Honorary Degree to Tennessee Williams

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Tennessee Williams, Pulitzer Prizewinning playwright and a former student here, will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree at University of Missouri commencement exercises next Tuesday night.

Williams, known as Thomas Lanier Williams whn he studied arts and journalism here between 1929 and 1932, will receive the only honorary degree issued at the ceremonies in Memorial Stadium.

The graduating class will number about 3,750—just about the size of the entire student body when Williams was a student here.

Public Defender Bill Advances to Floor of House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Economics Committee of the Missouri House today approved a bill to establish a public defender system in Missouri. The vote was reported as 9 to 3.

It now is ready for final consideration in the House and if successful will still face the Senate.

The bill would set up 13 public defender districts in court circuits with heavy enough caseloads to make a fulltime defender staff feasible.

In smaller outstate circuits the courts would appoint defense attorneys for anyone not financially able to employ his own attorney. The state would foot the bill for the full time defenders and for the court-appointed attorneys. The appointed attorneys would get their expenses and a reasonable fee.

It was estimated the system, if enacted, would cost the state about $1.8 million a year.

Rep. Robert Jasper, D-Washington, economics chairman, said he thought it was foolish to approve bills that will cost money when the Senate has appeared to be opposed to any measures to increase state revenue. He said he voted against the defender bill.

East Prairie Grads Realize Responsibilities of Life

By SHIRLEY PRITCHETT
STAFF CORRESPONDENT

EAST PRAIRIE — Some 104 graduating East Prairie High School seniors took their last walk together here Tuesday night as parents, grandparents and friends, many with damp eyes, watched them make their entry from the calm of high school accomplishments into the turbulent and chaotic world of today, as they received diplomas depicting their completion of high school endeavours.

The graduates had decided to forego the usual invitation of a guest speaker and instead designated four members of their class to give their ideas of "Educational Opportunities and Responsibilities."

And the quartet did a magnificient job of their undertaking as Odie Lingle, Darlene Staples, the class valedictorian; Betty Krauss and Lloyd Smith outlined what they thought the class owed to their parents, their teachers, their community and themselves. And, as Smith said in his closing remarks "We have all been very proud of America and being Americans. Now it is time for us to make America proud of us."

Lingle had told how the students had, individually and collectively, recognized that the class of 104 had proven to be 104 problems for parents, relatives and teachers. Now we have finished and we feel that "we will be able to show you that we are worthy of the trials, the anguish and the worry we have caused as we go forth and fashion lifes that make us worthy of that work and trust."

Miss Staples, daughter of Mr. Sidney Staples and Mrs. Ruth Pingleton, pointed out that "education involves a lot more than just facts and formulas. It is a means to visualize and to obtain the American dream, an America that will become even greater because we have striven to make it better. This now our opportunity and we must make the most of it." she added.

Miss Krauss, stressing the need for "aiding our homes, our community and ourselves and thereby, in so doing, benefit mankind generally, pointed out that the America of today, despite its dissension and apparent immorality is still a great America. We must go forward, using the education we have received to make the future not one of riots, of burnings, of terror and death in the streets but a fruitful, ever advancing land, where the will of the majority for a tranquail and prosperous land will be realized.

She had finished close behind Miss Staples for class honors, registering a 10.5000 grade average of a possible 11 point perfect achievement. Miss Staples, finishing with a remarkable 10.914 average, for her four high school years. She is a member of the Student Council. the Photography Club, president of the National Honor Society and has receiveda Degree of Honor in the National Forensic Society. Brenda is secretary of the Library and the Photography Club.

The speakers were introduced by Supt. William Ray Melton, with Principal Robert E. Grassle presenting the class and Clayton Allstun, president of the board of education, presenting the diplomas.

The graduation was one of best attended in the school's history with license plates from more than a dozen states attesting to the interest of friends and relatives of the graduating seniors.

The Class motto was "Ever Forward, Never Backward." The flower was the White Carnation and the colors red and white.

Noranda Halted

NEW MADRID — Bruce R. Allen, Noranda Aluminum, Inc., confirmed Tuesday that all work on the Noranda project in the St. Jude Industrial Park, was being temporarily discontinued.

Kaiser Engineers, contractors, had reluctantly made the decision because insufficient employees belonging to pipe fitters, operating engineers and laborers unions were reporting for work.

The continued absence of these employees has made it impossible for work to be made available for the other union members who have honored their agreements and reported for work.

Mr. Allen stated that Noranda was sorry to have to agree to the shutdown of construction activities and the resultant loss of the income to the employees.

He also repeated his earlier statement to the effect that the only apparent disagreement between the unions and the contractors involved, was regarding the proposed installation of a gas pipeline to the plat site from Marston.

This pipeline is to be installed and owned by Associated Natural Gas Company, who plan on installing it, using their own employees.

$2.6 Billion Foreign Aid Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today for $2.6 billion in foreign aid —some $900 million more than was voted last year—saying the sum is "necessary to meet essential requirements now."

"Foreign aid must be viewed as an integral part of our overall effort to achieve a world order of peace and justice," Nixon said in sending up his first foreign aid program.

The $2.6 billion includes $2.2 billion for U.S. economic assistance to developing countries around the world, $375 million for arms aid abroad and $75 million to help start a public corporation to promote private investment in developing lands.

The Nixon program for the new fiscal year, starting July 1, is about $63 million below what former President Lyndon B. Johnson had proposed.

"This request for foreign economic and military assistance is the lowest proposed since the program began" after World War II, Nixon said, "but it is about $900 million more than was appropriated last year" when Congress lopped nearly $1.2 billion off Johnson's program.

"I consider it necessary to meet essential requirements now, and to maintain a base for future action," Nixon said.

Nixon's new foreign aid chief Dr. John A. Hannah, said the $2.6 billion request was "just right" but acknowledged that Congress has historically tended to chop into the aid packages presented by successive Democratic and Republican administrations.

The initial Nixon program was portrayed as an interim affair—installing some modest changes in the aid effort pending a stem-to-stern review by a private citizen task force to be appointed by the President.

The task force is to report back in time for Nixon's aid presentation to Congress a year hence. Administration officials indicated a more sweeg overhaul might be undertaken then.

In what he termed his "fresh approach" for the time being, Nixon proposed:

—Creation of an "overseas private investment corporation.' This public corporation would carry on aid to U.S. private investment abroad now being conducted within the aid-administering Agency for International Development. But it would apply more businesslike management under a board of directors drawn from both business and government, Nixon said.

The corporation would be self-supporting from loan repayments and investment guarantee fees, with the initial $75 million intended to buttress its reserves.

—"A strong new emphasis on technical assistance."

Nixon proposed raising to $463 million U.S. technical assistance in the coming year, compared with the $337 million appropriated by Congress last year.

He said that use of U.S. technical knowledge ranging from agriculture to family planning "can make our dollars for all forms of aid go further."

A new technical assistance bureau will be set up within AID to focus on getting specially needed varieties for U.S. knowhow to developing countries, he said.

—Sharing foreign aid more with other advanced nations.

Nixon praised international banks and other multination groups such as the United Nations as channels for dispensing foreign aid. He said this system cushions political frictions between aid givers and receivers and requires sharing in the aid burden by economically advanced countries.

—Food and family planning. Nixon said foreign aid has helped achieve a dramatic breakthrough in food production.

And on the population control side, he said an increasing number of countries are tackling the problem.

The largest single amount of economic assistance by a country is going to South Vietnam under the Nixon program. South Vietnam would receive $440 million for food, budgetary support and other items—about the same as last year.

India would receive a $385 million loan and $14.5 million in technical assistance, officials said.

Runnels 'Scrap' Entry Takes Top Art Entry Prize

Tom Runnels, the former Sikeston resident who interprets life in an enthralling manner by welding pieces of scrap iron into attention creating figures and statuettes, took top honors recently at the Telles Park Art Exhibition at St. Louis with an entry entitled "The Studs," which showed two beautiful stallions engaged in mortal combat. He had held a local showing at the First National Bank of Sikeston, that had gained many plaudits.

Runnels who now resides in Marble Hill, took the "Best of Show" honors in competition with some 300 leading exhibitors, representing a wide area of the East and Mid- West.

Mickey Rooney Wed For Seventh Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) – Actor Mickey Rooney, 48, has become a bridegroom for the seventh time.

Rooney and Caroline Hockett, 25, of Beverly Hills, Calif., were married Tuesday. It was the second marriage for the bride, who met Rooney while he was appearing on a Jackie Gleason television show in Miami.

Youth Killed In Fall From Tractor

DEXTER — Jeffrey Dean Silliman, aged five, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Silliman of Rt. 1, Dexter, was killed instantly late Tuesday when he was run over by a tractor at 7 p.m. Tuesday on the family farm near Bell City, Mo.

Reports show that the youngster, who would have entered kindergarten this fall, had been riding the tractor with his brother Johnny Lee, 18, while the brother was plowing a field. He wanted to get off and the brother stopped the tractor. Then, as Jeffrey slipped getting off, his brother reached to catch him but the effort caused Johnny's foot to slip off the clutch and the tractor moved forward, catching and crushing young Jeffrey beneath its wheels.

Funeral services will be held at the Rainey Funeral Home Chapel at Dexter at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon, with burial in the Stoddard County Memorial Gardens at Dexter.

Survivors include his parents, his brother, Johnnie Lee, two sisters, Yvonne and Terri; his maternal grandfather, Leslie Mead, of Rt. 1, Dexter and his paternal step grandmother, Mrs. Johnnie Silliman of Bell City.

State Tax Revision Advances

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A bill to simplify things for Missouri state income taxpayers won first round approval in the Senate today. It was advanced on a voice vote with no opposition.

The bill makes no changes in rates. They would remain at whatever level finally set by the Legislature later this session. Its technical changes would increase revenue an estimated $700,000 to $1 million a year.

The bill was drafted by a special State Tax Study Commission to conform with federal returns in many respects and carry out a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last fall.

Among other things, those with taxable incomes of less than $9,000 would have to use a standard tax table in computing their taxes. This would eliminate many errors according to the measure's sponsor, Sen. Maurice Schechter, D Creve Couer.

The present withholding system would continue and federal taxes would continue to be deductible on state returns. Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits would not be deductible and the present divided credit would be eliminated.

Hand Stresses Need For Helping Hand

PORTAGEVILLE--"Your Chamber of Commerce has no wealth and no power except what you give it by your support," Leonard Hand, immediate past president of the local Chamber of Commerce told the second quarterly dinner meeting of the organization here.

"If it is weak it is because your support is weak," he said.

Referring to remarks made by a Noranda official at a Rotary Club meeting, Hand said "There was little new in what he had to recommend. –We have been saying, for the past two years, almost exactly the same things he pointed out as necessary steps to make our community attractive to incoming workers."

Hand went on to say he had personally initiated 18 projects, during his tenure as president, for positive steps toward promoting the city as the bet place for Noranda workers to settle, but the projects weren't fulfilled.

He credited the Missouri Community Betterment Program projects with the attainment of the Plastene Company factory, stating "Without accomplishments through this program, it is very doubtful owners of this factory would have known we existed."

Five steps listed by Hand to maintain the Chamber of Commerce as a positive force in Portageville, included, "Stop referring to the Chamber as 'they' - instead of saying 'they' are doing nothing, make that 'we'; stop criticizing men who give time and talents with no compensation; volunteer annual $12 dues, which are one-half of the lowest dues in most cities of the Bootheel; stop bad-mouthing every effort put forth by the Chamber, and give men in leadership support, encouragement and help."

Hand announced that Miss Suzie Richardson, current Miss National Soybean queen, will compete in August at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, as a representative from Missouri, in the National Soybean Association convention. In the future, he said, the soybean queen, elected at Portageville during the National Soybean Association Convention in competition for the annual title of Princess Soya. The Princess named in August will make a trip abroad, either to Japan or common market countries of Western Europe.

Films of past festivals were shown to the group, which prompted Hand to comment "Films were presented of past festivals, not to dwell on the past, but to use as a spur to greater effort toward building the future. These films depicted the city and residents who are responsible for bringing us to the present stage.'

Yorty Rides Turnout to Upset Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty, an underdog in the polls, rode a record voter turnout to a third term election victory today over Thomas Bradley, Negro councilman who had thumped him in the primary.

Yorty apparently won strong support in the closing days of what was called the bitterest local campaign of modern times.

How do the pollsters explain it? One, Don Muchmore, whose poll for the Los Angeles Times Monday placed Bradley ahead 53 per cent to 36, said: 'i feel like George Gallup did in 1948." That was the year Harry Truman upset Thomas Dewey, Gallup's pick.

Muchmore said in a statement there might have been an error in the poll, adding: "We were dealing with the race issue in this campaign and this is traditionally a difficult area to survey."

"It would appear in this instance the sample of respondants was inadvertently not a representative cross section of the population," said Muchmore, who had conducted 675 interviews. "Even though this is our first major error, a complete analysis will be made to determine the exact cause of the discrepancy."

Supporters of Bradley said they had lodged a complaint with the state attorney general's office over a "candidates card" widely distributed in areas where the city's 15 to 20 per cent Negro population lives.

They claimed the card said Bradley votes should be made on hole No. 3 of the punchcardcomputer ballot. If voters did so, they would have voted for Yorty.

Bradley, 51, a former police lieutenant who hoped to become the third Negro mayor of a major U.S. city, refused to concede.

He won 42 per cent of the vote to Yorty's 26 per cent in the April primary, but was forced into a runoff when he failed to gain a majority. Pollsters right up to election day had him maintaining a margin.

Semiofficial returns from all but six of 2,890 precincts in Tuesday's runoff gave Yorty 447,000, or 53 per cent, to Bradley's 392,379, or 47 per cent.

For the 59-year-old Yorty, running on his eight-year performance as mayor, the heavy vote turnout appeared the key to victory.

Bradley's 100,000-vote edge in the primary came as 66 per cent of the 1,127,000 registered voters went to the polls. This time the figure was about 80 per cent, much of it from predominately white areas.

Jubilant over his comeback, Yorty told cheering supporters they had brought him "back from what appeared to be certain defeat." He promised to make Los Angeles "a greater city in the coming four years."

"I was just a symbol of what we are trying to do," he added.

At almost the same time, Bradley was telling his supporters that "it appears we'll still have to wait some time before we learn how this thing turns out." Then he made a quiet apd peal, asking his supporters to remain calm after a campaign in which he was accused by Yorty of surrounding himself with black militants.

"Keep the faith in what we've been trying to do," Bradley said.

No Negro ever has been elected mayor of a city of this size. The largest cities now with elected Negro mayors are Cleveland, Ohio, and Gary, Ind. Yorty had banked on a conservative trend and this carried over in contests for school board and junior college trustees, where candidates regarded as conservatives generally won.

Vandalism at Junior High School

Papers and records were strewn all over the first floor. There was also a window broken in the office. Some cheese, wieners and ham were taken out of a refrigerator in the cafeteria. A metal cabinet in the industrial arts building was pried open. The only articles reported missing were three inexpensive watches. The watches belonged to students.

Some money in containers were poured out in the main office. None was reported taken, however.

There also was two windows broken on the north side of the building and one was broken in the industrial arts section.

Mrs. Harold Clark 250 William, reported to police that someone stole 14 Kennedy half-dollars and five $1 bills during the past week out of her daughter's bedroom. The money was being kept in a jar.

Memorial Day Services

Memorial Day Services will be held 10 a.m. Friday at the Garden of Memories Cemetery.

There will be a guest speaker. The services are being held in cooperation with churches and ministers in Sikeston and the area.

Two Highway Accidents In District

A 1964 Chevrolet, driven by James Oakley, 50, Deering, came out second best, when it struck a southbound Frisco freight train, at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday on route J, four miles south of Hayti.

The Oakley car was traveling west when it ran into the side of the fast traveling train, engineered by R.I. Harris, 54, Chaffee, and was carried 40 to 50 feet.

Oakley received cuts on his scalp, a concussion, and a compound fracture of the right leg, as well as possible internal injuries. He was alone in the car.

He was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Four persons were taken to Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff, as result of a two vehicle crash Tuesday at 10:50 p.m., at the intersection of route T and highway 60, east of Poplar Bluff.

A 1960 Rambler stationwagon, driven by Linda Jany Ward, 18, Poplar Bluff, was traveling east when it attempted to make a left turn, when a 1966 International tractor-trailer, driven by Paul Benson, 26, East Prairie, attempted a pass, the Ward car and the two vehicles sideswiped.

Injured in the Ward car was the driver, who received cuts and scratches on the head, and three passengers, all of Poplar Bluff. Carol Faughn, 23, injured left eye; Larry Sells, 17, cuts and scratches; Gloria Ward, 14, with head injuries, and cuts and scratches of the body.

Benson was given a summons for passing at a marked intersection.

City Employes Not Fishing on Jobs

Medford Livingston and Tom Ayers are operators in charge of the sewage treatment plant and lift stations in Sikeston, but they admit they would not be surprised is someday someone accused them of fishing on the Sikeston Light and Water time.

From all appearance, they could very well be guilty-because they make daily trips to the St. John ditch with pole in hand. But their mission is of a much greater import importance. At the end of the "pole" is a container into which water samples are "caught" and test made to make sure the sewage treatment plant of Sikeston is functioning properly and that the St. John ditch is not being polluted, if the work of these men were below standards set by the State Pollution Board, not only would the stream be polluted but an investment of nearly two million dollars in sewage treatment equipment could be endangered.

Livingston and Ayers look at themselves first as Public Relations men. He must like and understand people. He must be cooperative. And always working with a positive attitude following with enthusiasm and cheerfulness. Why? because his job effects everyone.

What kind of training do these men have to warrant the confidence of their fellow townspeople? Is pollution of a stream a possibility? Is our sewage treatment facility adequate and doing the jobs intended of them?

Livingston and Ayers have more confidence in their ability then ever before because they have just recently completed a ten months course in Wastewater Operator training sponsored by the State of Missouri Department Water Pollution Board. They have also been officially licensed by the Missouri Water and Sewerage Conference as Wastewater Treatment Operators.

To insure that the St. John ditch is not being polluted samples are taking daily and test run to determine the amount of Hydrogen Ion Concetration, Dissolved Oxygen, Biochemical Oxygen Demand, and Alkalinity. The same test are run on both the plant influent and effluent plus Suspended Solids, Settleable Solids, Volatile Solids, Suldge Volume Index, Sludge Age, and Volatile Acid.

How does the treatment plant work to prevent pollution?

Waste flows through the sewer lines to a central point which is called "lift stations" Lift stations are located at the end of Murray Lane, Frisco and Maude, Kentucky and Crowe, and soon one will be located at Ingram and Linn and on the county road east of the sewage plant. From these lift stations sewerage is lifted to a higher elevation with pumps so it can flow by gravity to the sewage treatment plant.

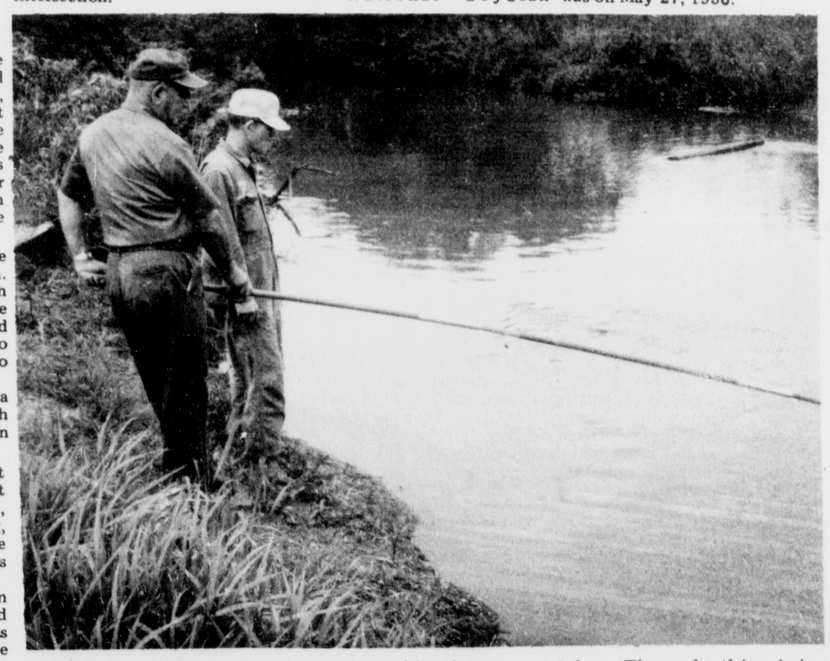

These lift stations are the heart of the sewer system. Sophisticated equipment which works automatically measure the depth of the "wet well" and either one or two pumps go to work to move the waste on to the sewage plant.

Daily records are keep and a report is filed each month with the Water Pollution Board in Jefferson City.

One of the things that amazes some people is that nothing is added to the waste, mother nature does everything, she provide oxygen for the bacteria which develops as nature intended.

For the first time Sikeston has two trained and licensed personnel overseeing this important community service which most people tend to take for granted.

Will Ballot For Scott County Water Board

BENTON — Ballots and letters of instructions were mailed Tuesday, to elect two members to the Scott County Soil and Water Conservation district, according to K. M. Streeter, chairman.

Areas I and III, comprising Commerce and Kelso townships, and Morley and Richland townships, respectively, are to elect one member for each area.

Candidates for Area I are, Paul Hitt, Commerce; and Franklin Schlosser, route one, Illmo. Area III nominees are, Louis Watkins, Vanduser, incumbent, and Lloyd Boley, route one, Bell City.

Only landowners living or owning land in the four townships named are eligible to vote. All votes must be cast by June 5, to be counted. Those who do not receive a ballot, may obtain one from present board members, K. M. Streeter, route one, Painton; Lee Pattengill, route two, Charleston; Roby Hitt, Illmo, or Louis Watkins, Vanduser. Tom Stroup is the secretary.

The two elected will meet with the Board of Supervisors June 9, at 8 p.m., when board officers will be elected.

All landowners in these two areas are encouraged to vote, and learn how the district soil and water program can be of help to them by contacting their area elected supervisor.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People who look gift horses in the mouth generally wind up paying carrying charges on the nag.

From an expansive heart, and out of many years of experience, Howard Carpenter of the Northwest Mississippi Junior College (Senatobia) faculty, has addressed a message to members of the 1969 graduating class of NWMJC, and directed as well to millions of graduates over the land.

This is his message:

TO THE SENIORS OF OUR STATE AND NATION; 1969 GRADUATING CLASSES

Dear Seniors:

For several years I have received requests to write you and make some suggestions about life.

God's greatest gift is life itself - and it does make a difference how you use it. All that you are now - you owe to God, home, church, school and friends who love you. They are expecting great things from you and you have the talent and ability to meet the challenge.

You will need goals, purposes and plans to succeed in life and these alone will not be enough. To succeed in life you will need a good sense of values, honesty, faith, courage, and more hard work than you now realize. You need God as a very real partner because whatever you can do without Him, you can do it infinitely better with Him.

A good sense of humor and lots of fun will help you to succeed in life also. The type work you do in life is of great importance because "Work Is Life- and Good Work Is Good Life." You will need every friend that you can possibly cultivate and make - remember this.

You will need to care about people because "You give your best because you care." If you care for people it will not go unnoticed; if you do not care that, too, will be noticed.

To be a real success in your professional or vocation, choose carefullywhat you want to do, train and prepare for it, then work hard at the job all the time.

For the past 20 years I have taught young people at the junior college level, and I can tell you many wonderful success stories. These students were just about as talented and gifted as each of you - the seniors of 1968.

During these years I have delivered graduating addresses to several thousand young people in schools covering a wide area. This is to say that I know that success and a good and useful life is within reach of each of you.

Finally you will need love and understanding, and remember "Love does not come into your heart to stay, because it's not real love until you give it away."

The retailer who loses faith in his advertising effort is often placing the blame in the wrong place.

As one marketing specialist put it: "The most frequent cause of advertising failure is insufficient advertising."

Effective advertising cannot be judged on the basis of short range results. Nor can spasmodic splurges be expected to bring significant results.

Advertising may be compared to the maintenance of a store. The merchant realizes that maintenance costs are continuous. And in the face of modern competition, maintenance costs are likely to increase from year to year.

The cost of a building does not end with original construction. Repairs begin the day a building is occupied.

The same evaluation should be made of advertising. National companies introducing a new product do not attempt to assess the results of advertising until from six months to two years after a campaign is started. They realize that any quick conclusions could be misleading.

They also know that the public will not be deeply affected by a few days, or a few weeks, of advertising -- no matter how good the product of how appealing the short run advertising.

The local merchant faces the same problem. He is sure to be disappointed if he expects occasional advertising splurges to sustain his business throughout the year.

Only after a year of consistent advertising is the retailer likely to judge fairly the effects of the overall growth of his business.

Roadway lane-striping is no job for the faint at heart. Actually, it may not seem like much of a job at all - until you consider nearly four million miles of paved roadway in the United States contains at least a single centerline stripe.

Striping must be done at least once a year in most cases. Heavily-traveled roadways are normally re-painted twice a year. Other, lighter-traveled ones are done once every two years. It's an extremely dangerous job, particularly on high-speed highways.

Consider that striping is usually done without closing a roadway. True, it's done by machine, but the machine is operated by human beings. The machine travels 10 mph or slower while adjacent traffic may be whizzing along at 70 mph or even faster. Would YOU dare drive your car 10 mph on a high-speed expressway?

Most striping machines are manned by three men. One drives, another operates the painting machinery and a third drops traffic cones to protect newly-painted lines. ALL THREE must serve as lookouts for oncoming traffic.

Indicative of the dangers these crews face are these comments from an employee of the Kansas City highway department, who had just finished a day's work painting strips on one of the city's expressways:

"They (other drivers always attack from the rear. They come so close they sometimes break the mirrors on the side of the trucks.

"We had six Kansas City police officers out there with us on day. By noon, they said we were crazy to work under such conditions. They looked about done in, so we told them to go home -- we'd manage."

And then there are drivers who seem intent on ruining the paint job. Ignoring cones laid by the crews, they cut from one lane to another, smearing fresh paint as they go.

Their dirty work may soon be over, however. One manufacturer reports development of a new instant-dry (10 seconds) reflective striping material for roadways, which makes traffic cones and barriers unnecessary. This 10-second drying time compares with a drying time of from three to 30 minutes for most conventional pavement-marketing paints. And the new material is reported to show extremely bright in a car's headlights -- an obvious safety aid for night driving.

But the danger to the highway workers is still there. You can help by approaching and passing their machinery at a careful pace. And if they've laid out cones to protect their work while it dries, don't change lanes.

Drinking Americans are spending money for their favorite beverages at a record pace. They consumed 121,814,939 cases of liquor last year, almost five per cent than the year before. They also consumed another 68,841,035 cases of wine. That's up about three million cases from 1966.

Drinking Americans also speed millions of dollars a year on repair bills for about a million - and - a - half cars that are banged up in at least 800,000 crashes. Worse than that -- for about 25,000 drinking Americans each year the cost is much higher. Their lives.

These are some of the findings contained in a report "Alcohol and Highway Safety," transmitted to Congress, recently, by Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd.

The 180-page report was called for by the Highway Safety Act of 1966. It details findings of research into the matter of drinking and driving. Alcohol, it says, is a contributing factor in about half of all highway deaths. In fact, during the last 35 years "alcohol has been found to be the largest single factor leading to fatal crashes."

In a way, the report throws a crumb to the light drinker who occasionally drives with one or two under his belt. It says the problem is primarily one of men – repeat, men – who have been drinking heavily, to an extent very probably rare among drivers not involved in crashes.

Although crashes in which alcohol is a factor occur all times of the day, they're relatively uncommon during morning rush-hour periods, says the report. Most occur between late afternoon and the wee morning hours.

Reasons are fairly obvious: More people drink during these hours, and they are generally hours of darkness. Alcohol imparis judgment, reflexes, coordination and vision when the driver behind the wheel of a car needs them most.

The report goes on to say the odds are more than eight to one a driver who is fatally injured in a crash involving a single vehicle between 9 p.m. and midnight has been drinking heavily.

Next time, stop and think what that "one more for the road" might really cost you.

NEW YORK (AP) — The wonderful thing about life is that it always leaves you something to look forward to.

Whether you have achieved much or little, whether you are young, middle-aged or elderly, there always remain sights you haven't seen and things you haven't done. There is no such person as a man or woman who has everything.

Here's one man's list of things he may still get around to doing one of these days:

Set an income tax form to music, and ask Congress to make it the national anthem.

Sail the Atlantic in a paper yacht made from varnished copies of the Sunday New York Times.

Solve the poverty problem by giving everyone in America his own private key to Ft. Knox.

Meet a teen-ager who was allergic to pizza pies, French fried potatoes, and the telephone.

Build a 1,000-room cave on Miami Beach for hermits who prefer to live underground.

Carve the head of Benedict Arnold on the Mt. Rushmore memorial, so tourists could have something to criticize as well as praise.

Help a fainting robin into its nest again.

Get Greta Garbo to put a welcome mat before her front door.

Create a sex-free movie that children could take their parents to without having to worry about the old folks' blushing.

Give athlete's foot back to the athletes.

Pass a law requiring that all ashtrays be at least eight inches square and six inches deep.

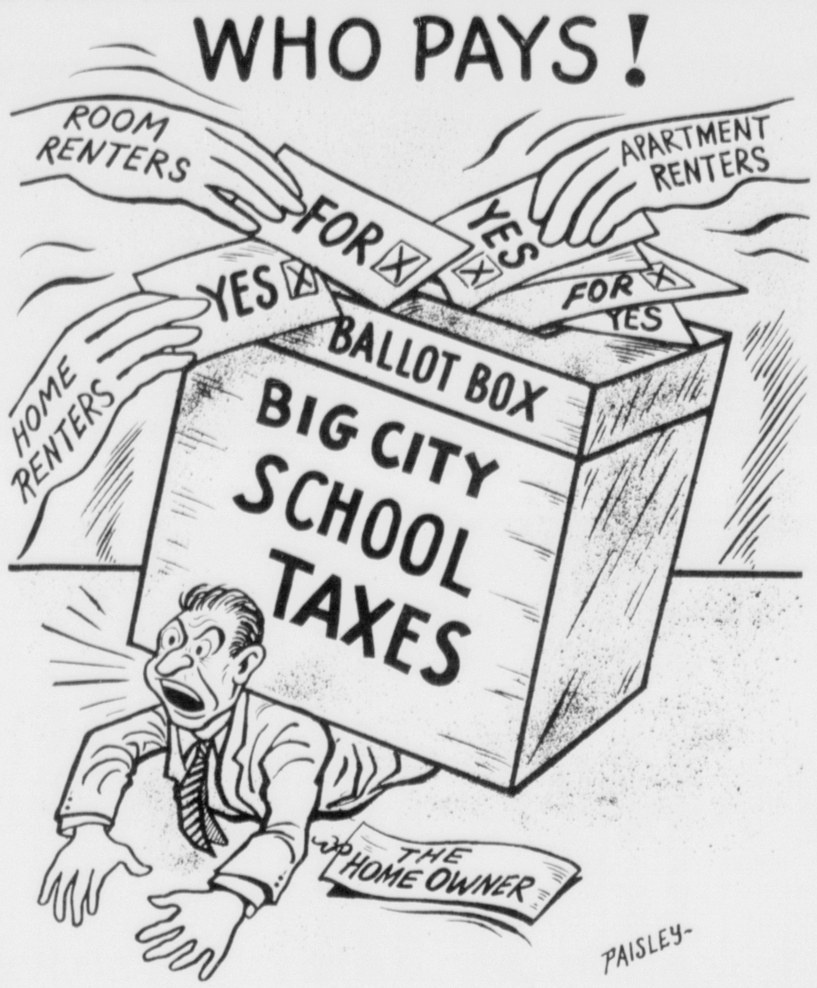

Invent windows made of layers of plastic. Then a man wouldn't have to wash them—he could just peel them clean.

Discover something more to hope about today in modern youth, the "hope of tomorrow."

Find a constructive use for brussels sprouts, parsnips and spinach, so that it will no longer be necessary to eat the stuff.

Do something about the weather, not just talk about it.

Indian's Eggs

A STRANGER COME to town and was impressed with the sight of a gaily clad Indian standing alone at the railroad station. He was informed by a friend that this Indian was famous throughout the countryside for his infalliable memory.

Deciding to put the Indian to the test, he approached him and inquired as to what he had for breakfast two years ago. The Indian looked down at the stranger and said, "Eggs." Not knowing quite what else to ask at that particular point, the stranger decided to drop the subject and went on his way.

Three years later, he stranger once again had occasion to come to that town and noticed the Indian still standing in the same place at the railroad station. He decided to talk to the Indian and see if he would be remembered.

Walking up to the poker-faced Indian, the stranger said, "How!" and the reply came quickly:

"Sunny side up.'

"So you wanna know why I'm a failure. Okay, I'll tell yuh:"

"The only time opportunity knocked on my door, I didn't answer. I thought it was the house detective.

Either White or Black

In at least one area of American life, the Negro's battle for a place in the sun has been notably successful.

Advertising agencies claim "dramatic progress" in integrating magazine and television commercials, reports the Wall Street Journal. One Chicago agency now uses Negroes in over 20 per cent of its television commercials that require models. A year ago, none at all were used.

Progress giveth and progress taketh away, however,

The president of an agency in New York that handles black talent says that sponsors tend to discriminate against light-skinned Negroes in favor of "more typical ones."

Evidently, the current Mad Ave. motto is: White is right and black is beautiful, but if you're brown -- don't call us, we'll call you.

A New England farmer got a letter. It stated that the boundary lines of all the farms in the area had been surveyed. And it added that his farm was not in Vermont, as he had believed -- but actually in New Hampshire.

The farmer didn't seem very upset. "Thank goodness," he sighed. "Another one of those Vermont winters, and it would have been all over for me."

Doc. Duncan Says

Speaking of auto tampering we heard of a guy who was Supt. of a large industrial plant back in the days of the Model A Ford. There break adjustments stuck out like a sore thumb, he had one employee that wanted his job so bad he could taste it so to speak, this Supt. applied this brokers one and on the way to work and went in the ditch, he wondered why? until he saw this employee meandering among the parked cars at the plant with a wrench in his hand, when he should have been at work. Needless to say he did not have anymore brake trouble.

H.L. Hunt Says

ABM AND TRUTH

The voices of fear who opposed the Safeguard anti-ballistics missile (ABM) allege that the system is "not needed," that it would "provoke" the Soviet Union, that it would "escalate" the arms race with in the Soviets, etc. These arguments are punctured by a study recently released by a subcommittee of the American Security Council.

The subcommittee included Dr. Edward Teller and other top physicists; General Bernard Schriever, who developed the Air Force's ICBMs; Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; General Nathan F. Twining, former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and General Albert C. Wedemeyer, who commanded Allied forces in China during World War II.

The subcommittee emphasized the trend in stragetic military capabilities of the USSR vs. the U.S. The Soviets' increasing capability to wage nuclear warfare, the with increasing immunity, are evident in the facts presented by the subcommittee.

With half the gross national product of the U.S., the Soviets are investing 2 to 3 times more in strategic military forces annually. They have overtaken us in new concepts and new weapons systems, so that now they have several systems we do not have, such as space orbital weapons and very large 50-100 megaton nuclear weapons.

The Soviets also have developed and deployed a sophisticated ABM defense system, hich may soon give them the capability of attacking the U.S. and at least blunting our counter-attack so as to make their losses acceptable. As the study observes: "If one finds an increasing capability for warfare on the part of a self-declared enemy, it is only common sense and prudence to prepare an adequate defense." HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

--Supreme Court Ethics--

On May 20, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that Chief Justice Earl Warren for six years has been quietly supporting a proposed law to set up a code of ethical conduct for the federal judiciary.

On May 22 the Chief Justice called a meeting of top federal judges for May 24, to begin drafting a code of ethics for all federal judges.

If completed, as Warren Hopes, before he retires next month, this will become the first formal standard of conduct to be adopted by the federal judicary.

Drew Pearson says: Congressman from South Carolina protects Navy from investigation; Navy's long list of errors are protected; Rivers becomes most powerful man in Congress

WASHINGTON--One important illustration of why the military continues to ride roughshod over the civilian branches of government occurred on the floor of the House of Representatives last week.

It was a frenzied scene in which the white-haired, usually courtly Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina rushed to the well of the house, grabbed the microphone and admonished senior Rep. George Mahon of Texas: "You are playing into the hands of the enemies of the military."

Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is a powerful man. Hitherto, he had backed up Rivers in voting almost unlimited funds to the military, but he was fed up with military mistakes. However, Rivers is more powerful, in fact is one of the most powerful men in Congress. So later, Rivers and Mahon patched up their altercation and neatly deleted their heated words from the Congressional record.

Nevertheless, the incident is extremely important and gets to the root of why the military get every cent they want while the cities and civilian branches of government are starved.

Rivers had not been drinking. He was cold sober, but full of cold anger in his defense of the Generals and Admirals. This was understandable, for they have cluttered his district with so many land, sea and air bases that it's impossible for any opponent ever to defeat him. In return for these favors, Rivers, as chairman of the house armed services committee, to a large degree is responsible for giving the Generals and Admirals the position of power and immunity they enjoy today.

It seems incredible that one man could have such power. Nevertheless, thanks to seniority and a largely docile, military-minded committee, Rivers wields this power. As a result, he has been able to prevent any penetrating investigations of various military mistakes.

--Preventing Probes--

Ordinarily the sinking of the submarine guittaro alongside its dock would be the subject of an immediate, forthright, congressional probe. However, Rivers is the chairman of the Committee entrusted with investigation. And he cajoled and bulldozed Mahon of Texas, a man of no means congressional might, into changing his speech so that he called merely for "adequate discipline," not a court martial of those responsible for the sub's sinking.

Rivers went even further with Rep. William Moorhead of Pennsylvania, another respected Democrat, who had the temerity to investigate and reveal the $2.5 billion overcharge by Lockheed for the building of the C-5A. Peremptorily, Rivers, "summoned" Moorhead to appear before the armed services committee for a dressing-down.

When other Congressmen rallied to Moorhead's defense, Rivers withdrew his "summons." It was the first time in the memory of any Congressman that a colleague had been so arbitrary with another Congressman.

Nevertheless, the fact remains, despite these minor retreats, that Mendel Rivers is the single, most effective roadblock to scaling the military down to size from its privileged position.

The roll call of Naval mistakes alone has been unprecedented. In addition to he mysterious sinking of the guittaro, the Navy has lost two polaris submarines, permitted the USS Pueblo to be seized for still unexplained reasons, lost the EC-121 off the North Korean coast when it should have been protected, experienced two disastrous fires on airplane carriers, left the USS Liberty get riddled with builets and 34 men killed, off the coast of Egypt.

In addition, clearcut evidence has come from Raymond Perelman, a Philadelphia steel manufacturer, that defective steel plate has been supplied to the Navy for submarine manufacturer without inspection. The Navy has not bothered to investigate, but has taken the highly unusual position of permitting the steel companies which manufacture the plate to make their own inspection.

--Opponent of Investigations--

None of the above errors has been properly investigated.

Rivers when blocked an investivation of the Cheyenne helicopter contract when Rep. Otis Pike of New York demanded it. Subsequently, the contract was canceled by the Army because of Lockheed's poor performance.

Rivers also badgered the top pentagon officials into requiring jet planes for all military cargo. This almost went through, until Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada pointed out that it would benefit one airline only, overseas national airways, at the expense of another, Saturn airways. It turned out that George Tompkins, chairman of overseas national, was a close friend of Rivers.

Rivers proclaimed that no one had done more for the U.S. Navy than Grumman aircraft, whose work on the F--111B was so bad that production had to be stopped.

He railroaded the last draft act through the house after only two hours of debate just before midnight because he wanted to leave for the Paris air show the next morning.

Rivers has bulldozed multi-billion-dollar decisions through his committee without giving other members a chance to study or debate them. He has used the Air Force as his personal airline to commute to Charleston. He has summoned top brass to South Carolina to celebrate such memorable events as Mendel Rivers day or the unveiling of a Mendel Rivers monument.

He has been briefed by the joint chiefs of staff and the CIA director on the nation's most guarded secrets, even though he indulges from time to time in alcoholic binges which send him to Bethesda Naval Hospital to be dried out. Any state or defense department official who is an alcoholic is automatically fired as a security risk.

But two years ago, when this column gave details on Rivers's alcoholic bouts, a succession of Congressmen rose on the floor to pay him tribute.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

cosa Nostra Invited:

Top Mafia 'Bosses' Offered Public Legislative Forum to Deny Crime

Washington, D.C.: -- If $300 million still is of consequence to anyone in these high-tension days -- then this story is of consequence.

President Nixon and Attorney General General John Mitchell are asking Congress to appropriate this cash so the new Law Enforcement Assistance Administration can be funded to help state and local anticrime programs. And, says Mr. Mitchell, he hopes "that a substantial proportion of these funds will be used by state and local law enforcement agencies to attack organized crime."

There's no doubt much of the money will be appropriated -- and that all of it will be used. Then what? Will there be any fewer hoods, any fewer racketeers, any fewer killers, any fewere extortioners and any fewer Mafia families terrorizing legitimate business and labor at the end of the fiscal (and one is tempted to say physical) year?

All of which leads to some letters which 108 alleged Mafia bosses, underbosses, consiglieres, caporegimes and lieutenants will shortly find in their mail.

The letters will be written to this select, manicured jet set crowd of gourmets and travelers by a New York state senator, John J. Hughes. And the communications will be on the stationery of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Crime. Its Causes, Control and Effect on Society. It has an advisory council on which, in the full sense of the word, I'm proud to serve.

The committee, headed by Sen. Hughes, has been looking into general crime, the mob's mulcting of the ghettos, and violence on the campus. Not the least of Senator Hughes' accomplishments is his retaining of a rugged young red-haired Irish chap, Ed McLaughlin, who relaxes by fishing in the Canadian wilds above the Arctic Circle.

They've done a fantastic job. They've traced, for example, fully 500,000 felony arrests made in New York State between 1960 and 1965. They discovered that only eight per cent were convicted, despite considerable evidence against those taken in.

They've traced tens of thousands of gambling convictions, and in one huge batch discovered only one -- count it, one -- conviction.

They've taken nothing for granted. They've not counted on any other committee's reports or analysis. They've dug for themselves. They've developed research and investigative techniques which should be the model for local and state agencies everywhere.

And so they found themselves looking into organized crime -- the infiltration of labor and management. They checked every one of the men who have been accused, in public or in private, in official reports or in secret drafts, of being a lieutenant or higher in the Cosa Nostra.

Senator Hughes discovered there were 108 such men in New York State's seven Mafia families.

Despite the public accusations, these 108 men never have spoken out.

So the senator decided to write to them, to offer them a public platform, to give them a chance to refute charges made when they were not confronting their accuser. This is the era. Everywhere the public is saying the courts are crooked, the gendarmerie is crooked, the probers generally only chase headlines. Why not, says Senator Hughes, do the civil libertarian thing and give these men their turn to retort?

"My thought is we know there are such people," says the senator, "involve d in syndicated crime, and my feeling is they should be publicly identified and given an opportunity to deny the charges. They are identified in stories and they, the accused, say nothing. Well, we'll give them a forum. This will give them a chance to make a complete and public disavowal."

Soon Mr. Hughes' letters will go to the 108 so-called Cosa Nostra bosses, underbosses and their top aides. The letter will invite the accused to come in voluntarily without subpoena, take an oath, make their statements, and leave the committee without being cross-examined. Whether or not they refuse the senator's invitation, they no longer can say their rights were disdained.

Nor will state or local law agencies ever be able to say there has been no full public identification of the mob's high command.

What troubles Senator Hughes and counselor Ed McLaughlin is that these 108 men and their 700 button men (troops) still are free despite the records now in the committee's dossiers.

For more than 40 years now we or our predecessors in the press and on special investigative committees have known the names of these people. For almost half a century, the Mafia has operated, terrorized and taken in well over two trillion dollars (if Attorney General John Mitchell's figure of a $50 billion annual take is accurate).

During all these decades there have been scores of special investigators, prosecutors, commissions, state crime commissions, and here we have had the New York State Identification Intelligence Service, a huge computer which memorizes all information ever gathered anywhere about the nation's 24 crime syndicates. We know what the mob does. We know who the leaders are. We know their source of income. And still they prosper.

We have special racket squads. All large local police departments have special racket intelligence units. There are police officers who do nothing but probe the mob. We have tremendous commitment of manpower and money.

What is the result of this vast commitment? That's what Senator Hughes wants to know. That's what "young" McLaughlin wants to know. That's what this committee of ours want to know. What's wrong with the courts?

Perhaps a few pennies of that $300 million can be spent getting some answers.

And we'll let you know if any Cosa Nostra dons answer the letters.

New Members Welcomed Into Girl Scout Troop

A fly-up ceremony was held Wednesday at Murray Lane Baptist church, for Junior Girl Scout Troop 273, when members of the Brownie Troop Number 48, were welcomed into the troop.

In charge of Troop 273 are Mrs. Jerry Dyer and Mrs. Bill Branum. Leaders for the Brownie Troop are Mrs. Norman Edgin and Mrs. Ed Patterson.

A book was presented to the church to the Rev. Ward Paris, in appreciation for use of the church for their meetings.

Undersea Coal Mines

The coal beds in Nova Scotia's Sydney field dip beneath the Atlantic Ocean and have been mined under the sea more than 3½ miles from shore.

People Should Get Involved

Dear Ann Landers: Do you know how many little lives you might save if you informed your millions of readers that they need not stand by helpless while neighbors and relatives beat and neglect and abuse their children? Many cities and states have ordinances and laws to protect children against cruelty which is, of course, the result of sick minds. For God's sake, help those kids.

Here are the proper steps:

(1) Take the child immediately to an impartial doctor or to a hospital for examination. Do not select your family doctor or a doctor who is a relative or a personal friend.

(2) If, after examination, the doctor says the child has been abused or criminally neglected, call police officer and have the courage to sign a complaint if you are asked to do so.

(3) If the child is of school age, take Ann Landers' advice. A teacher can be an excellent witness.

These days so many people are afraid to become involved. They say it is dangerous to poke your nose into other people's business. Please tell them a helpless child is everybody's business. --- L.A.

Dear L.A.: Bless you for your letter. Often people need encouragement to follow their better instincts. You have given it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 19-year-old high school graduate. My fiance will be joining the Air Force soon. Ron is 20 and in excellent health.

I was telling a friend that I become depressed thinking about Ron's being away from me. She said she had read somewhere that a couple can sign up for the Air Force under the Buddy System and do a full hitch without being separated. Is this true? If it is I'd like to do it. Please let me know immediately. ---- Love Him

Dear Love: I've checked around and learned that the Air Force will "try' ' but they give no guarantee that lovebirds who take their training together will be assigned to the same area for service. It might work out that way, but the Air Force promises nothing.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for not saying anything against the young man who wore a kilt. His girl was shocked and her mother almost fainted, but they were ignorant people who didn't know anything about the kilt's great tradition of manhood and courage. Those of us who live in Racine, Wisconsin are proud of our Drum and Bugle Corps. They won the National V.F.W. Championship in 1964 and again in 1968.

It's a glorious sight to see those handsome lads marching along with their bagpipes, wearing kilts. Those of us who know, consider kilts not only snappy-looking but a darned sight more respectable than trousers that are so tight a kid can't sit down in them. Sign me --- Highland Fling

Dear High: I've seen the Racine Drum and Bugle Corps and they are as inspiring a group as ever tootled its way to the top. Cheers!

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CHARLESTON — Mrs. Frances Harper, wife and mother of three, is active in church, Scouts, and community affairs. She is the wife of Norman Harper, owner and operator of Norman Harper's Electronics.

Sewing and Reading Are Main Hobbies

CHARLESTON-Mrs. Frances Harper, born and reared in Chicago, has spent her adult life here. She is married to Norman Harper, owner of Norman Harper's Electronics, and they have three children.

Mrs. Harper has done public steno work in her home for the past five or six years. She will work as an art aide at Charleston elementary school next year. She has attended the Chicago Art Institute and taken some art courses at the local high school.

A charter member and past president of the Junior Study Club, she is also active in scouting. She belongs to a sewing club, which meets for luncheons and sewing. She makes most of her clothes and those of her daughter. She was also general chairman of the Chamber of Commerce garden club tour recently.

She finds time to read, mostly biographies, historical novels, and suspense. She also visits friends and belongs to a card club.

The family likes to travel. They have been to the west coast and Canada, and taken many weekend trips to Lawrence, Kansas where they visit their son, Bob, who is a junior at the University there.

Harper belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and the church board.

He announces football at the football field. Because he is constantly busy with his business, he doesn't have time for anymore activities. He has been in the electronic business for 30 years, and has owned his own business for five years. When asked if he fixed her electrical appliances, he replied, "well, our doorbell has been out for a year". But she said he keeps the television in good repair, and the stereo is always working, since stereo sound is his hobby.

The two children at home are Bill and Kay. Bill is a senior at Charleston high school, and will attend University at Kansas under a navy scholarship. Kay is a junior at Charleston high school. She will attend Girl State this summer at Columbia. She will finish Girl Scouts next year, having gone 12 years.

Mrs. Harper likes to cook, but enjoys eating out whenever possible. Following is a recipe for cheese pie:

SMITHLAND CHESS PIE
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
2 tbsp. melted butter
1 small can milk
1 ½ tsp. cornmeal
1 ½ tsp. flour
dash salt
unbaked pie shell
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat sugar and egg yolks. Add butter, cream until light colored. Add milk, meal, flour and vanilla. Beat Well. Place in shell. Bake in oven 350 degree for 20-25 minutes. Test to see if done by shaking pan. If pie is firm, it is done. Three egg whites may be used for meringue.

27 Officers Present For Special Meeting

CAPE GIRARDEAU--A special meeting of Cape Court 14 Order of the Amaranth was held Saturday night at the Masonic Temple with Mrs. Loy V. Barks, royal matron, and Everette Linebarger, royal patron, presiding. The occasion was the official visit from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Edison, grand royal patron and matron. There were 27 elective and appointive grand officers present as well as other visiting members. There were 57 visitors from St. Louis who were entertained with a picnic supper served by the grand officers who are members of Cape Court: Mrs. Carrie H. Findley, Mrs. Lloyd Sparks, Lloyd Revelle, Mrs. Lorenzo Harris, and Mrs. James Baker. Due to weather conditions the meal was served in the dining room of the Christ Episcopal Church.

Following the opening and introductions, a memorial service was given for members of the order who have died during the past year. Miss Allene Owen served as eulogist.

In the business meeting it was voted to pay half the cost of the exhaust fan for the kitchen in the Masonic Temple. Plans for the chicken dinner, served Sunday, were explained to all.

A social hour was held in the dining room when the birthday of the grand royal matron, Mrs. Edison, was celebrated.

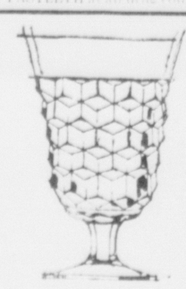

The committee in charge of the reception was composed of Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Harris and Miss Loretha Harris of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hale and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holladay of Fredericktown, Mrs. Sara Hirschowitz and Mrs. Audrey Hirschowitz of Oran, and Mrs. Shirley Ainsworth of Sikeston.

The next regular meeting of the court will be held on June 23.

Those desiring to work in this program can contact Mr. Ralph at 471-5810.

Weekend Golf Tourney Set At Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF — The 16th annual Poplar Bluff Country Club Memorial Day invitational golf tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday with five classes being played for 27 holes.

Trophies and gift certificates will also be presented the winners.

The Newberry traveling trophy is up for permanent possession with defending tournament champion, Buddy Godwin, expected to be defending his title and moving closer to the three wins that would give him the Newberry prize.

Entry fee is $10 and the ticket entitles the holder to a chance on the set of eight matched Wilson staff aluminum shaft irons, plus a pitching wedge to be drawn for on Sunday.

Entries will be held to 130 and may be sent to Denny Lanning, 1102 Spring St., Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Royals Take Red Sox; Cardinals Loss

A late-inning rally whisked the Kansas City Royals past the Boston Red Sox 5-4 Tuesday night but the St. Louis Cardinals couldn't overcome an early lead bowing to the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

A two-run bloop single by Jackie Hernandez topped the Royals' three-run rally in the seventh. Hernandez' scratch safety came after singles by Lou Piniella and Jerry Adair and a throwing error by Boston's Dalton Jones.

All three runs were unearned.

Mike Fiore gave Kansas City a 1-0 lead with a solo homer in the first but Reggie Smith drove in three Boston runs with a circuit clout in the third.

The Royals cut the margin to 3-2 in the third on two hits and a wild pitch. The Red Sox final run came on Carl Yastrzemski's double in the fifth inning.

Dick Drago went the distance scattering eight hits in notching his third victory against two defeats. Bosox starter Sonny Siebert, 4-4, was charged with the loss.

In Atlanta, Felipe Alou batted in one run and scored another in the third inning, then started a two-run rally in the fifth as the Braves upended the Redbirds for the second straight night.

Mike Lum hit a ground rule double in the third and scored on Alou's hit. When outfielder Joe Hague threw wild to the plate, Alou went to third and scored on Felix Millan's infield hit.

Alou opened the fifth with a single but was forced at second by Millan. Hank Aaron singled and Orlando Cepeda doubled in one run. Aaron scored on a sacrifice fly by Sonny Jackson.

St. Louis scored on winner Pat Jarvis, 5-2, in the fifth on a double by Julian Javier and a single by Lou Brock. Homers by Joe Torre in the eighth and Bob Johnson in the ninth accounted for St. Louis' other runs.

Tonight in Kansas City, Mike Hedlund, 2-2, faces Boston's Ray Culp, 7-2. St. Louis will try to get back on the victory trail by pitching Steve Carlton, 4-4, against Milt Pappas, 3-3.

Dick Drago with help from Dave Wickersham over the last two innings, scattered eight hits in notching his third victory against two defeats. Bosox starter Sonny Siebert, 4-4, was charged with the loss.

Action Opens In New Madrid County League

New Madrid county little league and Babe Ruth league action opened last night at Marston and Risco with Parma sweeping both games at Marston and Risco dividing with New Madrid.

Parma's little leaguers opened the evenings action at Marston by posting a 5-4 win over the host behind the combined pitching efforts of Don and Danny Crews, while at Risco, the host were pounding New Madrid 11-1.

Wendall Wagner pitched a no-hitter for Parma in its Babe Ruth league opener that ended 14-1. Wagner collected 13 strikeouts. Reggie Gregory poked a solo home run in the second inning for the winners.

Unitas Getting Back on Beam

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the Baltimore Colt quarterback who missed most of last season with an inflamed right elbow, is getting back on the beam.

"He is throwing as well now as he ever did," says Bill Neill, director of physical therapy at Kernan hospital here. "But when he has to improvise and throw off balance, that will be the final test."

Neill is supervising the rehabilitation program designed to restore strength and accuracy to the sore right elbow which forced Unitas to sit out most of the Super Bowl game in which the New York Jets won 16-7.

Unitas began his six-days-a-week conditioning program in February. It includes stretching, weight lifting, strength testing, muscular stimulation, whirlpool treatment and passing.

"Our initial tests revealed that John's right arm tricep muscles were only 50 per cent of the left triceps and the girth of the right upper arm was one inch less than the left," Neill said. "Now he has comparable strength in both arms and the right is again its normal size."

Unitas began throwing a football on March 17.

BERRYFIELD REST TIME--These youthful strawberry pickers take time out for a brief rest after laboring under a hot sun picking on the Howell farm. Some of them pick as many as 80-90 quarts during an eight hour day.

ADMIRING FRUIT OF THEIR LABOR--Mrs. Reuben Howell and her husband stand amid dozens of picking containers -- holding six quarts of berries each, at their Strawberry Farm packing shed, located some five miles South of Dexter.

AWAITING THE CHECKIN--These berry pickers, who receive seven cents a quart for berries picked, await their checkin time for the picking boxes that contain six quarts of berries each.

READY FOR BOXING--W.F. Webb, of Dexter, who has helped the Howells with their berry picking and other farm crop gatherings, for more than 14 years, looks on as Mrs. Loedith Shipley of Essex prepares to begin boxing the fine berries into quart containers.

MEXICAN BERRY EXPERTS--These seven members of the Philip Hircheta family show prowess in the picking of strawberries, despite their sizes and ages. Even little three-year-old Michael (Mike) can pick up to 30 quarts a day. Also shown are David, 5, Roy, 6, Aurora, 8, Johnie, 9, and Jessie 13. Lupe, 15, the eighth member of the popular is not shown. The Hiracheta children, who are resident of Catron, attend the Dexter school.

Howells Are Stoddard 'Berry Champs'

20 Acres Tops For Berry Farming

BY E. J. MAYS
STATE EDITOR

DEXTER — The fruit from some 10 acres of fine, luscious, red ripe strawberries are furnishing plenty of good eating, imployment for more than 100 berry pickers and providing a portion of a good livelihood for the Stoddard County "Strawberry Growing Champs," Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Howell.

The Howell's operate a 275 acre diversified farm, located some five miles South of Dexter, with Howell handling the farm supervision while his attractive and pleasant speaking wife "Miss Dell" takes care of the teaching of the sixth grade class at an Elementary School at Dexter, where she has rounded out 40-faithful years of teaching.

Ask her pupils, past and present, and you'll find that they have returned the love and affection she has lavished on them, through the years. For, as her husband says, "oftimes I think those kids come first, before myself, the farm, everything."

Mrs. Howell has taught them well for dozens are now holding prominent jobs in industry, the sciences and in the teaching profession, with a couple now engaged in playing professional baseball.

And, while her heart "is in her classroom" -- for nine months each year-- she is also vitally interested in the Howell's taking a leading role in bringing Dexter and Stoddard County into its potential as a strawberry producing area.

"We are ready to double our acreage next year and then go as high as several hundred acres over a period of years, as long as we are assumed of plenty of labor but we will never sacrifice quality production for the sake of quantity and lesser grade berries," he insists. To which Mrs. Howell adds a hearty "Amen!"

The returns from Howell's strawberry growing activities are "better than average," provided no hail comes to tear the crop asunder and assure huge losses as it pelts the fruit into the ground. Continuous rain also causes rot.

His average of some 2,000 crates, of 16 quarts each picked at a cost of some seven cents per quart, averages in at around $6.00 per crate gross. Fertilizer, new plants and the various necessary pesticides, take another bite from the net profit of around $12,000 for the 10 acre yield.

As many as 100 pickers assemble daily for a period of four to six weeks for picking purposes and the berries are sold throughout the area, as far South as Blytheville and as far East as Paducah. Annually old customers come back for the berries that have proven so tasteful over the years that the Howell's have been offering them for sale.

The plants, of the Surecrop and Albritton Sweet varieties are purchased from an Arkansas grower the Connor Co. of Augusta and set out early in March, with maturity of these plants, as producers, occuring a little more than a year later, around the middle, or last of May.

This makes the seventh year that the Howell's have been in the big berry production business.

Most of the pickers are local residents who come back year after year to help with the harvest and Howell's right hand man Webb, having worked with Howell for the past 14 years, aiding in keeping the two packing sheds going smoothly.

The Howell's, in their diversified farming, also raise cotton, corn and wheat. Hogs were tied for a few years but discarded as a rather payless venture.

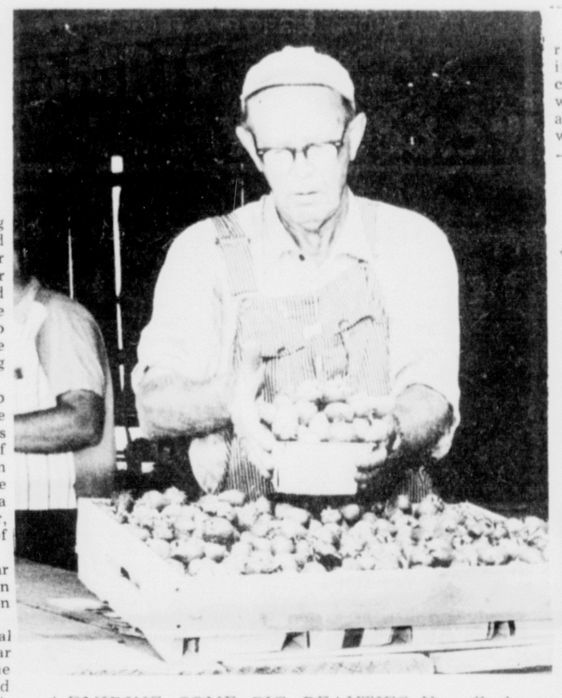

He farms 25 acres of cotton, 37 acres of wheat and 50 acres of corn. The corn yield returned some 80 bushels per acre in 1968, despite a wet season. His cotton land averaged around a bale and a half per acre and his wheat came through with a 40 bushel per acre average.

A herd of 24 Angus cows and some 18 calves furnish both meat and money.

Like the other berry farmers in the area Howell contributes berries, free of charge, to the various activities that go to help underwrite the cost of the annual Dexter Strawberry Festival, as they are auctioned off by various civic clubs that comprise the Festival.

He thinks that "the proper supply of labor, a little to aid in the growing of the berries and a lot more for the gathering of the fruit, must be assured before local growers can 'risk' larger acreage plantings. It is almost impossible to stagger the ripening period and we must be certain that the berries will be picked as they ripen," Howell explains.

Meanwhile Stoddard County residents are proud of the fine berry growing record that Howell, and other strawberry farmers like him are doing and hope for a steady acreage increase in the years to come.

To the Editor:

Students at Lincoln University have very largely wrecked a $2 million student union erected by the taxpayers of Missouri for their comfort, pleasure, and convenience. They have shown how little they appreciate this act of consideration for their benefit.

It would be my suggestion that this ruined building be left exactly as it is for many years to come.

By their senseless act of destruction students at Lincoln University have injured themselves. If the student union is immediately restored, the inconvenience and loss to he students will be very slight.

If it is not restored or replaced the loss and inconvenience will be a continuing one, and this may well serve as a sobering influence against any future depredations which they may contemplate or may be encouraged to commit by agitators from off campus.

Brown's Now Own Two Tony's

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown are now sole owners of Two Tony's Smorgasbord at 2035 W. Malone, effective early this month.

They purchased the half interest of their partner, Tony Fodor, West Frankfort, Ill., who was a partner since the popular eating place was opened Oct. 14, 1967.

Jim and Elma Brown came here from St. Louis, where he was in he distributing business and she taught in the Alton, Ill., school system. She is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, and has her master's degree from University of Illinois.

Both are natives of this area, having graduated from the old Gray Ridge high school.

The couple reside at 202 William street.

Spradling Opposes Elimination of Individual Tax Hike

For eliminating the increase — Blackwell, Brancato, Cason, Cox, Curtis, Downs, Howard, Johnson, Keating, Lee, Linehan Noland, Pentland, Ryan, Somerville, Stone, Vandandingham, Webster, Young 18.

When Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians struck out 283 batters last season it marked the third time in four seasons that he led the American League.

Accident Fatal To Desloge Man

POTOSI, Mo. (AP) — Jerry A. Moore, 25, of Desloge was killed early Tuesday when the automobile he was riding in ran off state Route 8 and overturned near Potosi in Washington County.

200 Enrollees Are Expected In Special Class

EAST PRAIRIE — A remedial program for students in grades three through six will open June 9 and terminate on August 1, East Prairie school officials announced Wednesday.

Some 200 children, about the same number as enrolled last year, are expected to register before the June 6 deadline. Some seven teachers will be employed in the program and school buses will pick up the children along their regular routes, officials said.

Had No Majority Vote

Abraham Lincoln did not obtain a majority of the popular vote when he first ran and was elected to the office of president, although he received a majority in the electoral college because of the split in the Democratic party, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

To The Editor:

Why did many of these people come to St. Louis to begin with? Wasn't it at the invitation of relatives or friends and for the sole purpose of getting on relief? The only way you are going to solve the problem is for the leaders of the colored people to go in business and train and hire their own race. They know more about them than others.

Gen. Taylor Says Troop Cut Would Hurt Bargain Power

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, says that withdrawing American troops from Vietnam now would weaken the U.S. bargaining position in the Paris peace talks.

Although negotiating from strength "has almost become a dirty word ... that's the way the other side is trying to organize its negotiations," he told a news conference Tuesday before an address to the California Bankers Association.

"I don't understand the desire to reduce one's strength at a time when it should be the strongest," Taylor said. "I think we are on the way to winning unless we defeat ourselves."

The platypus of Australia is classed as a mammal even though it lays eggs.

Another Heart Expert Comes Out for Jogging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another heart disease expert, who suffered a heart attack himself, has come out for jogging with scrappy advice for more Americans to get with it.

"It is all very well to talk a good game of exercise, but to do it regularly is something else," says Dr. Irvine H. Page, a senior research consultant to the Cleveland clinic, and former director of the National Advisory Heart Council.

Page is 68. He suffered a heart attack two years ago, and took up jogging afterwards. "I'm probably in better physical shape now than I was before the attack."

The doctor also finds time for tennis doubles twice a week. "We can beat hell out some of these younger kids," he said. On the fatty acids, Page said, "the public has decided that cholesterol is a bad thing, but they don't plan to do anything about it, except possibly try to live it in gin."

If there is to be a general reduction in the intake of cholesterol, Page said, "It will come about chiefly because manufacturers and processers of food have so decreed it." This is more likely, he said, than persons altering their diets to reduce the fatty substance.

ABJECT SURRENDER

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — One store owner here apparently has given up in a fight against crime. After the last break-in at his establishment, he placed a card in a broken window and addressed it: "Thieves—don't bother to break in again. There's nothing of value left in the store anymore."

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Mayor Lee P. Stenzel appointed a police chief Tuesday after more incidents of violence and a demand by 200 citizens for better law enforcement in the strife ridden river community.

Two hundred Cairo residents crowded into a City Council meeting Monday to demand better police work.

Two firebombings Monday night and a pre-dawn rifle attack on the police station Monday were the most recent violent outbreaks in the Southern Illinois city of more than 8,000.

Police resumed normal patrol Tuesday and reported there were no arrests as a result of Monday's incidents. Firemen who were called to one firebombing were fired at as they tried to extinguish flames. There were no injuries.

East Prairie's Grads Urged To 'Remain At Home'

By E. J. MAYS
STATE EDITOR

EAST PRAIRIE — The 104 member 1969 senior graduating class of East Prairie High School was challenged yesterday morning, at their award ceremonies, to "stay at home and help us build a better town and community," by Mayor Lloyd Hogan.

"I beg you to accept the responsibilities of the community, now that you have finished your high school careers," the affable mayor said, stressing the need for help from the seniors" as we prepare to make a great effort to show voters we need to change our government to a city manager - council style instead of a mayor - board of alderman type as at present."

He prophesied that "only about 20 of you will remain in our midst, in the years to come unless we get more industry, add badly needed water and sewerage facilities," he said. "East Prairie is about the ONLY town I know of where you can take a bath and still get dirtier," he said, in an attempt to impress the students and parents with the need for more water mains and a better purification system.

"We need workers to distribute hand bills, talk about water and sewerage needs and stay with us so we can show prospective industrial locators that we DO have an ample, available supply of both male and female labor to satisfy their demands," he added.

He told them there was need for an exchange of ideas — and you have some very good ones — between the graduates and the older residents of East Prairie. "You can help us with our health hazards, with our promotion of the territory and thus aid us in raising our standard of living as we promote more efficient government, more healthful living conditions and a better understanding among our people," he said in closing.

Senate Hikes Corporate Tax But Rejects Individua Increase

The corporate increase was approved on a voice vote. The $34 million in individual income tax rates approved by the House was eliminated by the Senate on a 19-15 roll call.

If the bill gets through the Legislature and is approved by the governor, who asked an income tax increase as a part of his program, the increase would become effective Jan. 1, 1970.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, President Pro Tem of the Senate, insisted the state would have plenty of money without increasing individual income taxes.

Under his plan he said the state would still have a surplus of almost $60 million at the end of the next two fiscal years.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St Louis, the Ways and Means chairman, disputed Blackwell's conclusions. He said welfare, schools and new programs such as the public defender system would suffer unless individual taxes are raised too.

Sen. Bill M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said increased state aid to schools might be jeopardized and he urged that action be taken now because it would be impossible to raise taxes in 1970, an election year.

During much of the long debate, the galleries were packed with visiting parents and teachers from the St. Louis area, in the Capitol to lobby for increased state aid to education.

At one point Blackwell said the picketers didn't know what they were doing because the Legislature already has committed itself to boost state aid by $35 million a year for the next four years to reach the goal of 50-50 state sharing in school costs.

The top corporate tax rate now is 2 per cent and has been for the past 38 years. The House bill would have set it at 4 per cent but Blackwell's amendment boosted that to 5 per cent.

Also eliminated from the bill was a provision that would have required married couples to file joint state returns if they filed blackwell foresaw no trouble in passing the tax collection speedup bills recommended by the governor to produce almost $30 million in a one — shot "windfall."

The Senate passed and sent to the House Monday a bill to increase both individual and corporate income taxes about $35 million a year and allocate the money to cities and counties for local police costs.

New Madrid Magistrate Court Clears Big Docket

NEW MADRID — Judge Leo Hedgepeth clearned an unusually heavy docket in Magistrate Court this week with one person being bound over for Circuit Court action on a felony charge, 30 fines being assessed on misdemeanor charges, two civil suits heard and four bonds being forfeited.

Earnest Rackley, charged with felonious assault, was bound over to Circuit Court, following a preliminary hearing. His bond was set at $2,500.

Charged in two cases with having no Public Service Commission authority, DeWitt Brawley paid a fine of $100 in each case.

Four persons charged with public intoxication and paying fines of $45 each were Clyde Edward Blair, Melby Harless Jr., Melvin Harry Copeland and Mary Ratlove. Harless was also fined $16 on charges of having no operator's license and no license plate.

Ambros B. Greenlee Jr. was assessed $35 fine on charges of speeding, using stolen or borrowed license and failure to stop for red light.

Charged with operating overweight vehicle of 750 pounds, Troy Teeters was fined $32.50.

Paying fines on charges of speeding were Teddy Lathum and Stafford Leroy Thompson, $35 each; Judith Deem Jones and William Edgar Hall II, $25 each; Nina Darlene Scott $15; and Thomas Franklin Pearson, exceeding night speed limit, $15.

Twelve persons charged with misdemeanors and paying fines of $15 each were Charlotte Jolen Tidwell, no operator's license; Ruth Brooks Thedford, using out-of-state license while a Missouri resident; James Marion Kisner, improper registration; Wilmer Ely McClain, careless and reckless driving, failure to yield right - of - way; James Lee Tipler, improper registration.

Charles Leondle Kerby, careless and imprudent driving, failure to exercise highest degree of care; Flora Belle Earnheart, permitting unauthorized operator to drive; Ollie Olline Bolen, failure to yield right - of - way, and Emile Henry Davis, failure to transfer.

Judgment of $981.87 was awarded Liberty Loan Corp. against Harold Wallace and Joyce Wallace.

A change of venue was granted Daniel Lynn to the Circuit Court of New Madrid County in the case against him by Dr. Edward S. Kaplan.

Two persons, charged with speeding, and forfeiting $100 bonds each, were Peter James Brooks and John Lynn Street. Bonds of $35 each were forfeited by Thomas Edward Short and Sarah E. Burns, charged with speeding.

Portageville Park Board Holds Meeting

PORTAGEVILLE-The Portageville Park Board has announced the purchase of a new riding lawnmower, at a cost of over $1,000 and a donation of $500 to the Little League ball program to be used for a new building which will include a concession stand, press box and rest rooms.

Labor in constructing the building is being donated by interested persons.

A shed for the lawnmower has already been built and painted.

Other improvements announced include painting of the exterior and interior of the community building, and roof repairs; repairs and painting of the merry-go-round and teeter-totter; all park benches and picnic tables have been painted; and the pool vacuum cleaner has been repaired.

Repairs are being made to the concrete lip of the swimming pool and a special paint is being used on the filter tanks.

Six new benches set in cement pads will be placed around the outside of the pool. Benches in the dressing rooms have been repaired and curtains are to be purchased for the girls dressing rooms and showers.

The next regular meeting of the board is at 7 p.m. June 19 at the community building.

Divorce, Custody Cases Are Heard

NEW MADRID — Two divorces were granted and a motion to dismiss heard in Circuit Court here Tuesday, Judge William L. Ragland presided.

A divorce and custody of two children were granted Ardin Simmons against Rosemary Simmons.

Custody of two children, $50 per month per child for support, and a divorce were awarded Brenda Faye Owens in her suit against James Monroe Owens Jr.

Judge Ragland took under advisement the case of City of Howardville against J. R. Hutchsion Jr., Joe Reeves, Alton Allen and Dave Hicks, after he overruled a motion to dismiss at close of plaintiff's case.

Mishap Fatal to 2 Desoto Teenagers

FESTUS, Mo. (AP) — Two Desoto teenagers were killed and three others injured early today when the car in which they were riding left Big River Heights Road near Festus, side-swiped one tree and struck another broadside.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol identified the victims as Lawrence J. Long, 17, and Charles L. Mulvaney, 17.

The driver of the car, John Harness Jr., 17, and two other passengers were taken to Jefferson County Hospital in Festus with injuries.

Grain Bins Should Be Remedied Now For Use In Wheat Harvest

County AGent

BLOOMFIELD — As I have traveled around over Stoddard County recently, I have noticed that wheat is turning, so small grain harvest is almost here. Grain bins in which small grain is to be stored should be prepared for the storage of this grain. Certain practices used prior to and at harvest time will do much to help keep the grain clean and free of insect damage.

The first step, and a very important one, in the preparation of the grain bin is to thoroughly clean the bin. Old grain should be removed from the bin as new grain should never be stored on top of old grain. If new grain is stored with old grain, the old grain will serve as a source of insect infestation for the new grain. After old grain has been removed from the bin, all dirt and trash including all grain in cracks and corners should be cleaned out. All grain that might have sifted out around and under the bin should also be cleaned up. In addition to cleaning the bin, any repairs should be made to make the bin rat, mouse, and bird proof.

SPRAY INTERIORS

After the bin has been cleaned, all interior surfaces should be sprayed with either methoxychlor or malathion until wet, but not to the point of run-off. Methoxychlor is recommended at the rate of three-fourths pint of 25 percent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water, and premium grade malathion should be applied at the rate of one- third pint of 57% emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water.

Small grain should be stored on the farm only when the moisture content of the grain is 13 percent or less unless drying facilities are to be used. Storing grain with a higher moisture content will encourage insect troubles.

The use of malathion as a grain protectant offers one of the cheapest and most effective methods of insect control in stored grain available to date. Grain that is dry and free of insects at the time of storage can be protected for as long as one year by the proper use of malathion. For this treatment, mix one pint of 57 percent premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in from two to five gallons of water and treat 1000 bushels of grain with this amount. Or, you can use a one percent premium grade malathion dust at the rate of 50 pounds per 1000 bushels of grain, but be certain that the dust is labelled specifically as a grain protectant. The protectant should be applied either to the grain stream as it comes out of the combine or to the grain as it is elevated into the bin.

After the grain has been put into the bin, the surface of the grain should be levelled and sprayed with the malathion protectant. For this purpose, use one-half pint of 57 percent premium grade malathion emulsifiable concentrate in one to two gallons of water and treat 1000 square feet of surface area with this amount. After this is done, the grain surface should not be disturbed, and forced air should not be used as both will destroy the effectiveness of the protectant.

Following these steps in making preparation to store grain will do much to insure that the quality of the grain is maintained while the grain is in storage.

Commencement Awards Made At Charleston

CHARLESTON — The 1969 Charleston High School commencement exercise were held Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium. The graduating seniors were in charge of the program.

Warren Moss, the assistant principal, presented three perfect attendance certificates and awards to the seniors who attended school for four years without missing a day. These awards went to Nelda Housman, Rosie Rogers, and Allen Rapert.

Coach Herbert Marshall present a trophy to the bov who has participated in sports all four years of high school. The award went to Mike Robbins the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Robbins. Mike had a total of eight varsity letters and participated in three different sports.

The Marshall Award, for the best-all- around boy and girl, was presented by the principal Louis Chaney to Lee Anne Chaney and Jesse Jackson.

The Valedictorian was presented to Lee Anne Chaney who is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Chaney.

The Salutatorian went two senior, who both had the same total of points needed to be named to the honor. This award went to Kathy Palmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Palmer and James Houser, the son of Mr. nd Mrs. James R. Houser. Each also received an award from the Rebekah Lodge and the Odd Fellow Lodge.

Castro Admits Sugar Harvest Far Below Goal

HAVANA (AP) – Prime Minister Fidel Castro admitted Monday night that Cuba 's 1969 sugar harvest would fall far short of its goal and described it as "the agony of the country."

In a brbroadcast speech lasting nearly two hours, Castro blamed the disappointing harvest on equipment and personnel problems. But he said the harvest would start earlier next year and the crop should be bigger. The Communist leader is aiming for a 10-million-ton-harvest in 1970.

He said with 85 per cent of the cutting completed, 4,277,482 tons of sugar have been harvested this year. At that rate, total production will fall below 5 million tons, and Castro had set a goal of 9 million tons.

"The people have been making a great effort but could do more," Castro said. "We have the example of a greater effort, that of the people of Vietnam confronting hundreds of thousands of imperialist soldiers."

Cuba harvested 5.1 million tons of sugar in 1968.

Man on Welfare Repaid for Golf Permits, Fees

NEW YORK (AP) – A welcome recipients has received money for golf permits and greens fees from the city because physicians say he needs "special therapeutic experience." His bid to buy a race horse with city funds was turned down.

The city Social Service Department admitted the unusual grant Tuesday, but denied a charge by the Bronx district attorney that it had given the client grants to make up gambling losses at the race track.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Burton D. Roberts said David Davis, 31, also had applied for special grants to buy a trotting horse, buy appliances and send his wife to a psychiatrist three times a week.

Davis was in court Tuesday for a hearing on four counts of grand larceny and three of petit larceny.

JFK Birthplace To Become Historical Site

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) – The birthplace of the late President John F. Kennedy will be dedicated a National Historical Site Thursday, the day he would have been 52 years old.

An announcement Monday said Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel will make the dedication and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the late president's mother, will present the deed to the two-story frame house to the federal government.

The Kennedy family lived in the house from 1914 to 1920. The family purchased it in 1966, and has restored it to its appearance as of 1917, the year John Kennedy's birth.

HANDOUTS DESTROY CHARACTER

The City Planning Commission of New York has approved a 300,000-word, $19-billion plan that is expected to change the city's skyline and alter its economic and social structure.

The $5 billion a year that this plan is expected to cost must come, so the planners say, from the Federal government.

The main purpose of the plan is to create a new middle class by giving three million poor people "direct payments, new public service jobs, subsidy of expanded jobs in the private sector and stipends during advanced training."

Giving money to poor people has never yet produced middle class people. It is more likely to reduce the present middle class to the poor class.

People achieve middle class standing by character, integrity, initiative and hard work. To greatly increase the burden on them in this attempt to buy a new middle class will reduce them to the poverty level

What we need is more earned money and less free welfare. If able- bodied citizens were required to do useful work in return for relief payments, we would be on the road to a solution of the problem. Giving people more money without obligating them to do useful work for it, is destructive of character and will cause a rapid increase in he number of people needing and demanding relief. It is the road to bankruptcy and loss of freedom.

Many poor people are not able to earn standard wages, but they could earn something. If employers were not required to pay minimum wages to people incapable of earning them, many unemployed people would find jobs. There ought also to be an apprentice wage for younger persons until they acquire the skill and experience that would enable them to earn standard wages.

The destruction of freedom in the marketplace is reponsible for the insoluble problem of welfare and the demand for more and more relief.

When government takes money from some and give it to others, it is violating the Commandments against coveting and stealing. No nation will long retain its freedom if it continually expands that process.

SUN SERVICES LAKE OF THE OZARKS

C. L. Denison, Vice President of Sales for Sun Airlines, announced today that Sun began daily service to Lake of the Ozarks last Thursday, May 15th.

Denison said Sun is flying 18 passenger DeHavilland pro-jet planes into the resort area from St. Louis, Kansas City, Cape Girardeau, Sikeston and Springfield, Missouri.

"Out of state passengers," Denison said, "come into Missouri on the trunk carriers and are ticketed through to the Lake of the Ozarks through Sun's interline agreements with the nation's leading carriers. One ticket will do it from almost any place in the United States."

Sun's flights originate and land at Grand Glaize Airport and the addition of service to Lake of the Ozarks brings the number of cities currently served by the Memphis based commuter line to 17. Sun service area includes Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

FLOWER POWER

NEW YORK (AP) Proud but protective of his springtime blossoms, Parks Commissioner August Heckscher has published the following decree:

"See the parks where blooms are thick.

"Take a sniff but do not pick."

"Let no one say, and say it to your shame,

"That all was beauty here until you came."

PAUL FLOWER'S

It's about that time again, when hundreds of thousands of young hopefuls, having outwitted deans, professors and computerized record systems, will cross the stage and become bachelors, masters, or doctors of one thing or another.

They will be appareled in raiment some of which dates back to the 13th Century; gowns, hoods and caps or hats whose symbolism has long been lost except in archives. Education, like medicine, religion and the law, is pretty much an institution of habit and tradition; vestiges of ancient lore linger long after meanings have been forgotten.

It is of record that students six centuries ago enjoyed their own protest movements; to demonstrate disapproval of an instructor or lecturer young hopefuls would hiss or shout at their mentor, and even throw stones, if he went too fast for them to take notes (this was before students carried portable electronic tape recorders).

The gown was basic everyday wear by students; the professors sported varicolored hoods and odd headpieces, such as today's familiar mortarboard; others used ermine hats ranging from what we now consider Russian or Pakistan fashion, to birettas and even skull-caps similar to the Jews' yarmulkas. Eventually the hood was stretched overhead to make a cap or cowl, but often it was left to dangel, for trimness never was big with scholars, any more than keeping in line or step during the academic procession.

From time to time the hood indicated the rank of the wearer; folk etymology says that our word "falsehood," euphemism for "lie," came into being when some pretender wore a hood to which he was not entitled, hence "Falsehood."

Professors and lecturers were hungry folks before longsuffering taxpayers began picking up the tab for fat professors' salaries; masters' gowns had long, flowing sleeves slitted at convenient places so that the master, once he had finished his tutorial duties, could secrete in his sleeves a ham, a covered dish, or loaf of bread. Sleeves served much the same purpose as a Scotsman's sporran.

In our time, doctors of philosophy (or medicine, dentistry, law, literature or other mysteries) wear chevrons of appropriate color on the black sleeves.

Since 1911, caps and gowns have become standard raiment for high school graduations; the color is usually gray, although bright blue appears now and then.

There is a traditon, apparently without much authority, that a candidate moves the tassel from left to right upon receiving the diploma; the practice is fairly common today, and is a pleasant gesture even if it lacks official sanction. If your young genius forgets to shift the tassel, be not dismayed, for the tradition may be honored without the gesture.

Probably the greatest advance in academic vestments since the Middle Ages has been the invention of air conditioning.

Before that happy era even faculty men left their shirts in the robing room, and ladies made sure their gowns gave no hint that dresses were abandoned in favor of filmy slips.

My own ambition has been to march in academic procession, clad in kilts, or a Shriner's costume. I do not expect to live long enough to see the girls in academic bikinis.

To help you identify graduates in different subjects (we used to call them "disciplines") here is a list which you can carry to graduation exercises and use to keep your own box score. The tassel tells the tale:

Commercial Appeal

MALDEN — Richard Wiethan, vice president of the Malden Chamber of Commerce, has asked for proposals by Malden residents for the purpose of assuring additional industry that a sufficiency of housing would be made available to any new industrial locators.

A Representative of the industry who will sponsor the Prospective new plant has informed the Chamber Office that because of the willingness of the people of Malden to co-operate in this matter, made evident by the proposals that were received, Negotiations with the prospect can continue and naturally hopes are high that these negotiations will prove successful.

Food Facts & Fancies

By TRIENAH MEYERS

I wonder how many of you have ever stopped to consider how much food we eat in a year. It is equal to 2-1/2 tons of food a year for an average family of four. And this food has to be moved from farms to a supermarket so a family shopper can have the food she wants, where she wants it, when she wants it, in the form she wants it, and, hopefully, at a price she considers "reasonable."

Think how this task is compounded for a supermarket manager. This family shopper is only one of his customers. Others may differ in their wants because of the amount they can or want to spend for food, the kind and qualities of food they like, the amount of built- in maid service they want to buy, the size of their family, and the ages of their children...

Think of all the people who are involved in one way or another in getting the food to the family shopper and to away - from - home eating places. Farmers, assemblers, truckers, processors, wholesalers and retailers – all working together, with each group making its own special contribution. Then add to this others who supply these people with tractors, trucks, processing and packaging equipment, cartons and bottles, and the 11 million shopping carts, which, if placed end- to - end, would reach from Chicago to Paris.

All of these workers together have provided us with a variety of "seasonal" foods the year around along with foods that reach our kitchens in new and appealing forms - foods of high quality, packaged for more economical distribution, easier storage, and protection from spoilage and contamination.

Yet, today, most of us seem to take for granted all of these things that are done for us. Even some of us who have reached - or passed - the age where "life begins" have forgotten about the day when a fresh orange in the Christmas stocking was a real treat.

We have forgotten about all the hours that were spent in "putting up" the vegetables and fruit needed during the winter, about the treks to the bakery, the corner grocery where baskets of lettuce and other fresh produce were often left sitting in the sun, the butcher shop with sawdust on the floor and beef hanging uncovered, unrefrigerated, at the side of the store.

Many of us who can remember these days tend to recall only those things that look good to us from this distance - like the prices we paid. Many wonder - and sometimes very vocally - why we have to pay more now for steak than we did in 1935. We do pay more for most foods today than we used to do. But, since our incomes have gone up faster than prices, we are spending a smaller share of our take-home pay for food than ever before in our history.

Statements in newspapers last fall indicated that many consumers see little, if any, relationship between incomes and prices. Their incomes should go up, but the prices of things they want or have to buy should stay the same. For example, a homemaker may not understand that when her husband gets a raise in salary this becomes part of the product or service he supplies. This may increase the cost to the buyer unless efficiencies offset some or all of this added cost. If consumers stop buying the product or service because they think the price is too high, their husbands may be out of jobs.

Gains in "purchasing power" or what we can buy with our take-home pay have not always proceeded at a uniform pace. At times, wages have gone up faster than prices. Most of us like this, for then we can buy more of the things we want. But this creates, additional demands, and if there are not enough products to satisfy these demands, prices go up. We, then, may be in a period when prices tend to go up faster than income. We don't like this situation as well and call it inflation.

In both of these types of situations, an individual or a family may be affected differently from the so-called "average." A family whose income doesn't go up notices increases in prices more than the one getting a raise or promotion. Extra pressure is put on our pocketbooks too if wages stay the same and the family grows larger and older. If one is retired, any price rise, whether in rent, medical bills or foods, is noticed.

As with other things, prices of food change. In part, this is because the amount paid for labor and materials becomes part of the cost of the item produced. Prices of the tractors farmers use have gone up in price over the years. The cost of equipment used by processors, wholesalers and grocers has gone up too. Added to this are the wages of workers all along the line, though theirs have not increased as much as wages of employees in many other kinds of jobs.

Overall, prices of most foods have been "reasonable" and, at times a "bargain" in terms of our take-home pay. Often we don't think so or we tend to want the prices of "necessities" to stay the same so we can buy other things to satisfy our yearnings. Why is it that we seem particularly sensitive to changes in the prices of food? Why do we protest so vehemently when some foods go up a penny or two while other things we buy may have increased dollars? How much do we really know about food prices – about what our food bills actually are?

One observation is that family shoppers seem to be more aware of increases than decreases in food prices. You may say that this is fine - she should be - this is her job. But what seems to happen is that she remembers the high prices and doesn't balance them out over time when prices go down. It is normal for prices of many foods to fluctuate - season to season - from week to week.

But, you may say, prices did go up last year, and the women were quite vocal about it! Yes, food prices did go up last year. Until August, they increased at a faster rate than has been usual in recent years. And, during these months, each time the Bureau of Labor Statistics Food index went up, it made the headlines. This served to accent price rises and, for some individuals, it accented them to the point that when newspapers now say that the cost of living has gone up, they subconsciously blame food.

Even last fall when some housewives were protesting the prices of foods, some very important foods in family purchases were already going down in price. In October 36 of the 87 foods priced by BLS were lower than they were in March (1966) 30 were cheaper than in September; and 14 were lower in price than the same month the year before...

Let's see how some of these indexes have changed since 1957-59. As of May this year, the most recent data we have, the Food Index had risen 13.9 percent since 1957-59. Food away from home had increased 28.7 percent, while food at the grocery had risen by only 10.9 percent. By comparison, during this same period, medical care was up 35.7 percent; prices of footwear had increased 25.2 percent; and public transportation was up 30.9 percent. The index for "all items" together - or the overall increase in the cost of living - had risen 15.6 percent. Only fuel and utilities, household furnishings and operations, and women's and girls' apparel and upkeep had risen less than food at home.

...I'm inclined to think too that homemakers have a price range in mind when they shop. If the price goes above this mental price ceiling - because of short supplies - then the homemaker is reluctant to buy. If the price falls to an unusual low because of abundant supplies, she will buy more but may not stop to think what a bargain it is.

Food prices are "high" or getting there when they push this mental price ceiling and "normal" only when they go down. For items like fryers, she may consider the "special" price the regular price. Yet, the store may be using them as loss leaders, selling them at or even below cost on that particular day. I wonder how many of us would be willing to buy eggs, incubate them to raise little chicks - then feed these chickens for months, kill them, remove the feathers, head, feet, and entrails, wrap giblets in absorbent paper, insert these into the inner cavity, put the cleaned chicken in a plastic bag and get it to the retail meat counter for from 24 to 29 cents a pound - for less than $1 for a 3-pound ready- to - cook chicken?

While I'm talking about chicken, I'd like to digress a bit and discuss some of the comments we get about the packaging of meat. Some homemakers would like it cut-to - order, others think packaging adds to the cost. I believe that, today, most supermarkets do cut meat to order if a family shopper asks for it. But, let's just assume there is no precut, prepackaged meat available. Can you imagine what it would be like on a Saturday if every shopper had to wait to have meat cut to order? Imagine a hundred customers waiting in line while one shopper tells the butcher the cut of meat she wants, the grade of meat she wants, and the quantity she wants. Then the butcher would have to go to the refrigerator and bring out part of a side of beef, try to slice a piece of meat so it will weigh the amount specified, get the customer's approval of what he has done, and then he still would have to wrap it. Such a line would only inch along - be much slower than at any check-out counter - unless more meat cutters were hired.

Going back to food costs, there's another thing that tends to make it difficult for us to know precisely what we spend for food. This is because, on any one shopping trip, there can be quite a difference between the supermarket bill and the food bill. In today's supermarkets everything is displayed side by side. And, everything includes all the things that get added to the grocery bill that aren't foods at all - laundry soap, floor wax, children's socks, even hi-fi records and encyclopedias. About 20 percent of the average grocery bill - the bill we tend to think of as the family food bill - is made up of items to wear, or read, or listen to, or clean house with. We certainly don't eat them. I know I was surprised to find that we buy through the supermarket about 90 percent of all the cat and dog food sold, more than half of the toothpaste, half of the aspirin and now nearly half of the hair spray. We spend about the same amount in grocery stores for dog food as we do for three products - canned and bottled beer for off-premise consumption, cigarettes, and pet foods - than we do for fresh beef...

It's difficult for some of us to realize that over half of our population is under 28 - that three out of every four Americans living today are too young to remember World War I.

That NEarly two-thrids of us were not yet born when the stock market crashed in 1020! And, most amazing to me, is that to nearly a half of our population the Korean War is ancient history! This means they've been growing up during the period of greatest prosperity - and technological innovation - in our history.

The "under 30's" have a different attitude towards needs and wants than their parents and grandparents who grew up in the prewar and "flapper" eras. In general, those "under 30" homemakers have more formal education than their elders, are more sophisticated, marry younger, move around more, and tend to have better incomes earlier in life than former generations. They demand more conveniences- in fact, many of these are necessities, not luxuries.

Today's young homemakers have always shopped in supermarkets with from 6,000 to 8,000 or even more items from which to choose. They can and do select from a variety of precooked, prepackaged foods - processed potatoes, TV dinners, oven- ready pizzas, prepared cake mixes, brown- and - serve rolls. Studies have shown that these homemakers are among the heaviest users of such items. And, they especially like to try "new" ones.

Our young shoppers take for granted the fringe benefits provided by supermarkets - parking, check- cashing service, air -conditioned comfort in summer, loudspeakers to report lost children, sample demonstrators of new foods. The only supermarkets they have known specialize in selling a market basket of services along with their products.

What is being forecast for the next generation of young homamakers is largely more of everything. Unless unforeseen events take place, they are expected to have higher incomes; and there will be still more things to tempt them to spend this money. They will be even more used to extraordinary technological developments than our young people are today. I believe that work should be started today to build a wiser generation to cope with tomorrow's challenges...

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday May 29, the 149th day of 1969. There are 216 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1453, the capital of the Byzantine empire Constantinople, was captured by the Turks.

On this date:

In 1790, Rhode Island became the 13th state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1848, Wisconsin became the 30th state.

In 1917, the 35th president of the United States, John F. Kennedy, was born in Brookline, Massachusetts.

In 1943, during the Pacific war, Americans defeated the Japanese in the battle of Attu in the Aleutians.

In 1953, Edmond Hillary of New Zealand and Tensing Nor Kay of Nepal became the first climbers to reach the top of Mt. Everest, the world's highest mountain.

Ten years ago — The International Olympics Committee, meeting in Munich, Germany, voted to withdraw recognition from Nationalist China.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union disclosed it had photographed military bases and installations from space.

Judge Fines Eight Persons in Court

Eight defendants were issued fines totaling $250 by Magistrate Court Judge M. E. Montgomery today. James E. Moore III, assisting Scott County prosecuting attorney, representing the state.

Three cases were dismissed, three certified to Circuit Court and four cases were continued.

Harold Ray Smith, 838 E. Gladys, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50 and costs. He was paroled after being charged with assisting in a jail break, and his parole revoked. A brother from Michigan and a sister from Arizona, were present in an effort to take their younger brother to Michigan to place him in a job and look after him. Judge Montgomery asked liquor officer Ballwin Young to investigate the matter. The defendant was fined $50 and costs on his plea of guilty.

Jerry Ritchie Morgan, East Prairie, pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50.

Amos LeRoy Brazeal, Scott City, charged with feloniously stealing from Semo Motor Company, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to Circuit Court. His bond was set at $1,000.

Herb Yancy, 525 N. Ranney, pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor and was fined $50.

Lynn Fred Petty, 847 E. Gladys, pleaded guilty on two counts. On count one for improper motor vehicle registration, he was fined $50. On count two, with not having a valid operator's license, he was fined $10.

Robert Sylvester Rogers, 801 Delmar, pleaded guilty on two counts and was fined $10 on each, for improper license plates and improper exhaust on motor vehicle.

Jerry Loyd Pritchett, Franklin Park, Ill., pled guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $5.

Damer Nuell Williams, Melrose Park, Ill., pled guilty to a change of improper vehicle registration and was fined $5.

Earl Eugene Cook, 822 Linn, pled guilty to operating a motorcycle without an operator's license, and fined $10.

Two cases were dismissed on payment of costs, Lawrence Pfifer 1620 E. Matthews, charged with contributing to delinquency of a minor and Ted Coleman, 809 Ruth, charged with assault.

Joyce Litchford, Sikeston, charged with issuing a worthless check, was sentenced to six months jail. The sentence was stayed on good behavior for one year.

James Leon Ford, 315 Ruth, charged with operating motor vehicle without a license, asked for a change of venue. The case was certified to Circuit Court and bond set at $100.

Carl Hamilton, Highway 61 north, charged with issuing worthless check, had his case certified to Circuit Court after Judge Montgomery disqualified himself.

Armon Marvin Dunn, 835 E. Kathleen, pleaded not guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor. His trial was set for June 10.

The bond of Carroll Gene Drake, Canalou, who was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was forfeited, and his arrest ordered.

GRAVEYARD ON THE HILL

I see the old graveyard there on the hill
Peacefull, lonely so quit and still
Whippoorwill singing in the old cedar tree
Breaking the silence with his sweet melody.

Green grows the grass on each new mound
Covering the ones in the deep dark ground
Flowers blooming gayly as gently they way
In the cool of the evening of a warm summer day.

Bells in the steeple of the old church does ring
Bringing new hope to the graveyard again
Reminding the ones that lie there asleep
That someday the Lord will his promises keep.

That those who sleep in the graveyard today
Will someday arise and fly far away.
To a land he's provided for those who have been Faithful and loyal always to him.

Exposure to Antismoking Ads Cuts Teen Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of teen-agers exposed to antismoking messages—including the blunt "smoke, choke, croak"—shows a sharp decline of youngsters taking up cigarettes in the last 3 years.

The drop means the total number of smokers in the United States remains about 4 million despite increases in the population, according to Roy L. Davis, a spokesman for the survey group.

Among 17-year-olds questioned during 1967-68, 25.6 per cent of the boys said they smoked cigarettes and 19.7 per cent of the girls said they are smokers.

A 1967 survey of the same age group reported 34.7 per cent of the boys and 25.6 per cent of the girls said they smoked.

The new survey by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health was prepared for the U.S. Public Health Service.

Ninety-one per cent of those queried answered yes when asked: "Would you say smoking is harmful to health?"

The survey offered no reasons for the drop in youth smoking but, in an interview, Davis cited education programs about health factors in cigarettes.

"Kids probably have the greatest impact on kids," said Davis, citing for example the program at a Bakersfield, Calif., high school where students campaigned against cigarette smoking with the help of billboards, radio, television and newspapers.

Davis said youngsters there distributed the "smoke, choke, croak' bumper stickers. He said he saw one on a car in San Francisco, about 200 miles north of Bakersfield.

"There probably are hundreds and hundreds of school districts and groups of kids doing things like this," Davis said. "You should hear the kids in these projects they're death on smoking."

Davis said education programs on the dangers of smoking must also be directed toward parents.

One study found the smoking rate highest among students in households where father and mother smoke, he said. However, if neither parent is a current smoker, the rate of student smoking is almost as low as it is when neither parent has ever been a smoker, the survey found.

Davis said the survey also showed young people who have slipped behind their age-mates in school and those who do not expect to go to college are more likely to smoke.

ARMED FORCES

BINH THUY, S. Vietnam — The poem below was written by Yeom. Donald Jones, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Jones, 405 Prosperity, and sent to his lady friend, Miss Sharon Holden, Sikeston.

Seaman Jones trained at Great Lakes, Ill., last summer, was sent to Bainbridge, Md., to San Diego, Calif., to complete naval training, and then to Yuma, Ariz., for weapons training.

He has been in Vietnam since early March, where he will remain for 13 months, and has enlisted for four years. Jones was one of two navy men of his squadron to be picked by St. Louis Cardinals baseball ed the two men went through the entire training course together. The poem is as follows:

Take a man; Then put him alone,
Put him 12,000 miles from home.
Empty his heart of all but blood,
Make him live in sweat and mud.
This is the life I have to live,
This is why my soul to the devil I give.

You "Peace Boys" rant from your easy chairs,
But you don't know what it's like "over there."
You have a ball without near trying,
While over here your boys are dying.
You burn your Draft Cards,
march at dawn,
Plant your signs on the White House lawn.
You all want to ban the bomb;
"There's no real war in Viet Nam."
Use your drugs and have your fun,
And then refuse to use the gun.
There's nothing else for you to do,
And I'm supposed to die for you;

I'll hate you till the day I die,
You made me see my buddy cry,
I saw his arm a bloody shred,
I heard them say "This one is dead."
It's a large price he had to pay,
Not to live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die.
He paid the price, but what did he buy?
He bought your life by losing his,
But who gives a damn what a soldier gives?
His wife does and maybe his sons,

By Donald R. Jones

REDDITCH, England (AP) — Housewife Maureen Leopard, 31, thought it was a good idea when Mr. Jhony Reynolds, 26, a fire extinguisher salesman, parked one of his samples, knocked the door and told her the tool was on fire. Reynolds finally convinced her to let him in to put out the blaze he had spotted from his car.

"I hadn't seen any flame," Mrs. Leopard said.

Mark Schumacher

Schumacher Graduates

SUBIACO, ARK. — Mark Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. F.X. Schumacher, 510 Vernon Ave., Sikeston, was among the 58 seniors receiving their high school diplomas at the Commencement exercises of Subiaco Academy, held Saturday, May 24.

Mark's diploma was presented to him by the Rev. Michael Lensing, O.S.B., President of the Arkansas boarding Academy where he has been a student the past four years.

During his years at the Academy, Mark was active in many of the extracurricular activities of the school and has distinguished himself as a leader in school life. He has earned the title of President of the Student Council the past year, as the vice president of his class last year, as a cheerleader for the Academy's Trojans the past two years, and as a member of the school's Lector Society.

In addition, Mark has been an avid participant in the intermural programs of the school and is a National Merit Finalist.

If You Were the Judge

Judge is Questioned About Law

By ack Strauss, LL.B.

Judge Homer was a great guy and a great judge. However, there was some question as to how much law he knew. Appointed a judge, he acted as such for seven years. And during that time he took the state's bar examination three times, and failed it each and every aggravating time.

Perhaps a little embarrassed by the situation, Judge Homer finally decided to take the wasy way out. Instead of taking the bar examination a fourth time, he filed a petition with an appropriate court to be admitted to practice law in the state upon application.

"After all," he pointed out, "I've been a judge for seven years and my qualifications are unimpeachable."

"While he's had lots of legal experience," conceded members of the Bar Association, "and does have substantial qualifications, the bar Examination isn't a test of how much liquor a man can hold. It's a test of how much law he knows. Having flunked it three times, Judge Homer is not entitled to special privileges."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Judge Homer to be allowed to practice law in the state without taking the bar examination again?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that considering the fact that Judge Homer had had a great deal of legal experience as a judge for seven years, in addition to otherwise being highly qualified to practice law, it is in the best interests of those served by the legal profession to grant Judge Homer's petition.

Miss Paicide Weber, one of Cape Girardeau's most popular young ladies, will be married in the near future, to Girard Dover, of Sikeston. The secret was revealed by Miss Weber some few days ago in a conference with her friends.

A basket dinner was given at the Baptist Church Sunday after the morning service, in honor of the Rev. S.P. Brite and his family who expect to leave this city in the near future.

"We have been in business 40 years, and have been pleasing and displeasing the people ever since. We have been cussed and discussed, talked about, lied about, lied to, writ up, ripped up, hung up and run down. The only reason we are staying in business is to see what in the hell is going to happen next."

Master David Blanton has been very anxious to secure a position of some sort during the summer months and The Standard has secured his services to collect subscription on the paper. He may not be as diplomatic as some collectors, but is just as sincere as he is working on commission and says he needs the money.

A four-way business center is operating in the C.L. Malone building at Malone and New Madrid streets. Besides the drug store on the corner, there is a pet shop immediately south, a barber shop and beauty shop. Operating the drug store and pet shop is Billy Malone. Mrs. Imogene Anderson manages the beauty shop and Joe Newton has the barber shop.

A motor mishap 10 miles this side of Memphis caused one group of high school students on the Southern tour more than 12 hours delay in returning home. A car Sunday night was forced into a ditch filled with water by a truck causing a head injury to Harold Swannagon, the driver, according to reports received here. The automobile belonged to W.H. Sikes, who went to the scene of the accident. Information phoned here said other occupants were not hurt. They are believed to be Mary Jane Sikes, Mary Louise Montgomery, Martha Haw, and Catherine Ann Cook.

Coffee Corner

—by Cherie—

Reasons Charles gave me the other day as to why I had married him:

1. to open pickle jars
2. to paint the house (as slow as his moving on this job, I really feel I could have made myself a better choice)
3. to get my cold feet cozy on his warm back
4. to unscrew my fingernail polish bottle tops
5. to pay the bills (here again I have doubts as to the wisdom of what I picked)
6. to fuss at
7. to carry out the trash
8. to pry open jelly jars
9. to put the stand on the Christmas tree (always with my help I might add)
10. to prune the roses
11. to drive the car when going on trips
12. to pop the cork in a wine bottle
13. to love, honor, cherish (and occasionally obey), but it seems he forgot that one poor, pitiful, mistreated baby - he should complain, just wait until I make my list up of reasons why he married me!!! - course they really could be condensed into just one - cheap labor!!

MOM

It's hard to say the things we feel
When heart's are full, and love's revealed,
You've meant so much through all the years
And caused the sun to shine through tears.

When times were hard, and we were small,
You found the strength to love us all
The years passed on, but still we knew
Our faith and trust belonged to you.

You gave your best to each of us,
And never once complained or fussed,
You seemed to know the things we need
A word, a smile or some kind deed.

Dear Mom, we never can repay
The things you do for us each day
This world would have a brighter view
If all the Mom's were just like you.

Cernan's Slovak Relatives Follow Astronauts Closely

VYSOKA NAD KYSUCOU, Czechoslovakia (AP) — "They have returned to our planet. Let's drink to our cosmonauts .. our cosmonauts," the husky Slovak said, raising a glass of brandy.

Imrich Cernan, cousin of American astronaut Eugene Cernan, proposed the toast in a darkened room full of Slovaks.

They were crowded around a television screen so small it needed a magnifying glass to enlarge the flickering image of Apollo 10 brought from the Pacific by satellite, Eurovision and Czechoslovak TV.

By "our cosmonauts" Imrich meant Eugene A. Cernan, Thomas P. Stafford and John W. Young.

Especially Cernan. The Navy commander is a hero to this town of his forebears and its citizens are hoping he will visit them.

Waiting for the astronauts to be fished out of the ocean, Imrich said: "They're sure to be drinking to each other's health right now. They've got a tape recorder and recordings and spaghetti in there, surely they must have a bottle of something to drink."

The three astronauts appeared clearly on the screen aboard the recovery ship Princeton a few minutes later. Children in the crowded room said, "There's Cernan on the left. There's Stafford. There's Young."

Two of Andrew's four sons emigrated to America about 1900. One of them was the astronaut's grandfather, Stegan.

"Now more and more people here claim to be related to our Gene," said Imrich.

Three families of Cernan cousins can be found in this town of stucco and log houses lining the meandering Kysucou River on the eastern slope of the mountain range that divides Slovakia and Moravia, 250 miles east of Prague.

The population of Vysoka is 4,800, predominantly Catholic with a sprinkling of nonbelievers and Communists.

"We lit candles and prayed for the cosmonauts in the church last Sunday. It was our duty," said Imrich's mother, Katarina Cernanova, a sturdy woman of 54.

Imrich once served in the Czechoslovak Air Force and worked for the city government until the Stalinists ousted him in the early 1960s, he said. The father of a daughter 11 and a son 18 months old, he now helps his parents at the family sawmill, working from dawn to dusk.

The sawmill was closed in 1948, when the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, but family members said they were allowed to open it last year during the period of liberalization, provided that 30 per cent of the profits were turned over to the local government.

Another cousin, Mrs. Maria Kubackova, made contact with the American side of the family. Hearing about the astronaut named Cernan, she wrote to the space center 27 years ago. Since then, she has received letters and Christmas cards from Eugene, his wife, and his father, who died a year ago.

Mrs Kubackova sat silently before the television screen during the splashdown of Apollo 10. Then she sighed and said, "Now Eugene, his wife and daughter will be able to sleep well tonight."

Guard Leaves Lincoln U.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — National Guardsmen pulled out of Lincoln University Monday but were ordered to remain available for quick recall.

Maj. Gen. L. B. Adams, Missouri Adjutant General, said he and Col. E. I. Hockaday, superintendent of the highway patrol, agreed to relieve the 224 Guardsmen of their duties at the university where they had been stationed for the past week following an outburst of fires and shooting last Monday.

That left about 150 state troopers to police the tense campus as final examinations began for undergraduates.

The reward for conviction of those involved in the fires, meanwhile, climbed to $1,900 with the News — Tribune Publishing Co. of Jefferson City offering $500 over the weekend.

A faculty group is reported trying to add to the fund also. It was started by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes last Tuesday when he offered $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for setting fires that caused nearly $500,000 damage.

Minority Republican members of the House followed suit and matched the chief executive's offer. That was increased by two St. Louis men who offered $200 each.

Less than a dozen students have been arrested since the outbreak a week ago, most of them for curfew violations.

ARMED FORCES

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, ARK -- Colonel Eugene D. Minietta, 97th Bomb Wing commander, has been reassigned to Second Air Force Headquarters, Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana, where he will serve as Second Air Force assistant Deputy Chief of Staff / Materiel. He will be departing in June for the new assignment.

Colonel Minietta will assume full responsibility in January 1970 when the present Deputy Chief of Staff/Materiel, Colonel Charles D. Lewis, retires. The Deputy Chif of Staff/Materiel exercises supervision of all matters pertaining to aircraft and missile maintenance, procurement, materiel analysis, logistics, transportation, supply and services activities for all Second Air Force bases.

Colonel Minietta entered the service in January of 1942 as an aviation cadet at Bennettsville Army Air Field, South Carolina. He graduated from Spence Army Air Field, Moultrie, Georgia, in November of 1942 and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

The colonel served in Korea as a squadron commander and operations officer. He flew on 26 aerial combat missions and logged over 119 flying hours in B-26 aircraft during a nine month period.

For his performance, he received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

Entering the Strategic Air Command in October 1958, Colonel Minietta first served the Strategic Air Command at McCoy Air Force Base, Florida, as a B-47 bomb squadron commander. He entered the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island, in August 1963. While there the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island, in August 1963. While there he also received his masters degree in international relations from George Washington University.

Returning to Strategic Air Command duty in October 1963, Colonel Minietta served as deputy commander for maintenance, 450th Bomb Wing, Minot Air Force Base, North Dakota, until May 1965. He was reassigned as deputy commander for operations, Grand Forks Air Force Base, North Dakota, where he served until May 1966.

Colonel Minietta and his wife, the former Dorothea C. Arata, have three children. Colonel Kenneth E. Wehrman, presently assigned to Tan Son Nhut Air Base, REPUBLIC OF Vietnam, has been named to succeed Colonel Minietta as 97th Bomb Wing Commander.

Missouri Heritage

LEW LARKIN
In the Kansas City Times

John Cummins Edwards, the ninth governor of Missouri and one of the youngest (38) to be elected, joined the gold rush to California at the end of his term. He settled in Stockton and became its mayor.

Although Edwards did not become an outstanding governor, much history was written during his term. For example:

1. When the President called for Missouri volunteers in the War with Mexico, Edwards was quick to deliver.

2. He called out Missouri troops to back up Missourians in the "Honey war" with Iowa.

3. He pardoned James E. Burr, Alanson Work and George Thompson, the Illinois abolitionists, although it was not popular to do so.

When the War with Mexico started, President Polk, plus the War department and military strategists, deemed it a good idea to backstop any infiltration of Mexican armies from the Southwest into the United States. So, in May, 1846, the President issued a call for Missouri volunteers.

They would not be a part of the regular army but have battle status. The men would furnish their own horses and be reimbursed for service. The Missourians were frontiersmen, expansionists, fighters and visionaries.

The President wanted about 1,000 men. Within a month, 1,358 Missourians had volunteered, and Alexander W. Doniphan of Liberty was elected colonel. The record this group achieved, in defeating two much larger and more experienced Mexican armies was outstanding.

Gov. Lilburn Boggs, Edwards's predecessor, started the "Honey war" but Edwards wasn't about to run from another governor's challenge. In those days the harvesting of honey from trees was lucrative. The "finder," or owner, banded, or marked, the tree. And he paid a tax. Iowa insisted that some of the trees banded by Missourians were really in Iowa. The argument grew. Both governors called out armies. There was no shooting war but the controversy was not settled until years later when a congressional committee decided the precise boundary lines.

The three abolitionists had been charged with kidnaping, or stealing, Missouri slaves and freeing them. They were captured, tried, convicted and sentenced to the Missouri prison. The jury in Palmyra was out one hour and sentenced the three to 12 years each. Burr had been a ministerial student. One of the jurors in his trial was John M. Clemens, father of Samuel Clemens. Burr was sick while in prison, and suffered a broken arm in an accident. Alanson Work, whose father, Henry Clay Work, later wrote "Marching Through Georgia," also was pardoned by Edwards. The governor let Thompson, the more aggressive and fanatical of the three, stay in a little longer and then pardoned him.

A "Woman's bill," passed by the Legislature during Edward's term had some protective clauses for women, but there was a lot of double talk in it. It was meant to exempt the wife's property and possessions that she owned before marriage from any debts and liabilities after marriage.

Edwards didn't think it offered any protection for the wife, and really very little for the husband, and stated, "A separate property would change the character of the wife. In the (separate) management of her estate, she would lose the woman and become in character a man. All that was soft and tender and endearing would vanish, and she would grow sturdy, obstinate and masculine, as in the case where effeminate husbands surrender the reins of government to their wives."

MU to Award Honorary Degree to Tennessee Williams

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Tennessee Williams, Pulitzer Prizewinning playwright and a former student here, will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree at University of Missouri commencement exercises next Tuesday night.

Williams, known as Thomas Lanier Williams whn he studied arts and journalism here between 1929 and 1932, will receive the only honorary degree issued at the ceremonies in Memorial Stadium.

The graduating class will number about 3,750—just about the size of the entire student body when Williams was a student here.

Public Defender Bill Advances to Floor of House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Economics Committee of the Missouri House today approved a bill to establish a public defender system in Missouri. The vote was reported as 9 to 3.

It now is ready for final consideration in the House and if successful will still face the Senate.

The bill would set up 13 public defender districts in court circuits with heavy enough caseloads to make a fulltime defender staff feasible.

In smaller outstate circuits the courts would appoint defense attorneys for anyone not financially able to employ his own attorney. The state would foot the bill for the full time defenders and for the court-appointed attorneys. The appointed attorneys would get their expenses and a reasonable fee.

It was estimated the system, if enacted, would cost the state about $1.8 million a year.

Rep. Robert Jasper, D-Washington, economics chairman, said he thought it was foolish to approve bills that will cost money when the Senate has appeared to be opposed to any measures to increase state revenue. He said he voted against the defender bill.
